Safety

FROM ALL CINEMA FIRE RISKS

The Pyrene Automatic Extinguisher for Cinema Projectors extinguishes film fires instantly and automatically.

UNDER WAR CONDITIONS, it is imperative that every fire risk in your cinema should be fully protected. "Pyrene" Fire-Fighting Equipment provides the most complete protection.

FOR GENERAL FIRE RISKS, there are "Conquest" Soda-Acid Fire Extinguishers (now fitted with Dual Purpose Nozzle), "Pyrene" Everyway Hose Reels, and Hose and Hydrant Installations. Fires on electrical plant can be quickly extinguished with "Pyrene" Fire Extinguishers without risk of shock, as this special liquid is non-conductive.

FILM FIRES are instantly and automatically extinguished with the "Pyrene" Automatic Fire Extinguisher installed on the Projectors. Other "Pyrene" Appliances include Foam and C.O.2 Extinguishers, and special fire equipment for Air Raid Precautions.

As specialists in fire protection for cinemas, we offer you impartial advice—without charge or obligation.

Write now for further details to Dept. K.A.

A YEAR OF STRUGGLE

By S. G. RAYMENT,

Editor of Kinematograph Weekly.

IF the price of liberty is eternal vigilance, the Trade, in its struggle through 1941, has certainly paid up fully. And it is only fair to say that it has retained a bigger measure of liberty than could at one time have been anticipated. Ceaseless watch and immediate counteraction to the many threats from outside have kept the Industry running on an almost even keel. Let nobody think that circumstances have been easy; perplexities and anxieties have been constantly with us, but thanks largely to clever anticipatory measures, for which the head offices of the organisations deserve the greatest credit, and thanks also to the abnormal conditions which have taken with one hand but given with the other, the great majority of enterprises have enjoyed a prosperous period.

Of course, the only value in looking back is to put us in a better position to look forward, and some of the lessons we have learned in 1941 are very useful when we have to face a future which, at the very best, must present many pitfalls. However, we have certainly kept our morale, and it is reasonable to say our stock has risen, whether we are considering the Industry merely as a commercial undertaking or we look upon ourselves, as we should, as units of a great community facing unforeseeable perils.

It has not been very publicly recognised, but the one vital factor of the war, upon which our welfare—in addition to many far more important matters—depends, has been the Battle of the Atlantic. Deliveries of American product have been systematically made, and as we have a group of never-say-die producers working hard in this country, the anticipated shortage of features has been averted. It is not too much to say that the average programme shown in the cinemas is quite up to the normal of peace time, and occasionally beyond it. Our standard has been maintained at a period when almost every other has fallen.

When I wrote an introduction to the KINE. YEAR BOOK this time last year, I expressed confidence in the resilience of our Industry, and this has been amply justified. For we have not kept up so high a quality of entertainment without considerable strain. As far as the paying public is concerned, there have been no discomforts or signs of disorganisation; all the internal adjustments have been made with such unobtrusive efficiency that we can claim to have kept our troubles to ourselves.

How long this can be maintained nobody dare prophesy, because there are difficulties ahead which must steadily become more acute. The average kinema is equipped and furnished in excellent style, and the policy has always been to keep every detail up to the mark. There is, however, a time coming when replacements will be more and more hard to make, and eventually they will be impossible until factories can return to their peace time activities.

At the end of the year the chief cause of anxiety was the supply of valves for sound reproducers, and technical advisers could hold out little hope of our reservoirs being restocked. August was mentioned as the earliest date for replacements to be available, and as the projectionist gets no warning of a breakdown, it is in fear and trembling that the whirring machinery is started up day after day. Those who have never before given more than a passing thought to the near-perfect projection and reproduction we are accustomed to now have reason to thank the inconspicuous band of specialists who have kept wheels turning for so long. Their efficiency, however, is no longer of value if one or two essential parts give up the ghost, and that, I fear, is what is going to be a major trouble as time goes on.

We have suffered comparatively lightly up to the present, but that is because of our high standard of maintenance; and for this we have to thank our operators, the consulting engineers of the installation firms, and the ready appreciation of the kinema owners, who have, as a general rule, stinted nothing in the way of upkeep. As difficulties of production pile up, however, we shall be confronted with a state of affairs new to us, and one that baffles any attempt to take advanced precautionary measures.

As to the supply of British pictures, there have been several anxious inquiries about the possible reduction of quota obligations, but it is worth putting on record that during 1941 our producers turned out 56 feature films, one more than in 1940. This is a particularly fine achievement in face of the handicaps under which they have been working, which include an increasing shortage of artistes and also of technical studio workers, rising wage scales, and reduced number of floors available. The demands of the Services and the Labour Ministry have made it almost impossible to keep a staff together, but the almost impossible has been achieved, and however many headaches it may have cost the studio executives the work has carried on.

At the same time, we have had a slight alleviation in the matter of our quota obligations, and although the actual percentage of easement is only small, the relief has been considerable, so narrow is the margin between what can and what cannot be done. The demands of the Act have now been modified, so that the renters' quota is stabilised at 20 per cent. of feature films and 15 per cent. of shorts, with the exhibitors' figures standing at 15 per cent. and 12½ per cent. respectively. The real importance of this concession is the evidence it affords of an appreciation by the Government of the Trade's troubles. When the Minister of Information pressed for a production speed-up for 1942, he was given a list of 76 titles, with details of the studios and casts. This is the most effective way of registering the spirit that keeps the British film-making industry alive, for it must be remembered that we have already learnt all too well the obstacles which have to be surmounted in war conditions.

Before leaving the subject of British films I must call attention to one privilege at least we are enjoying that has never before been our fortune: no longer does the production chief concern himself on the subject of finance. For the first time in history, money is not one of his anxieties; there always seems to be enough available for any picture that has a practical basis. When it comes to studio space the supply is so much less than the demand that rents have soared beyond all reason; man-power is a painful problem; good stories want finding, as always; but the lack of money, which has in the past ruined many promising ventures, is no longer a worry. Early last year the Board of Trade outlined proposals which would make a sum of £500,000 available for loans to producers; but there is no record of this facility ever having been used.

Much of the output of our studios has, of course, been designed from the propaganda angle, and, on the whole, we must acknowledge that the shorts have achieved and maintained a high standard. But exhibitors who have already committed themselves cheerfully to the systematic screening of Ministry of Information shorts have been dogged by every appeal secretary in the country, and as a result the demands for free screen time have exceeded any practical man's powers to comply with them. Organisers of all sorts of local appeals—in addition to national ones—make their first call on the kinema, and frequently ask for permission to take up a collection into the bargain. Risk of audience resentment has kept this latter request in the background, but many complaints have been made that any increase in the slides, etc., we have been asked to show would push the entertainment films out of the programmes altogether.

Late in the year it was agreed that the only satisfactory way of dealing with all these demands would be to co-ordinate the propaganda requests, and the Industry asked that the Ministry of Information should act as the sole channel of approach. This at least would be a logical move, and would relieve individual exhibitors of the rather unpleasant task of refusing to give screen time to an appeal backed by influential local interests. In addition, of course, any duplication or clashing would be avoided.

The financial relations between the United States and ourselves have not been simplified as far as our business is concerned. Exhibitors were perturbed when they heard of the big investment of Warner money into A.B.P.C., and the C.E.A. circulated to Members of Parliament a strong letter emphasising the desirability of the circuit remaining completely British, and inviting them to let the President of the Board of Trade know their feelings on the matter. However, early in August, the official notification was made that the deal had been concluded and that Warner Bros. had bought for £900,000 two-million 5s. shares, which were part of those left to his widow by the late John Maxwell.

Government Departments—the Treasury and the Board of Trade—had been consulted during the later stages of the negotiations, and had intimated no objection to the transaction, which involved a substantial contribution of dollar exchange by Warner Bros. to the British Treasury. It was agreed that the control remained in British hands. Considerable satisfaction was felt at the conclusion of this deal, because, on the one hand, the enterprising American unit brought a big consignment of dollars into the country, and, in addition to this, showed in unmistakable fashion a sincere and practical confidence in the British business. Max Milder, managing director of Warner Bros. Pictures over here, forthwith became joint managing director—with Eric Lightfoot—of A.B.P.C.

Other important moves in the personnel at the "top table" of the Industry look like presenting us with a more closely organised industry in 1942 than ever. In October, came the news that C. M. Woolf, with J. Arthur Rank and Lord Portal, were in negotiation for the controlling interest in Gaumont-British. Mr. Woolf became joint managing director, with Mark Ostrer, on the same board from which he had resigned in 1935, before he formed General Film Distributors. Mr. Rank and Lord Portal also meant a great deal to the British production industry, for they had been for several years associated—through General Cinema Finance Corporation—and were considerable shareholders in the Company owning and operating Denham Studios. Mr. Rank has also become chairman of the General Theatres Corporation and of P.C.T.

Then, at the beginning of December, Oscar Deutsch died, the man who had built up the great and successful Odeon Circuit, with active interests in renting through his association with United Artists, and in production through his system of backing individual ventures by guaranteeing play-dates. It was his unique ability to envisage future developments that gave him the power to drive ahead as he did, and his chain was practically complete even before the outbreak of war put a stop to construction, but he was a man who, having reached the peak he had set out for, would inevitably make another one his mark. But the Odeon chain is no mean monument to the memory of a man under 50 years at his death.

The reconstitution of the Odeon board brought in J. Arthur Rank as chairman, and the possibility of closer association between Odeon and G.-B. was the subject of considerable trade discussion. However, no distinct move was apparent in this direction as the year closed, and, indeed, so complicated are the financial interests involved, that any definite action—even if it be thought necessary and desirable—could hardly be effected quickly.

So we see the three big circuits still dominating the conduct of the business as far as its exhibition side is concerned, but—allowing for the readjustments which followed the death of John Maxwell a year or so ago—all undergoing reorganisation from the top. That there will be any alteration in policy that the public will be able to detect is highly improbable, since the permanent officials keep steady hands on the actual conduct of the businesses. At the same time the possibilities are interesting to speculate upon, and in any event the general run of independent kinema proprietors throughout the country will have, as always, to watch the actions of the circuits for an indication of the course they themselves will have to steer.

On the whole, the country's demands upon the Industry have been met, and whatever difficulties we have had to fight we have kept the shows running. It has, however, not been without intense anxiety that we have seen more and more of our trained employees taken into other forms of national service, that is, of course, the Forces and the factories, and while successive dereservations have played havoc with the best laid schemes for maintaining adequate staffs, the kinemas have kept running with efficiency.

Naturally, replacements in the more highly specialised services have faced us with a grave problem, and recruits to the projectionists' ranks have been hard to find; but one expedient—the training of women for the operating box—has been developed in a considerable number of cases. On the whole, this has not been unsatisfactory, so far as it has gone, but only a super-optimist would claim that the complete solution is found in this direction. Once more we must count upon the traditional resiliency and resourcefulness of the kinema industry, and our reliance on these qualities has never yet let us down.

By SAM SHAIN, Editor, Motion Picture Daily.

AS the United States plunged into the war at the close of the year, first with the declaration of war against Japan, following its aggression, then against Germany and Italy, the film industry hastily began gearing itself for protection against raids; it pledged its full support to the President and it appeared to maintain a full flow of product for defence purposes.

Almost simultaneously with the declaration of war was the beginning of a move for inter-industry unity, sponsored by Allied States Association. Characterised by completely harmonious relations at a meeting of representative branches of the industry in Chicago, a Motion Picture Industry Conference Committee was set up. It is certain to be realigned on a more permanent basis.

A new Federal admission tax was enacted in line with efforts to increase national revenues to finance the gigantic war effort. Effective on October 1, the new tax called for a levy of 10 per cent. on all theatre admissions. The new tax had no appreciable effect on grosses, as the nation's film patronage took the levy in stride.

Probably the most distressing—and publicly heralded—of trade problems was the action of a group of isolationist members of the United States Senate, who put the industry "on the spot" with accusations of producing and distributing films designed as propaganda to bring the United States into the war. The matter was hotly fought, with Wendell Willkie, 1940 Presidential candidate, as the industry's counsel and champion in a series of Senate committee hearings. The industry gave better than it received in the interchange, aided by a sweeping national Press condemnation of the Senate investigation, and as the year drew to a close it was apparent that the investigation had been abandoned by its Senatorial sponsors. Eventually this was formally announced.

The theatres of the nation, and the production branch as well, threw themselves whole-heartedly into support of an all-out war effort. This took several forms. First, Hollywood studios, under the guidance of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Research Council, with Darryl F. Zanuck as chairman, began the production of a series of films designed for Army training. A committee of executives co-operating with the national defence effort obtained pledges from some 12,000 theatres to show special short subjects designed to assist.

Immediately following the entry of the United States into the war, the industry committee for national defence changed its name to the War Activities Committee—Motion Picture Industry, pointing up the trade's active and loyal support of the nation's war effort for maximum results.

Francis S. Harmon, who had been co-ordinator of the defence committee, resigned his post with the MPPDA, to serve as a full-time executive vice-chairman of the committee, of which George Schaefer, RKO president, is chairman.

A budget committee went into action to study and arrange for financing the cost of the film industry's war activities. The War Activities Committee is representative of all phases of the industry, exhibitors, distributors, producers, artists and the trade Press.

The nation's theatres collected upward of $1,000,000 in a drive to aid the United Service Organisation to provide entertainment for Uncle Sam's vast and growing conscripted citizen army and navy, while the industry aided in the preparation of a number of stage shows designed to tour all army camps and naval stations for the entertainment of the men at arms.

For British, Greek, Red Cross and other drives, the industry contributed with its usual open-hearted generosity.

There was considerable evidence as the year went on to substantiate the belief that the huge defence projects in the country were putting more money than for many years past into the pockets of the motion picture's potential audience, and box-office reports were reflecting that increase in spending power. On the production and distribution side, financial statements of the companies showed marked and, in some cases, remarkable improvement over recent past years. Universal, Paramount and Warners particularly showed substantial gains in net profit, despite contingency reserves against foreign losses and heavily increased American taxes.

Considerable dissatisfaction continued to be expressed by exhibitors with the workings of the consent decree in the New York antitrust suit brought by the Government against the five theatre-holding major companies.

Selling films in blocks of five was decried by exhibitors and distributors alike. Added worries came in the form of a Minnesota law, which prohibited selling in blocks of five or less, which caused the major consenting companies to obtain court permission to sell on the former block method, an "escape" from the terms of the consent decree.

The arbitration system provided by the decree apparently served a useful purpose, with the decline in the number of exhibitor complaints filed as the year drew to a close, indicating that the system was working effectively.

Television appeared to be "on the shelf" for the duration, as a result of priorities on materials, and theatre television at the end of the year was something for the future. Priorities caused a virtual cessation of new theatre building and a sharp decrease in theatre remodelling.

Executive personnel changes of unusual significance affected the industry during the year. T. J. Connors went from the M-G-M sales department to be personal assistant to Sidney R. Kent, at 20th Century-Fox. Gradwell L. Sears left the post of general sales manager at Warners, after many years, and become vice-president in charge of distribution for a revamped United Artists, with Carl Leserman, his former assistant at Warners, becoming U.A. general sales manager. Edward Raftery, general counsel for U.A., was named president on an apparently temporary basis, with the likelihood of another being named eventually. David O. Selznick assumed a major position in the affairs of U.A., which appeared headed forward. Maurice Silverstone had left as operating chief several months earlier.

Buddy DeSylva became head of Paramount production. Joseph Bernhard assumed new and more important duties as a Warner vice-president, with Ben Kalmenson succeeding Sears as general sales manager. Leonard Goldenson assumed charge of Paramount theatre operations.

Nicholas M. Schenck, of Loew's, Will Hays, of the MPPDA, and S. R. Kent and Herman Wobber, of 20th Century-Fox, all received new five-year contracts during the year.

In the first step in a realignment of the RKO organisation by George J. Schaefer, president, Peter N. Rathvon, formerly chairman of the executive committee, was elected a vice-president of the parent company; Malcolm Kingsberg was to be elected president of all RKO theatre subsidiaries, in addition to continuing as executive vice-president of Keith-Albee-Orpheum and Leon Goldberg, former KAO treasurer, had been elected treasurer of the parent company and all picture and theatre subsidiaries.

Joseph I. Breen left his post as head of the Production Code Administration to become studio chief for RKO; Samuel Briskin became Columbia production chief, and John J. O'Connor and Fred Meyers resigned as RKO Theatres executives to take executive posts with Universal. In Canada, N. L. Nathanson left his long association with Paramount-controlled Famous Players Canadian Corporation to head the Canadian Odeon Circuit, which immediately entered into sharp competition with Famous Players on Dominion theatre holdings.

THE EMPIRE OVERSEAS.

Australia

Although the number of films imported into Australia during the second year of war has lessened as compared with recent years, there is very little decrease in the number of reels and footage. For instance, there were 55 fewer American films, but the reels were 125 more, and the footage 107,382 greater; the tendency is for feature films to be longer. Fifteen years ago the average length of such films was six reels, and 5,963 feet; last year it was eight reels and 7,186 feet, which means that picture stories are, on the average, 13 to 14 minutes longer.

The number of standard films of all classes imported does not vary much from year to year, as will be seen from the following table:—

*1932	...	1,781	1936	...	1,684	1939	...	1,701
1934	...	1,514

In 1940, the 1,630 standard films of all classes—scenic, topical, educational, medical, commercial and dramatic—represented 5,246 reels, or 4,318,830 feet. Of these, 473 were feature films made up as follows:—403 from the U.S.A.; 62 from Great Britain, and 8 from other countries. Twenty-three feature films were rejected by the Censor in the first instance, but 11 were subsequently passed on appeal or reconstructed; of the 12 absolute rejections, 10 were American (2.48 per cent.), and 2 British (3.2 per cent.).

Notwithstanding war conditions the decrease in the number of British films imported has not been very great, and the percentage of British features is actually slightly higher than it was in 1938, 13.1 per cent. as against 13.0 per cent. Comparative figures are as follows:—

Feature Films.	1937.		1938.		1939.		1940.
		%		%		%		%
U.S.A. ...	397	79.3	403	86.3	400	80.3	403	85.2
Great Britain	103	20.5	61	13.0	76	15.3	62	13.1
Other Countries	1	.2	3	.7	22	4.4	8	1.7
Totals ...	501		467		498		473

During the period, 1933 to 1938, there has been a gradual decrease in the number of passages in feature films considered objectionable by the Australian Censor, but since 1938 the percentage of cuts made has risen from 11.5 to 15.8. In administering the wide discretionary powers given by the regulations, the Australian censorship has to bear in mind that the kinema is attended by all classes and ages of the population, but also that customs, habits and the generally accepted standards of propriety are constantly changing. The practice of classifying pictures as suitable for (1) "General Exhibition" and (2) "Adults Only," has not been entirely satisfactory, nor is it thought to have much influence on the distributor, exhibitor or parents. Many programmes, especially those in suburban and country theatres, are of mixed classification, an "Adult" and a "General" picture being shown on the same bill; a test of 118 double feature programmes in the suburban theatres of a capital city showed that in 49 cases both were adult, 47 "mixed" and only in 22 were both suitable for general exhibition. In Victoria, the law requires that the classification shall appear in all publicity and as a preface to the picture, but the law in that State, in force for several years, providing for the prohibition of the attendance of children between the ages of six and sixteen at the screening of certain pictures was repealed in 1932.

* The larger numbers in 1931 and 1932 were due to the fact that sound and silent copies of the same picture were brought in.

War conditions have created an eager demand for news reels and gazettes. Not only has the number and volume increased, but special care has been exercised in the presentation and timing of various items of propaganda relating to the national war effort. Australian news reels, which have been equal to and frequently better than the imported article for several years past, are being increasingly exported to other countries. The re-editing with added commentary in Australia of scenes taken in the war zones where Australians are actively engaged, has reached an exceptionally high standard.

Four Australian-made feature films were exported last year, or one less than the average for the last seven years. The existence of quota legislation in some States and the financial guarantees of one State have not had the effect of increasing Australian feature production, but substantial progress is hoped for when normal conditions prevail. In all, 1,013 films of all classes were exported from the Commonwealth during the year, made up as follows: 876 British films (including the four above-mentioned Australian productions), 104 from U.S.A., and 33 from other countries.

In April, 1940, Mr. W. S. Leslie was appointed Acting Appeal Censor in place of General Iven Mackay, who is at present on active service with the A.I.F.

In February, 1941, Ernest Turnbull was appointed, as managing director of Hoyt's Theatres, in succession to Charles Munro, resigned.

New Zealand.

In the course of the year under review, 1,693 films of all classes, totalling 4,597,730 feet, were examined by the New Zealand Film Censor. Of this number, four were rejected outright, six were deferred for the time being as unsuitable for exhibition under war-time conditions, 125 were passed subject to excisions, 187 were passed with recommendations that they were more suitable for adult audiences, and 18 were passed with the caution that they were not suitable for children. Appeals were lodged against three rejections; two were dismissed, and one was allowed. An appeal was also lodged against some proposed excisions from a film in which certain incidents were regarded as likely to be disturbing to young children. This film was, however, passed by the Board of Appeal without alteration. An analysis of the censorship operations shows that out of a total of 460 feature films, 37 came from Great Britain, three from Australia, 413 from U.S.A., three from France, three from Russia and one from Austria (made before the Anschluss). Of the four films rejected, three were feature films originating in U.S.A., and one a miniature (16-mm.) "short," also made in U.S.A. Compared with the previous year, the number of rejections was four as against six; the number of films requiring amendment was 125 against 127; the number of films recommended as more suitable for adults dropped from 229 to 187, while the number considered as definitely unsuitable for young people was 18, as compared with 13 in the previous year.

There was a considerable drop in the number of British films examined—440 as against 650 in 1939—due no doubt, to the difficulties of production in war time. The war has also had a marked influence on the type of films produced, both in Great Britain and in the United States; these combine a skilful blending of anti-Nazi propoganda with varied entertainment. Some excellent "short" feature films dealing with Britain's war effort and the activities of the Fighting Services were received for free distribution to theatres in New Zealand, and recently films from South Africa and Australia have also been made available for public exhibition.

In order to show the people of New Zealand something of what is being done locally for the national war effort, a film has been produced which shows the work and training of the Royal New Zealand Air Force; this film will, it is hoped, be shown in other parts of the British Empire.

Canada.

From first to last, there was scarcely a dull moment in the motion picture trade in Canada throughout the year 1941.

Primarily, the year saw the split between Famous Players Canadian Corporation and its president, N. L. Nathanson. The break that rocked the industry occurred as the result of a dispute over the control of the large Canadian circuit by Paramount in New York through ownership of common shares, with Nathanson contending that the Canadian screen should be under the influence of the people of the Dominion. After a series of directors' meetings, Nathanson resigned as president, to be followed by several directors and officers of the company, and J. J. Fitzgibbons, vice-president, was immediately made president. Nathanson countered by announcing the organisation of Odeon Theatres of Canada, Limited, many theatres for which had already been acquired, and a contest for supremacy appeared to be in the making—when the Dominion Government suddenly announced a ban on the erection of any further civilian structures costing more than $10,000, as a war measure.

The action of the Government actually had no direct connection with theatre developments, but it served to halt a building race, with Nathanson reported to be holding many sites in key positions on which to construct new kinemas. As an alternative, both Famous Players and Nathanson-Odeon turned to existing independent theatres and dozens of these were snapped up.

The year witnessed the startling disappearance of Hanson Theatres Corporation, whose 30 theatres in Ontario were taken into the Famous Players' fold following the resignation of Oscar R. Hanson as president. Hanson had been closely associated with Nathanson and became active head of Odeon. Then followed a sudden split between Nathanson and Hanson, Hanson resigning as president of Empire-Universal-Films, Ltd., Associated Theatres, Ltd., Sovereign Film Distributors, Ltd., and other companies, to form his own separate group of enterprises.

Still another stir occurred when Haskell Masters, formerly of Toronto, resigned from an important post at New York with United Artists Corporation to return to the Dominion to become president of Empire-Universal and general manager of Odeon Theatres. In the meantime, Famous Players had lost some of its executives to Odeon, but solidified its position both as to personnel and structures, gaining an alliance with 20th Century Theatres, controlling 40 theatres in Ontario, under the management of N. A. Taylor.

From another angle there were startling developments largely because of the war, and these also had telling effect upon the theatre field. Following conflicting rumours, the Canadian Government suddenly imposed a 20 per cent. war tax on all gross receipts of moving picture theatres which, as quickly, became virtually a levy on admissions to the general public because the owners immediately raised prices of tickets in proportion. A sore point was that the Government did not impose the same tax on the grosses of legitimate theatres, concert halls, orchestras, dance halls and amateur sports, all of which are opposition to the kinemas, but the Government officials ruled that other forms of entertainment were essential to the war effort—after the kinemas had extended every co-operation to the authorities in many war and loan campaigns. It might not have been intended, but this co-operation obviously fell off in subsequent months.

All moving picture theatres were placed under Federal licence and, in turn, the Canadian Government adopted a stabilisation policy for the avowed purpose of controlling the cost of living and thwarting a trend toward inflation by "pegging" the admission prices of all film theatres at the maximum level prevailing during the basic period from September 15 to October 11, and by fixing all salaries and wages on December 1 for the duration of the war, plus a minor bonus privilege to be decided every three months by the Government to compensate for variation in the living cost index. There was some complaint that film rentals to be charged to theatres had not been sealed and that the exhibitors were at the mercy of the film distributors, who, in turn, imported their product from countries which could not be controlled by any price-fixing of Canada. The Government gave assurance toward the close of the year, however, that arrangements would be made for a system of financial subsidies or reduction in import duties to take care of any higher cost of commodities which had to be brought in from foreign markets. This plan had yet to be worked out at the close of the year. What happened, all told, was that the theatre business in the Dominion practically came under Government control for the remainder of the war, no provision being made, however, for the absorption of any business losses to be suffered by the exhibitors.

Another important turn was the appearance of a Soviet feature once more at theatres in Ontario, Russian pictures having come under a general ban of the censor board in Ontario and other Provinces long before the outbreak of hostilities in 1939. This picture had not been submitted to the censors in other Provinces in 1941, and the future of Soviet pictures throughout the Dominion could not be foretold.

Theatres in a number of Canadian cities had their first taste of the effect of blackouts during the year, first as rehearsals in large cities when curious crowds thronged the streets and forgot the kinemas and then, when the Pacific trouble developed in December, as real blackouts because of raid threats. Inexperienced Canadians forsook the theatres on such occasions, attendance dropped very sharply and the trade saw evidence of appreciable loss until the people could adjust themselves.

Although the ban on new construction went into force in May, permission was granted for the completion of theatres already partly built but, because of the growing shortage of materials, and labour scarcity, it was not until Christmas Week that the last of the entirely new houses could be opened for business. The chains and independents had cleaned up their projects by that time and the New Year opened with not one new theatre projected or under construction. The year closed with 1,300 in operation.

India.

Indian business has continued on a satisfactory scale during 1941, with imports somewhat restricted due to war transport claiming priority and a reduced import order. Duty on import of exposed kinematograph film amounted during 1940-41 to Rs. 8,84,700. In addition, there is an octroi duty levied on arrival within some municipal areas—roughly 12 annas per entry. Entertainments tax during the year 1940-41 amounted to Rs. 45,36,161-5-0.

Hindi films exhibited during the year 1941 numbered 48, of an average length of 12,600 ft. The President of the Bengal Board of Film Censors has suggested that these films would be more entertaining if shorter, and in view of the curtailment of raw film, closer editing may result.

An interesting step has been taken by the Government of Sind and Cambay in the interests of Hindu-Moslem unity by exempting from entertainment tax a film which has the promotion of this unity as its aim. It is hoped that this action may be regarded as a precedent elsewhere.

Kinemagoers in India are estimated as 140,000,000 per annum, and it is thought that this number could be greatly increased by the wider adoption of 16-mm. films, having propaganda as their primary aim.

South Africa.

The past year has been remarkable for good business in the kinema world of South Africa, despite the established fact of overseating in some areas which has followed, due to the large building programme carried out during the last two years. The large revenue derived at the box offices is mainly due to war time conditions, such as the influx of evacuees from overseas, the large number of military camps spread all over the country. Hundreds of thousands of soldiers have been training, and have provided a big source of income for the kinemas.

With the conclusion of the war, carrying with it the exodus from South Africa of evacuees and military, a very serious problem in the kinema industry of South Africa is likely to arise. It will reveal the fact that too many kinemas are in existence, resulting in a large number of houses closing.

Rhodesia has prohibited theatre building until the end of the war.

Among the important openings of kinemas are the 1,000-seater Odeon at Sea Point, Cape Town, which made its bow on November 28, 1940; the Regent, Kensington, Johannesburg; Savoy, Benoni; New Bijou, Salt River, Cape Town; 20th Fox, Pretoria; Rex, Greenside, Johannesburg; Curzon, Wynberg; and Roxy, Germiston.

Schemes on hand are at Muizenberg, Cape Town; Potchefstroom; Maritzburg; and East London.

NATIONAL SCREEN Service

In the morning . . . a great heap of twisted steel and masonry in the basement . . . the labour of years.

The same evening . . . our business functioning again.

Thus, the N.S.S. Organisation emerges from its greatest test! ITS SERVICE MAINTAINED WITHOUT DELAY TO OVER 3,700 CUSTOMERS.

In spite of war-time conditions, the word "SERVICE" in the firm's title means "SERVICE" in the fullest possible sense.

 notice like this
 entry in this book*

If you are not in a position to cater for deaf patronage you are definitely losing regular business. The number who suffer from this disability is amazing. Latest statistics compute our deaf population at 6,500,000. Instal Ardenite for them and see your box office returns grow.

FILMS REGISTERED UNDER THE ACT.

Official Board of Trade List.

UNDER the new Films Act, Section 6, the Board of Trade must keep a register of films to which the Act applies. By the courtesy of the Editor of the Board of Trade Journal, we are enabled to present a list covering the period from December 1, 1940, to December 31, 1941.

Films, the names of which appear in italics, are parts of series (or serials).

The figures under the heading "Length (feet)" have, in several cases, been altered since the original registration and the corrected figures now appear. Other corrections as notified by the Board of Trade have been made: Br. before the Registered No. indicates a British Film; F., a Foreign Film; and E. is British, but not available for British quota.

KEY TO REGISTRATION PREFIXES.

Br./E. indicates "Registered for the exhibitors' quota only."

Br./R. indicates "Registered for the exhibitors' and renters' quotas."

Br.—DR. indicates "Registered for the exhibitors' quota and doubled for the renters' quota."

Br.—TR. indicates "Registered for the exhibitors' quota and trebled for the renters' quota."

THE DOCUMENTARY FILM AND ITS FUTURE

By DONALD TAYLOR

MANAGING DIRECTOR OF STRAND FILM CO., LTD.

IN 1941 the documentary film finally consolidated its position in the Film Industry. The Government subsidy has brought this position about, but the success of the "Target For Tonight" films, and the Ministry of Information five minute shorts, has given the documentary a permanent place in audiences' minds. Now the documentary is an accepted part of regular cinema entertainment.

In 1941 documentary made a big contribution to the cause of inter-Empire unity. The unit working under John Grierson's direction in Canada and the unit which Alexander Shaw set up in India made a great number of notable films during this year. The exchange of information and understanding between the Empire countries has been undoubtedly furthered by this production and exchange of films. It is to be hoped that in the future there will be an extension of this exchange of films by sending out similar units to other dominions.

Documentary could prove of even greater value to the war effort and further the Allied cause in 1942 by the setting up of similar documentary units in each of the Allied capitals. The documentary film can go a long way to develop mutual understanding in the varied composition of the Allied front.

INCREASED RESOURCES.

On the home front many domestic problems have been solved in 1941. The reservation of the majority of the personnel engaged in documentary has ensured a continuous output of films for the Government's purposes. The developing resources of documentary are indicated by the number of films it has produced in this year. It has almost trebled its peace time production. Service facilities required for the making of Government films have been greatly improved in this year, although red tape has hampered and unnecessarily delayed the production of many films.

The relations between documentary and the Association of Cine-Technicians has always been good, although there are still many companies that have failed to recognise the Union. However, too much time has been wasted on fruitless negotiations when there are other things to do and when the differences could easily be resolved. It seems necessary that there should be a general agreement contract covering working conditions.

SPEARHEAD OF OFFENCE.

In general, documentary must look to the Government to make wider use of its ideas and possibilities in 1942. There has still not been sufficient realisation of the value of the film as a weapon of war. There has been a recent book called "Blitzkrieg," by a Czech general, who has studied his subject with thoroughness. He describes the main tactic of blitzkrieg as being that of infiltration, and that film has been the spearhead of this infiltration in every attack Germany has made.

While there is not a great opportunity for similar use of film to-day, it is still not generally realised that film is a vital weapon of war. Unfortunately, the main use of film documentary in 1941 has been to bolster home morale. It has not occurred to our rulers that home morale is sounder than it ever has been.

The documentary film must be used more imaginatively. The use of documentary in 1942 must be to open up people's minds to the motives governing this war and its strategy. It must also inspire people with the necessity of winning this war for the world to come. It must serve the cause of inter-Imperial understanding—it must bring understanding among widely divergent views of the Allied countries. It must serve as a spearhead of action.

VERITY

Films of Great Britain, Ltd.—The associated companies, Films of Great Britain, Ltd., and Andrew Buchanan Productions, were exactly one year old in January, 1942, though they are the outcome of the 20 years' experience of their founder, Andrew Buchanan. During the first 12 months, no fewer than 14 productions have been completed, ranging from Governmental and industrial films, one, two and three reels in length, to publicity films. Their second year will see an immediate expansion in several technical directions, and in the building up of a special photographic department.

Merton Park Studios, Ltd.—Seventeen films were completed during 1941 by this firm, three of which—"Queen Cotton" (C. Musk), "Western Isles" (T. E. Bishop), and "Saving Saving" (Maclean Rogers) were in Technicolor. Among the more interesting subjects were "Salute to Farmers" (M. Tully), "Full Cycle" (J. E. Lewis), "Learning to Live" (H. Purcell), and "We Were There" (C. Musk).

Ealing Studios.—The shorts department has made several interesting subjects under the direction of Carnecanti and two two-or-three reel documentaries are now in production, which will deal with the Fleet Air Arm, which Compton Bennett is directing, and another on the freedom of the British Press is engaging the attention of Charles Crichton. A third, dealing with Britain's industrial army, is in preparation.

The Strand Film Co., Ltd.—The proud position in the documentary film movement held by Strand has been retained despite the recent influx of many new production units.

Donald Taylor, the managing director of the company, has not let the war interfere with the high standard of the Strand productions. In addition to an expert team of directors, writers and cameramen, he brought many distinguished names to the screen, including the famous authors—Graham Greene, St. John Ervine, Cecil Day Lewis and George Blake. Several well-known B.B.C. announcers, including Bruce Belfrage, Alan Howland, Alvar Liddell and Joseph Macleod, and also Muir Mathieson and William Alwyn, the noted musicians. During the past year Strand have produced a number of M. of I. "five-minuters," documentaries for theatrical release, propaganda films for the overseas market and also several Technicolor subjects. The number of films scheduled for production during 1942 gives every indication that Strand Films seventh year of documentary film-making will be its busiest.

British Films, Ltd.—The strides made by this company even since the outbreak of war, which saw its Albany Street studios heavily blitzed, must be gratifying to the small body of men who have worked so arduously for the success which now seems to be theirs. Despite enemy action, cameras have not ceased turning nor workshops humming with activity in a concentrated effort to provide instruction and propaganda as a material contribution to the war effort.

Since the formation of the company, 11 years ago, upwards of 150 advertising, propaganda and documentary and instructional films have been produced. Great hopes were cherished for an ambitious series of short entertainment films, which were to make a fortnightly appearance in British cinemas, but the destruction of their studios prevented the consummation of these plans. The production unit, however, worked hard to find its feet again, and to-day, although hampered by lack of staff, and other war restrictions, they are giving invaluable service to the Government by the production of instructional films, principally for the Air Ministry.

Concanen Films.—One of the great documentary "hits" of the year has been "Seaman Frank," produced by Derrick de Marney for the National Savings' Committee. One important side of Concanen's activities is the production, in association with the Polish Ministry of Information, of a series of pictures dealing with the country and the war-work of its nationals. This year this successful association will be continued, and two subjects, one dealing with the Polish sea effort and another with their air arm, are scheduled.

G. B. Instructional.—Production of the "Secrets of Life" series is being resumed with six more subjects scheduled for 1942. Other films completed or in preparation are "Pacific Ocean," the "Indian Ocean," stories of the oceans, "Maize," "Newt," "Chemistry of Water," and a companion picture.

Public Relationship Films, Ltd.—Although one of the smaller documentary producing companies, this company has scheduled a varied and interesting programme, including propaganda films for the Ministry of Information, the National Savings Committee and other official and semi-official bodies. According to L. G. Matthews, script editor and director, the need for human interest, both in serious and lighter moods, in propaganda films is becoming increasingly important. This type of approach is something the company is particularly anxious to develop. The make-up of the company qualifies them to produce films of a medical nature, which may prove a necessity of the first importance as the war extends.

Verity Films, Ltd.—Sydney Box, managing director, considers that after two years of total war the film industry is still putting forth something less than total war effort. The studios gave generously—some think too generously—of their technicians. Those who are left are working at considerable pressure. The output of propaganda, and pseudo-propaganda, films is greater than ever before, but the full impact of the film on the propaganda front has yet to be felt.

The feature film makers have yet to learn that truth is stronger, as well as stranger, than fiction. The short film makers are still underestimating the necessity for entertainment value to give wings to their propaganda message. Both are suffering from the fact that Government departments are unable, or unwilling, to give a clear lead on propaganda.

Here is Verity's New Year resolution: During 1942 Verity will make only those films which seem to us to be of positive value to the war effort. This does not mean that we shall confine ourselves to working for Government departments. Far from it. We believe that commercial sponsors have a right to make propaganda films in war as well as peace. We believe that they have an important part in amplifying Government propaganda in its references to their industries, in explaining to the public their trade problems and the steps they are taking to meet them, in acting as a corrective to complacency and self-satisfaction in high places. But we have no technicians to spare for films which at this moment in history seek to exploit the interests of individuals at the expense of the community.

OBJECTS.

The objects of the Association are:—

(a) To promote good will and a good understanding between all Proprietors of Kinemas and other places of entertainment, and between them and such persons as work for them, and between them and the Manufacturers and Renters of Films.

(b) To provide a fund for the protection of the interests of the Members of the Association and to protect them from oppression.

(c) To secure unity of action among Proprietors of cinemas and other places of entertainment and in particular to secure that film rentals paid or payable by Members of the Association shall not exceed the maximum sums fixed from time to time by the Council of the Association in accordance with these Rules.

(d) To promote by all lawful means the adoption of fair working rules and customs of the trade.

(e) To organise means to secure and if at any time considered necessary themselves supply means whereby a free and unrestricted circulation of films and other trade requisites may be secured for Members of the Association.

(f) To resist by all lawful means the imposition by public authorities or other persons of terms and conditions upon the trade which are unreasonable or unnecessary.

(g) To secure legislation for the protection of the interests of Members, and to promote or oppose and join in promoting or opposing Bills in Parliament.

(h) To adopt such means of making known the operations of the Association as may seem to the Council expedient.

(i) To promote a good understanding between all local authorities and the Members of the Association, and to take any steps in furtherance thereof in matters which are the subject of local government, and which in the opinion of the Council may be in the interests of, or for the protection of the Members.

(j) To adopt any means which in the opinion of the Council may be incidental or conducive to the above objects.

The Scientific and Technical Society of the Industry. Its meetings are held normally from October to April in the Gaumont British Theatre Wardour Street, and comprise lectures and demonstrations on all subjects of technical interest. The Society also provides courses of specialised technical instruction for its members, and is responsible for organising the course in Kinematography at the Regent Street Polytechnic.

The Society works in close co-operation with the British Standards Institution and with the International Standards Association, by whom the Society is recognised as the technical representative of the British Film Industry.

The Journal, in which appear full reports of its meetings, is published quarterly.

Active, Associate or Colonial membership of the Society is open to any person engaged in the Film Industry; Student membership is open to persons under 21 taking an approved course in Kinematography.

THE PERFORMING RIGHT SOCIETY LIMITED.

COPYRIGHT HOUSE, 33, MARGARET STREET, LONDON, W.I.

Telegrams: PERFORIGHT, WESDO, LONDON.

An Association of Composers, Authors, Publishers and Proprietors of Copyright musical works, established to issue licences for the public performance of such works. The Society is not concerned with plays, sketches or other works of a non-musical character, nor with operas, musical plays or other dramatico-musical works performed in their entirety, but it is concerned, inter alia, with performances of music in conjunction with cinematograph films.

The Copyright Act of 1911 prohibits any public performance without the written permission of the Copyright Owners, and the Society's licence gives the permission required by the Act for the works not only of the Society's members, but also those of members of the similar Societies of U.S.A., France, Spain, Sweden, Italy, Germany, and most other countries of Europe and the American continent (the Society's control of works of enemy origin continuing notwithstanding the war.) The total number of composers, authors and music publishers thus represented is approximately 50,000.

Licences are required for any public performance, whether given by mechanical means or otherwise, and are granted not to musical directors, vocalists or musicians as such, but to proprietors of premises at which music is publicly performed or to the promoters of musical entertainments.

THE LEGAL SURVEY OF 1941.

By NORMAN HART, B.A.

(Solicitor to the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association.)

IN my article for this year I think it might be advisable before touching on other important matters that have affected the industry if, in view of the numerous inquiries I have had, I were to deal with the main War Acts and Orders affecting the Industry and I, therefore, propose to give a few explanatory comments on these Acts, upon which many points of doubt exist, with the hope that it will be of advantage to the readers of the YEAR BOOK. The first and main Act I propose to deal with is the War Damage Act, 1941. This Act is divided into four parts:—

Part 1 relates to the compulsory contribution scheme of compensation.

Part 2 is divided into two parts. It provides (1) a compulsory scheme of insurance for all moveable assets of business undertakings; and (2) a voluntary scheme of insurance for personal chattels.

Part 3 comprises certain amendments in the existing statutes relating to the War Risks Insurance Scheme for commodities.

Part 4 deals with miscellaneous and general matters.

I propose to deal here with Parts 1 and 2, as there appears to be a great deal of misunderstanding with regard to these two parts. Many exhibitors seem to think that both these parts are insurance schemes. This, of course, is not correct.

Part 1 is a contributory scheme and relates to buildings and other immoveable property. Thus, so far as plant and machinery are not goods and are included in the Schedule to the Plant and Machinery (Valuation for Rating) Order, 1927, No. 480, they form part of buildings or other immoveable property and if destroyed or injured by enemy action will be part of the subject matter in respect of which a "value" payment or "cost of works" payments is made.

It provides for a contribution to be made towards the expense of payments for war damage to land, building and other immoveable property (including rateable plant and machinery) occurring during the period beginning with September 3, 1939, and ending August 31, 1941 (which I shall refer to as the "risk period"). Such contribution is normally charged in respect of each property for which a separate valuation for Income Tax under Schedule "A" or for rating had effect in the "risk period."

The contribution is usually calculated on the net Schedule "A" assessment in force at September 3, 1939. If there was no Schedule "A" assessment it is calculated on the net annual value for rating as at September 3, 1939.

The contribution for the risk period is payable by five annual instalments at the rate of 2s. in the £ on July 1, 1941, 1942, 1943, 1944 and 1945. It is payable in the first instance by the person who is in occupation of the land or building, etc., and he is entitled to deduct the amount from his next payment of rent less, of course, the proportion for which he is responsible on account of his having a proprietary interest in the land or building. As to the proportion payable by the interested parties the tables are set out in the explanatory note, which was sent to each contributor with the first demand for payment due July 1, 1941.

The basis of compensation will be in payment of two kinds—a "Cost of Works" payment and a "Value" payment. A "Cost of Works" payment will be made as and when the repairs are carried out. A "Value" payment will be made at such time as may be decided. As regards a "Value" payment, interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum will accrue from the date of the damage and will be paid when the compensation is paid.

I would just mention here that where a person is selling property, the most convenient way for him to deal with the contributions which are to be paid in the years 1942, 1943, 1944 and 1945, is to clear the property of all liability by paying the contributions in advance under Section 32 of the Act, but if he does not care to do this, the amount he would have to pay under that section could be deducted from the purchase price.

With regard to Part 2 of the Act, I only propose to deal with the first part—the Business Scheme. I do not propose to deal with the second part—the Private Chattels Scheme.

The Business Scheme has to do with the insurance of business equipment and plant and machinery (not referred to in the Plant and Machinery (Valuation for Rating) Order 1927, No. 480) and moveable articles and the premiums are payable through an insurance company.

It is the owner of the goods who is compelled to insure if the goods are worth more than £1,000. If they are of less value than £1,000, whilst the owner is not compelled to insure yet I would strongly advise him to do so, so that he may obtain compensation should war damage occur. As to the value for which you should insure, the Act requires you to insure for the full replacement value.

With regard to the person who must compulsorily insure a certain amount of doubt seems to have arisen under Section 60 of the Act and the Statutory Rules and Orders 1941, No. 450.

Section 60 Sub-section (1) sets out what goods are insurable, that is, may be insurable, under the scheme.

Section 62 of the Act is a mandatory clause and sets out what must be insured.

The Statutory Rules and Orders 1941, No. 450, lays down who must compulsorily insure.

It must be obvious, however, that there does not seem to be any advantage in the user of the goods (if he is not the owner of them) insuring under Section 60 of the Act, seeing that the owner must compulsorily insure under the Statutory Rules and Orders. This would mean that there would be two insurances in respect of the same article, and one can hardly suppose that the Government would pay two amounts of compensation for the same article. In the case of a lease, where the theatre together with the fixtures and fittings are leased, it is the lessor who must compulsorily insure as he is the owner, but where the lessee has put in some of his own things, which he himself has paid for, it would be advisable for him to insure these goods, even if their value is under £1,000, though what he will get if the chattels are destroyed I cannot say. There is nothing in the general law to give to a third party any of the benefits of the insurance apart from contract or trust.

Under Section 2 of the general conditions contained in the third schedule to the War Damage Business Scheme Order, it is laid down that the insured must give to the Board, amongst other things, particulars of the interest of any other person in the property, and the idea of this may be to ascertain the extent of the interest of the insured in the property so that he may not receive a sum in excess of indemnification for his loss, or it may mean, inferentially, that the Board of Trade will recognise in some manner the interest of any such other person.

There is no replacement clause in the Act, but under Section 4 of such general conditions, the Board of Trade may, if it thinks fit, reinstate all or part of the insured property instead of paying cash.

I should have thought that in all cases where the lessor and owner must insure and the lessee and user may have an insurable interest, for what it is worth, that an arrangement should be arrived at between the two parties to share the premium, and should any damage or loss be sustained, then the amount of compensation could be divided as agreed between the lessor and the lessee.

I would point out that as regards a hiring agreement, the compulsory insurance is on the owner of the goods, not the hirer, but if it is a hire purchase agreement, then the compulsory insurance would be on the hirer who has the right eventually to purchase the goods.

With regard to the hire of films, as the renter is the owner of such films, he is the person who must compulsorily insure.

As to what are moveable and immoveable fixtures and fittings, there appears to be some doubt. As regards a kinema, such things as electric light fittings, curtains, carpets, pianos, neon and other exhibition signs, colour lighting equipment, etc., come under Part 2 of the Act, and according to an opinion expressed by the War Damage Commission and the Board of Trade, such items as projectors, arc lamps and resistances, internal telephones, statutory category boards, vacuum cleaning plant, picture screen, sound apparatus (not leased), operating box equipment, fireproof curtains and the like, also come within Part 2.

In view of this opinion, it does seem to me that the sooner the Act is amended to make the position clear it will be the better for everybody because it is well known that a very large number of rating authorities, when arriving at the assessment for the rates or Schedule "A" of a theatre, take into consideration the seating, fireproof curtains, projectors and all those sort of things, on the principle that they enhance the value of the premises and should be taken into account in ascertaining the rateable value and hypothetical rental of the premises. They are an essential and necessary part of the premises, and accordingly one would have thought should have come under Part 1 of the Act. The difficulty arises from the lack of uniformity in the method of arriving at an assessment. The only measure of uniformity is a uniform unwillingness to consider a kinema as an empty shell.

However, in view of the opinion expressed by the Board of Trade and War Damage Commission, one must take it, for the present at any rate, that these articles are insurable under Part II, despite the fact that they may have been taken into consideration in arriving at the assessment of the theatre. This, in my opinion, places the owner in a somewhat unfair position, because he is paying two insurances. He is paying the contributory share under Part I, based on the assessment if arrived at as beforementioned, and he is also paying the insurance under Part II, as being moveable chattels. This does not seem right. The present view taken seems to be that if these fittings are not included in the Schedule to the Plant and Machinery (Valuation for Rating) Order, 1927, then they come under Part II and are insurable accordingly.

With regard to the sound equipment held on a lease, the insurance is compulsory on the owner, that is the company, under Section 62 of the Act, as they are goods owned by the company, even though not in its possession. An exhibitor cannot be required to contribute to the premiums payable by the sound company, but if they are asked to do so it might pay them to comply on terms. I would point out that if the compensation is insufficient to restore the equipment, no one is compelled to provide for the deficit, the lease comes to an end for want of content.

An opinion has been expressed by the Board of Trade that in some cases the hirer may have an "insurable interest," although its value may be purely nominal. I would strongly advise exhibitors, if possible, to try to come to some arrangement with the owners of the sound equipment so as to share the premium and have an interest in the amount of compensation should damage or loss occur. The amount for which these sound equipments are being insured to-day is the replacement value at the time of the damage. There is nothing in the Act making the owner reinstate the apparatus.

With regard to the Landlord and Tenant (War Damage) (Amendment) Act, 1941, it will be remembered that under the Landlord and Tenant (War Damage) Act, 1931, if premises were damaged by enemy action, there were two ways open to the lessee if he wished to avoid payment of future rent:

(1) to disclaim the lease, which the landlord may or may not accept.

(2) to retain the lease and under these circumstances the lessee would make good the damage himself within a reasonable time, but during that time no rent is payable.

The Landlord and Tenant (War Damage) (Amendment) Act, 1941, amended the 1939 Act in that where land or buildings are unfit by reason of war damage and the lessee proposes to serve upon his lessor a notice of his intention to retain the lease, he should include therein a condition that it is to be treated as a notice of disclaimer if the War Damage Commission determine to make a "value" payment under Part I of the War Damage Act, 1941. Certain formalities have to be complied with.

It also amends the 1939 Act in that it shall not apply to short tenancies, that is tenancies or sub-tenancies which the tenant is entitled to determine at any time by a notice expiring not later than the end of the next complete quarter or the next complete period of three months of the tenancy.

Under Sectional Sub-section 2 of the Act if and so long as any land let on a short tenancy is unfit by reason of war damage and is not occupied either in whole or in part by the tenant no rent is payable under the tenancy.

The Act also amends the 1939 Act so that it shall apply to ground leases.

This Act, like the other War Damage Acts, is somewhat complicated and I would advise any exhibitor whose premises have been affected in any way by war damage to obtain the advice of the Legal Department of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association as to the best mode of procedure to adopt in his case.

The Liabilities (War Time Adjustment) Act, 1941, was primarily passed to provide for the arrangement or adjustment and settlement of the affairs of persons financially affected by war circumstances, and the principle of the Act aims at the tiding over of the period of adversity suffered by a debtor whose business would under normal conditions have shown a profit, and the Act seeks to establish this principle on terms, which would be fair to both the debtor and his creditors.

Any person who is in serious financial difficulties, owing to war circumstances, may apply to the "Liability Adjustment Officer" appointed under the Act for his particular district for advice and assistance. This officer will advise and assist the debtor to arrive at a fair and reasonable scheme of arrangement as will enable him to preserve his business or to recover it when circumstances permit. Briefly, the Act gives persons in financial difficulties power to apply to the Court to have their affairs gone into and adjusted by the Liabilities Adjustment Officer, thereby protecting that person's means of livelihood despite the fact that he has certain liabilities, which he cannot meet through war circumstances whether such liabilities were incurred before or after the commencement of the war.

If any exhibitor does find himself in this unfortunate position he would be well advised to get into touch with the Legal Department of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association because the Act is somewhat complicated and there are many formalities to be gone through.

There have been many Statutory Rules and Orders issued under the Emergency Powers (Defence) but as the space allotted to me is small it is only possible for me to deal with one or two of them, which I consider are most important and especially concern exhibitors, and which should be carefully noted.

The first one is Statutory Rules and Orders, 1941, No. 1760, The Control of Paper (No. 36) Order, 1941, and has to do with the control of paper. Under Clause 3 of the Order it states : No person shall in the United Kingdom (a) print or make any poster exceeding 1,200 square inches in area ; (b) exhibit any poster exceeding 1,200 square inches in area unless that poster was printed or made before the coming into force of this Order ; (c) affix any poster within 100 feet of any other poster displaying identical or substantially identical advertising matter unless each poster is affixed within or at any entrance to any premises and the matter displayed on each poster relates to services rendered in those premises ; (d) exhibit any poster advertising or relating to the sale of goods unless that poster was printed or made before the coming into force of this Order ; (e) exhibit any poster printed after May 27, 1940, and advertising or relating to the sale of any newspaper, news-bulletin, magazine or periodical ; (f) exhibit at one time more than 10 posters the contents of which relate to any one programme of entertainment to be given at any theatre, kinema, dance-room, sports-ground, racecourse or other place of private or public entertainment.

Under Clause 5 of the Order it is stated that no person shall in the United Kingdom in connection with the printing, publication, distribution, sale or other disposal of any newspaper, news-bulletin, magazine or periodical, insert therein any loose advertising matter unless that advertising matter was printed or made before the coming into force of this Order.

This Order came into force on November 12, 1941.

Another Order is that known as Food Control Committees (Local Distribution) Order, 1939, Statutory Rules and Orders, 1939, No. 1312, and although it came into force so far back as October 9, 1939, yet many exhibitors do not seem to be aware of it.

Under this Order any person who wishes to sell by retail chocolates, sugar confectionery, cakes and biscuits and any of the specified foods mentioned in the Schedule to the Order in his theatre must obtain a licence.

If this licence has not been already obtained application should be made to the Food Control Office in the district.

Another very important Order to be complied with is the Fire Prevention (Business Premises) (No. 2) Order, 1941, Statutory Rules and Orders, 1941, No. 1411, which Order came into operation on September 22, 1941.

The Order applies to all business premises situated in any such area as may be prescribed by the Regional Commissioner acting under authority delegated to him by the Minister of Home Security, and " business premises " are defined as any premises occupied wholly or partly for the purpose of any business, trade or profession.

The fire prevention arrangements at business premises, to which the Order applies, may be either voluntary or compulsory. In either case the approval of the appropriate authority is required before the arrangements become binding upon those concerned. Under a compulsory arrangement, the duty of performing fire prevention duties is so far as possible appointed equally among all concerned.

The Order provides that every occupier of business premises shall consult with the persons working at the premises as to arrangements for the necessary fire-watching of the premises, and should notify the appropriate authority as to the arrangements made and as to the proposed scheme for fire prevention, which scheme must be approved by the appropriate authority for the district, and all male persons (who have not obtained exemption under the Order) between the prescribed ages (usually 18-60) working at the business premises are under an obligation to perform such fire prevention duties as may be allotted to them under the approved arrangements.

The occupier of the business premises must arrange that the period for which the duties are required to be performed by any such person outside his working hours does not exceed 48 hours in each period of four weeks, and he must allow to such persons subsistence allowance as follows :—

- (a) In respect of any occasion on which a person performs under the arrangements fire prevention duties outside his working hours for a continuous period not exceeding 12 hours 3s. 0d.
- (b) For a continuous period exceeding 12 hours but not exceeding 18 hours 4s. 6d.
- (c) For a continuous period exceeding 18 hours but not exceeding 24 hours 6s. 0d.

With regard to the subsistence allowance to persons performing fire prevention duties in the case of compulsory arrangements, these payments are to be paid by the occupier of the business premises concerned. Occupiers will be reimbursed from the Exchequer through the appropriate authority in respect of payments so made. Whilst this obligation is not imposed by the Order where the arrangements are voluntary, yet it is intended that in practice occupiers should in such cases pay not less favourable scales of subsistence allowances, and they will be reimbursed from the Exchequer through the appropriate authority in respect of payments made by them on this account up to the scale prescribed above.

The Order also provides that occupiers of premises which are adjoining or neighbouring or in the same building, may, if they so desire, make joint arrangements for those premises.

To meet the case where it may happen that the number of available men working at particular business premises is not sufficient to enable the occupier to make fire prevention arrangements for those premises in the manner laid down in the Order, there is a provision by which the occupier is entitled to notify the appropriate authority that he is unable to make the necessary arrangements and if, on examining the facts, the appropriate authorities are satisfied that this is the case, they may in such circumstances assume control, to such extent as is considered necessary, of whatever arrangements are made.

As will be seen, there are many formalities to be gone through to comply with this Order, and if the exhibitor has any doubt in his mind he should not hesitate but get into touch with his local authority and ascertain what is required from him and, if still in doubt, with the Legal Department of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association.

Under the new Order, which has been tabled under the Cinematograph Films Act, the Exhibitors' quota for the year commencing October, 1942, will be reduced to 15 per cent. and the quota for the shorts commencing October 1, 1942, will be 12½ per cent.

One has dealt with some of the important Acts, Statutory Rules and Orders but, of course, there are many others, and one can only repeat what has often been stated in these articles, that it would be to the advantage of any exhibitor who has any doubts upon any of such Acts, Statutory Rules and Orders that may come into force, to at once get into touch with the Legal Department of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association so that he will be fully protected and obtain advice.

The Acts of Parliament and local by-laws which relate to or affect the exhibition, storage or transit of kinematograph films are of paramount importance to the trade, and should be closely studied by all engaged in it. Below will be found a condensed digest of the principal regulations governing this industry. This has been prepared by a leading solicitor, who has explained the most essential points in a manner which will be readily understood by readers.

(We accept no liability for any inaccuracy which may appear in the following summary.)

REVISED BY NORMAN HART, B.A.

CINEMATOGRAPH ACT, 1909.

All kinematograph exhibitions must be held at premises which are licensed (s. 1).

This Act was passed for making better provision for securing safety at kinematograph and other exhibitions.

Under Clause 1, provided premises comply with the regulations laid down by the Secretary of State, which are regulations dealing with the question of safety, nothing more is required.

All premises must hold a licence where inflammable films are used. The Act contains no definition of the word "inflammable."

Exceptions.—A licence is not necessary in the following cases :—

- (a) Where non-flammable films are used (as to whether a film is non-flammable or flammable is one of fact for the Justices to decide). (See Victoria Pier, Ltd. v. Reeves, 1912, 28 T.L.R. 443; also see re Dickman and Moore, Times Newspaper, December 17, 1912.) (Note.—If an exhibitor holds a licence for premises upon which he originally used inflammable films and decides in future to use non-flammable films only, he is still bound by the conditions on the licence granted although otherwise no licence would be necessary.)
- (b) For exhibitions in private dwelling-houses where the general public are not admitted whether on payment or otherwise. (Note.—A hospital has been held not to be a private house under Section 7 of the Act, for which a licence is required—National Hospital for Paralysed and Epileptic Persons, Times, October 11, 1913.)
- (c) Where premises are only used occasionally and not more than six days in any one year. But in this case the occupier must—
 - i. Give seven days' notice in writing to the Licensing Authority and the chief officer of police of the police area;
 - ii. Comply with the regulations as to safety;
 - iii. Comply with any conditions imposed in writing by the Licensing Authority.
- (d) On premises used for the purpose of exhibiting films to bonâ-fide purchasers—Att.-Gen. v. Vitagraph Co., 1915, C.H. 206.

MOVABLE BUILDINGS OR STRUCTURES, provided the owner

- (a) Has a licence in respect of the building or structure from the Licensing Authority for the district where he ordinarily resides.
- (b) Has given two days' notice in writing to the Licensing Authority for the district where the exhibition is to take place, and to the chief officer of police of the police area.
- (c) Complies with any conditions imposed in writing by the Licensing Authority.

REGULATIONS AS TO SAFETY.

These are made by the Home Secretary (Act s. 1) except in Scotland and Ireland, where the Secretaries for Scotland and Ireland respectively exercise this power (Act ss. 8 and 9). They are known as the Cinematograph Regulations, 1910 (Statutory Rules and Orders [1910] No. 189) and 1913 (St. R. & O. [1913] No. 566). Every owner and manager of a kinema must make himself familiar with these regulations, which are binding, even if the conditions of the licence happen to be inconsistent with them.

LICENSING AUTHORITY.

(1) ENGLAND.—The Council of the County or County Borough, but as a rule these powers are, in the first instance at least, exercised by a committee. Where the place is licensed by the Lord Chamberlain for stage plays, that official also grants cinematograph licences.

The County or County Borough Council may delegate these powers to the local justices (Act s. 5). Licensing Justices sit as an administrative body, not as a Court of Summary Jurisdiction—Huish v. Liverpool Justices, [1914] 1 K.B. 109. Therefore they have no power to state a case. Doubtful if any appeal of licensing authorities where a licence is refused without any reason.

If reasons are stated and not been satisfactory or a proper hearing has not been given, proceedings by way of mandamus should be taken to the Court of Appeal. A further appeal in such a case can be taken to the House of Lords, or proceedings might be taken in the King's Bench Division for a declaration that proposed conditions which the Licensing Authorities have decided to put upon licences are ultra vires and an injunction asked for to restrain the authorities from enforcing same. In cases before the Court of Summary Jurisdiction where the procedure is by way of case stated to the Divisional Court no further appeal is allowed.

(2) SCOTLAND.—The Council of the County or the magistrates of a royal parliamentary or police burgh. There is no power of delegation (Act s. 8).

(3) IRELAND.—The Council of the County or County Borough or Urban District or the Commissioners of the Town. There is no power of delegation, but a County Council may, in writing, authorise any officer of the Council to exercise any of the powers of the Act (Act s. 9).

GRANT, RENEWAL AND TRANSFER OF LICENCES.

Licences are normally for one year, but may be for shorter periods (Act s. 2 (2)). The Act makes no provision for granting provisional licences.

For new grants or transfers seven days' notice in writing must be given to the Licensing Authority and to the chief officer of police of the police area, but no notice need be given in the case of a renewal (Act s. 2 (4)).

FEES PAYABLE.—One year's licence (grant or renewal), £1. Shorter periods, 5s. a month (but not to exceed £1 for every year). Transfers, 5s. (Act s. 2 (5)).

LICENSEES.—The Licensing Authority has a discretion (Act s. 2 (1) (3)). Where the refusal was based on the ground that several of the directors and the majority of the shareholders of the company in question were alien enemies, the refusal was upheld by the Court (Rex v. L.C.C. ex parte London and Provincial Electric Theatres, [1915] 2 K.B. 466).

CONDITIONS.—Under Clause 2, Section 1, Licensing Authorities have much further powers than those given under Clause 1, as they can grant licences subject to such conditions as they may think fit in addition to the regulations of the Secretary of State as regards safety. The condition must be reasonable—L.C.C. v. Beymondsey Bioscope, 80 L.J.K. 1314. It has been argued on the words of the Act that these must be decided upon when the application for each licence is made, and not determined beforehand (e.g., most of the authorities issue a list of conditions which licensees must submit to), but this argument has not met with favour (see Rex v. Burnley Justices (1916), 32 T.L.R. at p. 696).

Conditions or undertakings which have been upheld in the Courts include Against opening on Sundays and Holy Days, even where non-inflammable films used (L.C.C. v. Bermondsey Bioscope Co., [1911] 1 K.B. 445; Ellis v. North Metropolitan Theatres, [1915] 2 K.B. 61).
 Against showing any film to which the Authority objects (ex parte Stott, [1916] 1 K.B. 7);
 As to hours of opening and closing (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra).
 Against showing any licentious or indecent film (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra).

There is a distinction between conditions and undertakings and a condition as to the admission of children has been held bad (Halifax Theatre de Luxe v. Gledhill, [1915] 2 K.B. 49), but an undertaking of not so widespread a character relating to the same matter has been upheld (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra).

Breach of a condition is an offence for which the licensee may be fined, and at once lose his licence; breach of an undertaking may lead to refusal of renewal.

A condition that no film can be shown if a specified number of justices object is void, as different groups may think differently (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra).

Where the Licensing Authority enforce a condition that no film to which the Authority objects may be shown, the owner of the film is apparently without any adequate remedy (ex parte Stott, [1916] 1 K.B. 7; Stott v. Gamble, [1916] 2 K.B. 504).

A condition that no film be shown which has not been certified for public exhibition by the British Board of Film Censors is ultra vires, as it sets up in place of the Licensing Committee another Body whose ipse dixit should be a test of what might be exhibited. (Ellis v. Dubouski, [1921] 3 K.B.D.)

As to whether, therefore, the above conditions are intra vires is somewhat doubtful, and it might be argued that even if a film had not been censored and no notice given to the Local Licensing Authority, the only legal ground for proceeding against an exhibitor for showing the picture would be that of indecency.

The argument was upheld in a summons brought against an exhibitor in the Midlands, by the Licensing Authority, on the condition that if it was desired to show a film that had not been passed by the Censor, three clear days' notice must be sent to the Licensing Authority.

POLICE SUPERVISION.—Any police officer and any person authorised by the Licensing Authority may enter any premises (whether licensed or not) where he has reason to believe that a kinematograph exhibition is being or is about to be given. A police officer needs no authority, and while there may pay attention to any other breaches of the law that he may suspect (McVittie v. Turner, [1916] 85 L.J.K.B. 23). If anyone prevents or obstructs him, the offender is liable to be fined up to £20 (Act s. 4).

A Constable without consent is not entitled to take away a piece of a film for the purpose of testing whether it is inflammable or non-flammable.

PENALTIES.

Besides the offence just mentioned, the owner of a kinematograph or other apparatus who uses it or allows it to be used in contravention of the Act or the Regulations or the conditions of the licence, and the occupier of premises who allows them to be used in contravention of the same, may be fined up to £20, and in the case of a continuing offence £5 a day, and the licence may be revoked on conviction (Act s. 3). The manager of a kinema owned by a company is not an occupier, and cannot be summoned as such (Bruce v. McMains, [1915] 3 K.B. 1).

A kinematograph licence does not authorise musical accompaniments. A music licence is not necessary where music is subsidiary to the picture—See Hallinan, 73 J.P.N. 458.

THEATRE AND MUSIC AND DANCING LICENCES may also be necessary. Theatre Licences for Stage Plays are obtained from the Lord Chamberlain in London, and from the justices elsewhere. Music and Dancing Licences, are granted by the County and County Borough Councils, who can delegate this power to the local justices.

Music and Dancing Licences in London are governed by the Music Hall Act, 1751. In Middlesex by the Music and Dancing Middlesex Act, 1894. In other areas beyond 20 miles from the Cities of London and Westminster under the Public Health Acts (Amendment Act), 1890, Sec. 4. Music Licences are renewable only once each year. They may contain conditions (in view of the section of the Public Health Act) different to the conditions of a cinematograph licence, as that act does not apply to Music and Dancing Licences. A Music and Dancing Licence does not authorise stage plays, nor does a Theatre Licence, under the Theatre Act, 1843, include Music and Dancing.

CHILDREN.

Where an entertainment is given for children (i.e., under fourteen), or the majority of persons present are children, and their number exceeds one hundred, and access to any part of the building is by stairs, then it is the duty of the occupier (if he is paid) and of the person giving the entertainment (in any case) to see that an adequate number of adult attendants are present to prevent overcrowding in any part, to control the movements of the audience when entering and leaving, and also to take all reasonable precautions for safety. Police officers have the right of entry. The penalty for a first offence is up to £50, for a second or subsequent offence up to £100, and any licence held in respect of the building may be revoked (Children Act, 1908, s. 121). The cinematograph licence is not mentioned, as it had not come into existence at that date.

The Employment of Children Act, 1903, s. 1, enables local authorities to make bye-laws relating to the employment of children (i.e., under fourteen), and many of them have exercised this power. A licensee should enquire at the council offices whether the local authority of his district has made any bye-law affecting him (e.g., as to programme, sweet, or cigarette sellers, etc.)

No child (under sixteen) employed half-time in a factory or workshop may be employed elsewhere (Act 1903, s. 3 (3)), nor may any child be employed before six a.m. or after nine p.m., unless the local bye-laws allow it (Act 1903, s. 3 (1)). The fine is up to 40s. for a first offence, and £5 afterwards (Act 1903, s.5 (1)).

Under the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933, where there is provided in any building an entertainment for children or an entertainment at which the majority of the persons attending are children, then, if the number of children attending the entertainment exceeds one hundred the person providing the entertainment must station and keep stationed wherever necessary a sufficient number of adult attendants, properly instructed as to their duties, to prevent more children or other persons being admitted to the building, and to control the movement of the children and other persons admitted while entering and leaving the building or any part thereof, and to take all other reasonable precautions for the safety of the children.

Under Section 4 of this Act a constable may enter the building at any time with a view to seeing whether the provisions of the Act are being properly carried out.

By the Royal assent having been given to the Shops Hours of Closing Act, 1928, patrons can buy tobacco, matches, table waters, sweets, chocolates or other sugar confectionery or ice-cream at any time during performances in any Theatre, Kinema, Music Hall or other similar place of entertainment so long as the sale is to bona-fide members of the audience and not on a part of the building to which other members of the public have access.

This does away with the ban put upon Kinemas by D.O.R.A. some years ago.

ENTERTAINMENTS TAX.

For tax purposes an "entertainment" includes any exhibition, performance, amusement, game, or sport to which persons are admitted for payment. Admission to the place where the entertainment is held is sufficient, otherwise tax could be evaded by charging admission and giving a free show. If there is an additional charge to go to another part of the premises, tax is levied on both charges. The proprietor for this purpose includes the person responsible for the management. The rates as now altered by the Finance Act, 1935, are as follows:

Payment for admission, excluding duty.

Exceeding.		Not exceeding.		Rate of duty.
s.	d.	s.	d.	s.	d.
—	...	0	3	...	Nil
0	3	0	5	...	$\frac{1}{2}$
0	5	0	$6\frac{1}{4}$...	$\frac{3}{4}$
0	$6\frac{1}{4}$	0	7	...	1
0	7	0	$7\frac{3}{4}$...	$1\frac{1}{4}$
0	$7\frac{3}{4}$	0	$8\frac{3}{4}$...	2
0	$8\frac{3}{4}$	0	11	...	3
0	11	1	2	...	4
1	2	1	5	...	5
1	5	—	...	5d. plus 2d. for every 6d. or part of 6d. over 1s. 5d.

Admission can only be given by ticket stamped with a mark denoting that duty has been paid, or in special cases, if the Commissioners approve, through a barrier which automatically registers the numbers admitted. But the proprietor can make arrangements with the Commissioners dispensing with these conditions on the terms of furnishing certified returns at stated times and giving security for due payment of the duty. Penalty for breach: Proprietor, £50 and duty; Person admitted, £5. Special provision is made for lump sum payments in the case of clubs or societies, or in the case of season tickets or tickets for a series of entertainments.

Duty is not payable where the Commissioners are satisfied:

- (a) That the proceeds are devoted to philanthropic or charitable purposes without deduction of expenses, or
- (b) That the entertainment is wholly educational (in case of difference the Board of Education decides); or
- (c) That the entertainment is provided for partly educational or partly scientific purposes by a society, and not run for profit; or
- (d) That it is provided by or on behalf of a school or educational institution if the school or institution is not run for profit, and the entertainment is provided solely for promoting some object of the school or institution, and that all the persons who are performers are under sixteen and are scholars or ex-scholars of the school or institution.

In the case of a charity performance where the whole of the expenses are deducted, but do not exceed 20 per cent. of the receipts, the duty is repaid to the proprietor.

Any officer of excise authorised to do so may enter a place of entertainment and any person who prevents or obstructs him is liable to a fine up to £20.

The Commissioners can make regulations, any breach of which entails an excise penalty of £50, and they may make arrangements whereby the local authority (county, borough, or urban district council), or the police may exercise all or any of the powers of the Commissioners as to this duty. The law is contained in the Finance (New Duties) Act, 1916, ss. 1 and 2, and the Finance Act, 1916, s. 12.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

There is no restriction on the export of celluloid substances, but as regard the import of Films it is subject to the owner's right of copyright, and to the payment of the Import Duties imposed by the Finance Acts, 1925-1928.

(2) IMPORTS.—The import of films is affected in three ways :

- (a) Copyright.
- (b) Customs Duty.
- (c) Restriction of Imports.

(a) The owner of British copyright may notify the Customs that he objects to copies made out of the United Kingdom of his work which would be an infringement if made here, being imported. The Customs make regulations dealing with this matter, and breach of the prohibition leads to forfeiture and destruction of the offending copies.

(b) The duty on imported films is as follows : Rate per foot of the standard width, $1\frac{3}{8}$ inches : Blank film (also called raw film on stock), $\frac{1}{2}$ d. ; positives, i.e., films ready for exhibition, 1d. ; negatives, i.e., films containing a photograph from which positives may be prepared, 5d. They can be placed in bond.

(c) Imported films must comply with the regulations for railway transit.

TRANSIT BY RAIL.

RAILWAY REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO FILM BOXES.—The specification of the Railway Clearing House of the type of metal boxes required by the Railway Companies to be used for the transit of films is as follows :

Boxes must be rectangular, wood-lined cases, to hold not more than six films and measure not more than $14\frac{1}{2}$ inches outside either way. They must be made of galvanised iron of not less thickness than .022 of an inch (No. 25 B.G.) for the small one and two film cases, and not less than .028 of an inch (No. 23 B.G.) for the larger sizes (three to six film cases).

All the corners of the sides and bottom must be strengthened by folding seams, the top of the body having wired edges turned inwards. The hinge lid must be turned down all round for a depth of one and a quarter inches. It must fit over the body of the case and have wired edges turned outwards. It must be attached to the body by two strong hinges, firmly riveted to both body and lid, and fastened by stout wire hasps fitting over iron staples riveted to the front of the case. Each hasp and staple must be locked, either by padlock or by a spring safety hook, permanently to the staple by a short length of stout chain. Cases for one and two films need only have one clasp and staple fastening ; other sizes must have two.

Other conditions are that a thin metal label frame, open at the top, must be riveted to the case in such a position that the top edge of the label frame is covered by the lid when closed ; all the boxes must be completely lined with plain wood of half-inch thickness fastened by rivets to the lid and body of the case ; the following words must be painted in black on the lid : " Cinema Films," in one-inch block letters, and " Keep in a cool place," in letters five-eighths of an inch depth. No other lettering must appear on the lid. The name and address of the owners may be painted on the sides or ends, and the cases must be unpainted.

A SHORT EPITOME OF OTHER LEGISLATION PASSED IN RECENT YEARS AFFECTING THE INDUSTRY.

CINEMATOGRAPH FILMS (ANIMALS) ACT, 1937.

An Act to prohibit the exhibition or distribution of kinematograph films in connection with the production of which suffering may have been caused to animals; and for purposes connected therewith.

SHOPS (SUNDAY TRADING RESTRICTION) ACT, 1936.

ELECTRICITY SUPPLY REGULATIONS, 1937.

HOUSES (ADDITIONAL POWERS) ACT, 1919.

Gives powers to Councils to make orders prohibiting the construction of works or theatres on grounds that the production of dwelling accommodation is likely to be delayed by a deficiency of labour or materials arising out of the employment of labour, or material in the construction of such works or buildings. Any person aggrieved by such an order of prohibition can appeal, subject to the rules of procedure set down by the Ministry. A Tribunal of Appeal can be set up under this Act to hear appeals against any such Order.

LICENSING (CONSOLIDATION) ACT, 1910.

REFRESHMENT HOUSES ACT, 1860.

Any House, Room or Building can be opened for Public resort and entertainment between 10 p.m., and 5 a.m., but if not being licensed for beer, wine and spirits must take out a Refreshment House Excise Licence.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE ACT, 1781.

Any house opened for Public amusement or debate on a Sunday to which persons shall be admitted by payment of money shall be deemed a Disorderly House—Penalty £200 for every Sunday opened. (Note)—If a reasonable number of persons are admitted free there is no offence under the Act in making a charge for a reserved seat; it will be noted that the Act speaks of admission, not to a seat, but to the entertainment.

FINANCE ACT, 1920.

This was an Act passed to grant certain duties to Customs and Inland Revenue, to alter other duties, and to amend the law relating to Customs and Inland Revenue and the National Debt and to make further provision in connection with finance.

HOME COUNTIES, MUSIC AND DANCING LICENCES ACT, 1926.

This was an Act passed to amend the law as regards Music and Dancing Licences in parts of certain Home Counties and in certain County Boroughs adjacent thereto. It gave powers to the Council to grant Licences for any period not exceeding 13 months to such persons as they thought fit.

Under this Act the Council can delegate all or any of its powers to a Committee consisting wholly or partly of members of the Council.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ACT, 1920, was an act passed to amend the Law in respect of Insurance against Unemployment. All persons of the age of 16 and upwards who are engaged in employment as specified by the Act shall be insured against unemployment in manner provided by the Act.

TRADE UNIONS AND TRADE DISPUTES ACT, 1927, amends the law relating to Trade Disputes and Trade Unions and regulates the position of Civil Servants and persons employed by public authorities in respect of membership of trade unions and similar organisations and to extend section 5 of the Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875.

1923. NEW REGULATION UNDER CINEMATOGRAPH ACT, 1909.

Exhibitors should always keep a copy of these regulations by them as they take the place of the previous regulations dated 18th February, 1910, and 20th May, 1913.

1921. THE ENTERTAINMENTS DUTY REGULATIONS are regulations made by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise under Section 2 of the Finance New Duties Act, 1916, for securing the payment of Entertainments Duty.

The points to be noted are that the price of admission must be printed on the tickets. Adhesive stamps are not to be issued except upon the tickets. No tickets other than stamped tickets to be issued on payment made for admission. Tickets and stamps to be issued undefaced and defaced subsequently. No Government ticket is to be used for admitting more than one person. (Note: Arrangements approved by the Commissioners can be made for providing returns of payments for admission to an entertainment.)

THE EMPLOYMENT OF CHILDREN

in entertainments, Statutory Rules and Orders 1920, No. 21.

An application for a licence to enable a child to take part in an entertainment or series of entertainments must be made in writing to the Local Educational Authority signed by the parent and the employer of the child in the form contained in the first schedule thereto, together with the necessary documents.

Under this rule the term "parent" includes guardian and every person who is liable to maintain or has actual custody of the child.

THE FACTORIES BILL, 1920.

This Bill abolishes the distinction between factories and workshops and between textile and non-textile factories, and employs only the one word "Factory."

LANDLORD AND TENANT ACT, 1927.

This Act came into force on the 25th March of this year. It provides (inter alia) for compensation for improvements and compensation for loss of goodwill.

THE RATING AND VALUATION ACT, 1925, was passed (inter alia) to define what machinery and plant was deemed to be part of the hereditament for rating purposes.

THE RATING AND VALUATION ACT, 1928, was an Act passed to extend to the Administrative County of London the provisions of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, with respect to the valuation of hereditaments containing machinery and plant and to make temporary provision with respect to the deduction to be made in ascertaining the rateable value—to amend Sections 11 and 37 and the 4th and 5th Schedules of the 1925 Act and to provide for the tenant decisions on points of law with a view to securing uniformity in valuation.

THE RATING AND VALUATION (APPORTIONMENT) ACT, 1928, was an Act passed to make provision with a view to granting of relief from rates in respect of certain classes of hereditaments to be affected and the apportionment in Valuation Lists of the net annual value of such hereditaments according to the extent and user thereof for various purposes.

Section 3, sub-section 1 of this Act contains provisions as to "Industrial Hereditaments." "Industrial Hereditament" has been defined to mean a hereditament occupied and used as a mine or mineral railway or as a factory or workshop. A hereditament though part of it may be in law a "factory" or "workshop" is not to be treated as an Industrial hereditament if the premises as a whole are not primarily used for the purposes of a factory or workshop.

With regard to the position of a Kinematograph Theatre, in view of the fact that the premises are not used primarily for the purposes of a factory or workshop I do not consider it comes under the heading of "Industrial Hereditament" and therefore does not appear to be entitled to "relief" as an "Industrial hereditament."

The Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act Rules, 1928, made by the Minister of Health under section 58 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, and of the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, prescribes the forms of notices, claims and lists to be used for the purposes of the first Schedule to the last mentioned Act and the dates to be observed in connection with the preparation and approval of lists under that Schedule.

The list of valuations is deposited by the Rating Authorities at the office of the Authority and any person aggrieved can object to the assessment within 25 days of the deposit of the Valuation List. Forms of objection can be obtained from the Rating Authorities, and the forms should contain every possible ground for complaint. One person can object to another person's assessment on the ground that it is too low, and in such a case the occupier is entitled to receive notice from the Assessment Committee of the objection.

PUBLIC HEALTH (LONDON) ACT, 1936.

An Act to consolidate certain enactments relating to public health in London.

This Act shall come into operation on October 1, 1936.

PUBLIC HEALTH ACT, 1936.

An Act to consolidate, with amendments, certain enactments relating to public health.

This Act shall come into operation on October 1, 1937.

FACTORIES ACT, 1937.

An Act to consolidate, with amendments, the Factory and Workshop Acts, 1901 to 1929, and other enactments relating to factories; and for purposes connected with the purposes aforesaid.

This Act shall, except as otherwise provided, come into operation on July 1, 1938.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE (JUVENILE CONTRIBUTORS AND YOUNG PERSONS) ACT, 1937.

An Act to amend the National Health Insurance Act, 1936, so as to make certain persons under the age of 16 eligible for medical benefit, to facilitate the provision of medical benefit to such persons and to other young persons, and for purposes connected with the matters aforesaid.

This Act shall come into operation on April 4, 1938.

HIRE-PURCHASE ACT, 1938.

An Act to amend the law with respect to the hire-purchase and sale upon credit of goods and the law of distress in its relation thereto.

YOUNG PERSONS (EMPLOYMENT) ACT, 1938.

An Act to regulate the hours of employment of persons under the age of 18 years employed in certain occupations, to amend the Shops Act, 1934, with respect to the regulation of the hours of employment of persons under the age of 16 years, and with respect to the determination of the number of working hours of persons under the age of 18 years; and for purposes connected with the matters aforesaid.

This Act shall come into operation on January 1, 1939.

HOUSING (EMERGENCY POWERS) ACT, 1939.

This is an Act to empower Local Authorities to make fit for housing purposes buildings damaged by war, and for purposes connected therewith.

ESSENTIAL BUILDINGS AND PLANT (REPAIR OF WAR DAMAGE) ACT, 1939.

An Act to provide for the repair of buildings used for purposes essential to the welfare of the civil population, and the reinstatement of the plant of undertakings carried on for such purposes, where the buildings or plant are damaged by war.

STATUTORY RULES AND ORDERS, 1939, No. 1832, EMERGENCY POWERS (DEFENCE)—GENERAL REGULATIONS.

Opening on Sundays of kinemas in areas in England or Wales where Forces are quartered.

EMERGENCY POWERS (DEFENCE) ACT, 1939.

An Act to confer on His Majesty certain powers which it is expedient that His Majesty should be enabled to exercise in the present emergency; and to make further provision for purposes connected with the defence of the realm.

COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) ACT, 1939.

An Order in Council revoking Statutory Rules and Orders, 1941. No. 256.

HOME OFFICE SAFETY PRECAUTIONS.

Safety measures for the protection of audiences in kinemas, theatres and other places of entertainment in time of war have been drawn up by the Home Office with the object of securing that, so far as possible, uniform requirements are imposed throughout the country. Owners and managers if they have not already taken steps to comply with the requirements will be expected to do so within a reasonable time.

GLASS SHATTER

The protective measures suggested for theatres and kinemas are as follows:—

1.—In the case of skylights, lantern lights and laylights either—

(A) the glazing should be removed and replaced by non-splintering material, or the openings thereby made covered by a light weather-proof roofing;

(B) the glazing should be guarded on the underside with small-mesh wire netting or expanded metal so arranged as to intercept broken glass, and in addition the glazing, if not wired glazing, should be covered with stout cardboard or paper or its equivalent, pasted direct to the glazing, or otherwise rendered less liable to fragmentation to the satisfaction of the licensing authority.

2.—All large windows to foyer and vestibules, and glass doors to the street should be protected. (N.B.—It is not considered necessary to require that the vestibule entrance to the street shall be protected by sandbags.)

3.—Chandeliers and other heavy glass fittings should be removed if possible or else protected in such a way that no broken glass or splinters can strike any member of the audience.

4.—Shelter should be provided for the staff and performers.

VENTILATION AND LIGHTING

5.—Ventilation plant should be closed down on a gas alarm or any evidence of smoke.

6.—Refrigerating plant (other than ice-cream refrigerators) using a toxic or inflammable refrigerant should not be used and the refrigerant should be removed.

7.—The licensing authority's usual standard of lighting of internal exit-ways and staircase should be maintained, windows being screened so as to prevent the light being visible from outside.

8.—All external exit passageways should be indicated by white directional arrows, which, during the hours of darkness, should be illuminated so as to be visible to persons using the passageways. Secondary lighting should be retained for this purpose where required by the licensing authority, but the light displayed must be dimmed to the minimum required to show the position and direction of the arrow, and so screened that no light is displayed from above.

FIRE GUARDIANS

9.—There should be a qualified fireman or a man specially nominated in writing by the management to take charge of fire appliances. He need not necessarily be employed exclusively on fire protection duties, but he must not during a performance be given other work which would take him away from the building or otherwise prevent him from being immediately available in case of danger or alarm of fire. When any performance is taking place which requires the use of scenery or costumes, the man above mentioned shall remain within the stage risk. This man shall have been adequately instructed in the use of all fire appliances contained in the building.

Attendants and other employees should be properly instructed in the use of the fire appliances provided. This training may be undertaken by the man specially employed to be in charge of fire appliances.

FIRST AID AND AUDIENCE CONTROL

10.—The whole staff should also receive training in first aid and anti-gas precautions, and the local authority should, if necessary, be asked to make special arrangements for training at times when the staff is able to attend. The expenses of such training will be met by the owner.

11.—The arrangements for the control of the audiences in the event of an emergency are the responsibility of the management of the kinema.

12.—Standing should not be allowed in the gangways.

13.—No objection should be taken to the admission of children unaccompanied by adults, but the kinema industry should be asked not to hold special children's matinees in evacuating areas.

AIR RAID LISTENERS

14.—During performances a member of the staff should be constantly stationed at a point from which he can hear the public warning signals. When a warning is received the audience should be informed verbally by the manager or some other responsible person from the stage, where he can be seen by the audience. It should be made clear to the audience that the warning does not necessarily mean that a raid will take place, and that in any case it is not likely to occur for at least five minutes. The advice to be given to the audience in the event of an air raid warning should be arranged in consultation with the police. It is considered that as a general rule the advice should be to recommend them to remain in the building, but it should at the same time be made clear that anyone who desires to leave is free to do so. The entertainment should, if possible, be continued.

COPYRIGHT.

Under the Copyright Act, 1911, the owner of a literary or dramatic work has the sole right to make a cinematograph film or other contrivance by which the same may be mechanically performed, and to authorise such acts. Before the Act it was held that there was no such right (Karno v. Pathé Frères, 100 L.T. 260).

Infringement is doing without the owner's consent anything which conflicts with the owner's rights. It includes selling, or letting for hire, or by way of trade exposing or offering for sale or hire, or by way of trade exhibiting in public or importing for sale or hire any work which infringes copyright or would do so if the work had been made in the country where infringement takes place. It also includes the case of a person who, for his private profit, permits a theatre or place of entertainment to be used for the public performance of a work without the owner's consent unless the person so doing was not aware and had no reasonable ground for suspecting that it was an infringement.

Copyright lasts during the life of the author and fifty years after his death. In the case of photographs, it is fifty years from the making of the original negative. All transfers or licences must be in writing and signed by the owner or his agent. The author cannot assign his copyright for longer than twenty-five years after his death.

A compulsory licence can be obtained twenty-five or thirty years after the author's death, but this provision cannot apply before 1936 at the earliest. The Privy Council has the power to grant a compulsory licence at any time after the author's death if it is proved that the work has been published or performed in public, and the present owner of the copyright has refused to allow republication, etc., so that the work is in effect withheld from the public.

An employee or apprentice does not acquire the copyright in work he does for his employer. Where a photograph is taken at the order of the sitter, who pays for it, he, and not the photographer, is the owner. It is a criminal offence to infringe copyright knowingly, and the offender is liable to a fine up to 40s. for every copy, but not more than £50 for any one transaction. In the case of second or subsequent offences, the justices can send the offender to prison for two months without the option of a fine, and in all cases may order the copies to be destroyed. No criminal charge under the Act can be brought more than six months after the act complained of. In civil proceedings the usual remedy is an injunction, but the defendant is also liable for damages unless he proves not merely that he did not know of the copyright, but also that he had no reasonable grounds for suspecting its existence. For example, if a kinema proprietor hires a film to show at one hall, he is liable for damages if he shows it at any other place (Fenning Film Service v. Wolverhampton, etc., Cinemas [1914] 3 K.B. 1171). Where the alleged infringement is such that the Court would not protect it as an original work (e.g., on the ground of indecency), the owner of the copyright cannot sue under the Act, but can claim damages for defamatory representation of his work (Glyn v. Western Feature Film Co. [1916] 1 Ch. 261). The proper way to prove a film is to call someone who has seen it shown and not to produce the film unless some point turns on the film itself.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD REGULATIONS.

The Local Government Board have power under Section 130 of Public Health Act, 1875, and amendments to issue regulations with a view to preventing the spread of any epidemic or infectious disease. Regulations known as the Public Health (Influenza) Regulations, 1918, were issued by the Local Government Board under general orders dated November 18 and 22, 1918 :—

1. Limiting the time of entertainment to not more than 4 hours consecutively.
2. An interval of not less than 30 minutes between any two entertainments.
3. During such interval the place to be effectually and thoroughly ventilated, the penalty for breach not exceeding £100, and in case of a continuing offence to a further penalty not exceeding £50 for every day which the offence continues.
4. No children to be admitted to exhibitions where public elementary schools in the district have been temporarily closed. Notice must be given to the proprietor, otherwise regulation not effective.

These restrictions can be relaxed by any local authority upon such conditions as they may determine on the advice of their Medical Officer for Health. They do not concern the Licensing Authorities, who have no power to deal with such restrictions.

For removal of regulations application should be made to the District or Urban Council of the place where the theatre is situated.

[These regulations have been rescinded. Attempts are being made to make them conditions on kinematograph licences, but it is doubtful whether such conditions are "intra vires."]

THE CELLULOID ACT.

An Act known as "THE CELLULOID AND CINEMATOGRAPH FILM ACT OF 1922" has been passed to make better provision for the prevention of fire in premises where raw celluloid or kinematograph films are stored or used.

The purposes to which this Act applies are :—

(1) The keeping or storing of raw celluloid—

- (a) In quantities exceeding at any one time one hundredweight ; or
- (b) In smaller quantities unless kept (except when required to be exposed for the purpose of the work carried on in the premises) in a properly closed metal box or case ; and

(2) The keeping or storing of kinematograph film—

- (a) In quantities exceeding at any one time twenty reels or eighty pounds in weight, or
- (b) In smaller quantities unless each reel is kept (except when required to be exposed for the purpose of the work carried on in the premises) in a separate and properly closed metal box or case :—

Provided that :—

- (i.) For the purpose of this Act, kinematograph film shall be deemed to be kept in any premises where it is temporarily deposited for the purpose of examination, cleaning, packing, re-winding or repair, but celluloid or kinematograph film shall not be deemed to be kept or stored in any premises where it is temporarily deposited whilst in the course of delivery, conveyance or transport ; and
- (ii.) The provisions of this Act shall not, except in the cases referred to in paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) of Sub-section (1) of Section 1 thereof, apply to premises to which the Factory and Workshop Acts, 1901 to 1920 apply. Nor do the provisions of this Act apply to premises licensed under the Cinematograph Act, 1909. It should be pointed out, however, that under this Act any Officer duly authorised by a local authority may at any time take for analysis sufficient samples of any material which he suspects to be or to contain Celluloid.

HOME OFFICE REGULATIONS, 1923.

The 1923 Regulations under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, are somewhat important, and have been somewhat amended from their original form, owing to various meetings that took place between the Sub-Committee of the C.E.A. and the Home Office.

The Regulations took the place of previous Regulations of February 18, 1910 and May 20, 1913. The Regulations must be exhibited in the enclosure and easily accessible to operators. They are dated July 30, 1923, and operate from that date, but they would not affect any licence for the period for which it was granted, though, of course, when the same is renewed the new conditions will appear.

As regards clause 4, "Fire Appliances" footnote should be noticed, as it lays down that a fireman need not be employed exclusively in taking charge of the fire appliances. He must not, however, be given other work during an exhibition which would take him away from the building or otherwise prevent him from being immediately available in case of danger or alarm of fire.

As regards No. 5, "Smoking," it should be observed that notices stating that smoking is prohibited shall be kept posted in the enclosure and film room or anywhere where films are stored, wound or repaired.

As regards No. 7, relating to enclosure, fire-resisting material now includes teak or oak not less than two inches thick.

With regard to clause 7, "Enclosures," Sec. 8, it will be noticed that in case of need the enclosure may be left for a short period in charge of a competent assistant over 16 years of age.

As to what is the exact definition of a "competent operator," one does not know, but apparently it can be taken to mean that an operator who can satisfactorily operate would come within the definition of a "competent operator."

With regard to clause 13, "Lighting," it should be pointed out that if the general lighting is by electricity the safety lighting shall be by (a) electricity from another source (b) gas or (c) oil or candles.

One does not take this to mean that the safety lighting, if electricity, shall be taken from an entirely different supply, but merely that there shall be primary and secondary lighting installed in the building, the intention, of course, being that should the electric light supply be temporarily interrupted, the theatre will not be put into darkness.

Clause 14, on "Electrical Installation," it should be noticed that the Wiring Rules of the Institution of Electrical Engineers apply, a copy of which can always be obtained from Odhams Press Ltd., Technical Book Dept., 85, Long Acre, London, W.C.2. Price 1/2 post free.

It should be observed that Sections A, E, F and G of these Regulations do not apply to wiring in existence before July 30, 1923, except in the event of such wiring being altered or renewed.

With regard to clause 15, it should be noticed that the requirements in paragraphs C, D, M and N shall not apply to apparatus in use before the date of these Regulations, and the requirements in paragraphs E, G, I, J and K do not apply until July 29, 1925, except in the event of the apparatus being renewed or materially altered.

An Act to make further provision for securing the renting and exhibition of a certain proportion of British cinematograph films, and for restricting blind booking and advance booking of cinematograph films; to make provision as to the wages and conditions of employment of persons employed by makers of cinematograph films; and to provide for purposes connected with the matters aforesaid. [30th March 1938]

BE it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

PART I.

RENTERS' QUOTAS AND EXHIBITORS' QUOTAS.

Provisions relating to Renters' quotas.

(1).—Determination of renters' quotas for period beginning 1st April 1938 and ending 31st March 1948.

(1) Subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, where a renter has, in any renters' quota period, acquired for distribution in Great Britain films which are registered as foreign long films, or has, in any such period, so acquired films which are registered as foreign short films, then unless—

(a) in the first case, the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as long films include films registered as British long films and also as renters' quota films, and having a total length bearing to the total length of all the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as long films (exclusive of films registered only as exhibitors' quota films) a proportion not less than the proportion prescribed in relation to long films by Part I of the First Schedule to this Act for that period or, as the case may be, for the year beginning with the first day of April in which that period falls, or

(b) in the second case, the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as short films include films registered as British short films and also as renters' quota films, and having a total length bearing to the total length of all the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as short films (exclusive of films registered only as exhibitors' quota films) a proportion not less than the proportion prescribed in relation to short films by Part I of the said Schedule for that period or, as the case may be, for the year beginning with the first day of April in which that period falls, the renter shall be guilty of a quota offence, except in a case where either the Board of Trade certify, under the following provisions of this Part of this Act, that his failure to fulfil the relevant conditions imposed by this subsection was due to circumstances beyond his control, or the renter proves that fact to the satisfaction of the court.

(2) For the purpose of the preceding subsection, the length of a film shall be taken to be its registered length; but where a film registered as a renters' quota film is also registered as a British long film and also as doubled or trebled for the purpose of renters' quota on the ground of its cost then, subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, the length of the film shall be taken for the purpose of paragraph (a) of that subsection to be twice or, as the case may be, three times its registered length:

Provided that a renter shall be deemed not to have fulfilled the quota conditions imposed by paragraph (a) of the preceding subsection as respects the quota period beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight or either of the two renters' quota periods falling in the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-nine or in any subsequent year, if the aggregate of the registered lengths of the films acquired by him in that period or year, as the case may be, for distribution in Great Britain which are registered as British long films and also as renters' quota films bears to the aggregate of the lengths which are to be taken, for the purpose of that paragraph, to be the lengths of those films, a proportion being less than one-half.

(3) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may, not later than the end of June in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight or any of the eight succeeding years, lay before Parliament the draft of an order directing—

- (a) that, in relation to the renters' quota period beginning with the first day of April then next following and in relation to any subsequent renters' quota period specified in the order, this section shall have effect as if for subsection (2) thereof there were substituted the following subsection:

"(2) For the purpose of the preceding subsection, the length of a film shall be taken to be its registered length; but where a film registered as a renters' quota film is also registered as a British long film and also as doubled for the purpose of renters' quota on the ground of its cost, then, subject to the following provisions of this part of this Act, the length of the film shall be taken, for the purpose of paragraph (a) of that subsection, to be twice its registered length"; or

- (b) that, in relation to the year beginning with the said first day of April and in relation to any subsequent year specified in the order, the proviso to subsection (2) of this section—

(i) shall have effect as if in that proviso for the reference to one-half there were substituted a reference to such other proportion as may be specified in the order, or

(ii) shall have no effect;

and if, not later than the thirty-first day of July next following the date on which the draft of any such order is laid before it, each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made, the Board shall forthwith make the order in terms of the draft.

(4) The power conferred by the last preceding subsection to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order shall be construed as including a power, exercisable in the like manner and subject to the like conditions, to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order varying or revoking an order having effect by virtue of that subsection:

Provided that an order varying or revoking such an order as aforesaid shall not have effect in relation to any period prior to the first day of April next following the date on which the order is made.

(2).—Restrictions on the counting of a British film more than once, or by more than one renter, for quota purposes.

(1) Subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, no film registered as a British film shall, for the purpose of the fulfilment of any conditions imposed by subsection (1) of the last preceding section (hereafter in this Act referred to as "quota conditions"), be counted more than once by the same renter or counted by any renter other than the renter who has first acquired the film (whether before or after the commencement of this Act) for distribution in Great Britain; and no film so registered shall be counted for the said purpose if it has already been counted for the purpose of complying with the requirements of section thirteen of the Act of 1927.

(2) Where, at any time in a renters' quota period, a renter has acquired, for distribution in a limited area in Great Britain only, a film which is registered as a British film and also as a renters' quota film, and which, at that time, had not been exhibited to the public at a theatre in that area, then if throughout that period or, as the case may be, the part thereof during which he carried on business as a renter in Great Britain—

- (a) that renter has had no right to distribute in Great Britain outside that area any films which are registered as foreign films or are registered as British films and also as renters' quota films, and

(b) no other renter has had a right to distribute the first-mentioned film in that area, the said film may, for the purpose of the fulfilment of any relevant quota conditions as respects that period, be counted once by the first-mentioned renter, notwithstanding that some other person is also entitled, by virtue of this subsection, to count the film for the said purpose.

(3) Where the films which a renter has, in any renters' quota period, acquired for distribution in Great Britain consist of, or include, old films registered as British films and also as renters' quota films, and old films registered as foreign films, he may, for the purpose of fulfilling any relevant quota conditions as respects that period, count once each of the said old films which is registered as a British film—

- (a) if all the registered films so acquired by him in that period (exclusive of films registered only as exhibitors' quota films) are old films, or

(b) in a case where the said registered films include films other than old films) if any such quota conditions would have been fulfilled as respects those other films had they been the only films so acquired by him in that period.

(4) For the purposes of the last preceding subsection, a film which in any renters' quota period a renter acquires for distribution in Great Britain shall, in relation to that period, be deemed to be told if, and only if,—

- (a) the film has previously been acquired as aforesaid by some other renter, and
 - (b) not less than one year has elapsed since the end of the year in which the film was previously acquired as aforesaid by any other renter;
- and in this subsection the expression "year" means year beginning with the first day of April.

(3).—Special provisions with respect to British films rented in foreign countries.

(1) Where, by means of such evidence (including statutory declarations) as the Board of Trade may require, a renter carrying on business in Great Britain satisfies the Board with respect to any film registered under Part III of this Act as a British long film and also as doubled or trebled for the purpose of renters' quota—

- (a) that in any renters' quota period the said renter has, for a price of not less than twenty thousand pounds, acquired the film for distribution in a foreign country, and
 - (b) that the said renter has not acquired the film for distribution in Great Britain.
- the Board may, if they think fit, give directions that in determining whether any relevant quota conditions have been fulfilled—

- (i) the film shall (except for the purpose of the proviso to subsection (2) of section one of this Act) be treated as if, at the time when the said renter acquired it for distribution in that foreign country, he had acquired it for distribution in Great Britain, and
- (ii) any acquisition of the film by another renter for distribution in Great Britain (whether before or after the giving of the directions) shall be disregarded.

(2) Any directions given under this section by the Board of Trade shall—

(a) in a case where—

(i) the film to which the directions relate is registered as trebled for the purpose of renters' quota, and

(ii) the Board are satisfied that the price paid or payable by the renter in respect of his acquisition of the film for distribution in the foreign country is not less than thirty thousand pounds, include a direction that the length of the film shall, for the purpose of determining whether any relevant quota conditions have been fulfilled by that renter in any renters' quota period, be taken to be twice its registered length, or

(b) in any other case, include a direction that the length of the film shall, for the said purpose, be taken to be its registered length :

Provided that, if the total length of the films which, by virtue of any directions under this section, a renter is to be deemed for any purpose to have acquired in any renters' quota period for distribution in Great Britain exceeds half the total length of films registered as British long films which, apart from those directions, he must have acquired for distribution in Great Britain in order to fulfil the relevant quota conditions as respects that period, the first-mentioned total length shall be deemed to be reduced by the amount of the excess.

(3) If, at any time after giving any directions under this section, the Board of Trade discover that they were misinformed as to any of the material facts by reference to which their decision to give the directions was made, the Board may revoke the directions ; and where any such directions are revoked, they shall be deemed never to have been given.

(4) If, and to the extent that, section one of this Act has effect subject to the modification made therein by an order containing such a direction as is authorised by paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of that section, this section shall have effect as if, in subsection (1) of this section, for the words "doubled or trebled for the purpose of renters' quota" there were substituted the words "doubled for the purpose of renters' quota or capable of being doubled under this section," and as if, in subsection (2) of this section, for the words "trebled for the purpose of renters' quota" there were substituted the words "capable of being doubled under this section."

(4).—Exemption in respect of films for which demand is limited.

(1) Upon application made, with respect to a film to which this Act applies, by a renter who has in any renters' quota period, acquired that film for distribution in Great Britain, or who proposes to acquire it in any such period for distribution in Great Britain, the Board of Trade, if satisfied that the film is a long film and that it has not been exhibited to the public in Great Britain within the twelve months immediately preceding the date on which the application was made, may, if they think fit, direct that, subject to the fulfilment of the conditions set out in the following subsection, the fact that he has, before the end of the year beginning with the said date, acquired the film for distribution in Great Britain, shall, for the purpose of determining whether that renter has fulfilled any quota conditions, be disregarded.

(2) The conditions subject to which any directions given under this section in respect of a film shall have effect are that the film must not, in the year beginning with the date of the application upon which the directions are given—

(a) be delivered by any other renter to exhibitors in Great Britain for public exhibition therein, or

(b) be exhibited to the public at more than twelve theatres in Great Britain or at more than six theatres in the administrative county of London or

(c) be exhibited to the public at more than one theatre in Great Britain on the same day ; and if the renter delivers the film, after the end of that year, to an exhibitor for exhibition to the public at a theatre in Great Britain, then, for the purpose of determining whether any quota conditions have been fulfilled by him, the film shall (without prejudice to any previous effect of the directions) be treated as if, at the time when he first so delivers it, he had acquired it for distribution in Great Britain.

(5).—Combinations of renters for quota purposes.

Upon application made to them in that behalf, the Board of Trade, if they think fit, may, in relation to any renters' quota period, designate any two or more renters as an approved combination for the purpose of fulfilling the quota conditions as respects that period in relation to long films; and if, in that period, not more than one of those renters has acquired, for distribution in Great Britain, more than three films which are registered as long films (other than films which are registered only as exhibitors' quota films), the preceding sections of this Act shall, so far as regards the fulfilment of the quota conditions as respects that period in relation to long films, apply to those renters as if they constituted together a single renter:

Provided that the preceding provisions of this section shall, in relation to the renters' quota period beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, have effect as if in those provisions for the word "three" there were substituted the word "six."

(6).—Provisions with respect to films acquired and registered in different periods.

Where, for the purpose of any of the preceding provisions of this Act, it is material to determine what films a renter has acquired in any renters' quota period, a film which he has, in that period acquired for distribution in Great Britain, but which has been registered in any subsequent renters quota period, shall be deemed to have been acquired by him as aforesaid in the renters' quota period in which the film was registered and not in the renters' quota period in which he actually so acquired it.

Provisions relating to Exhibitors' quotas.(7).—Determination of exhibitors' quotas for period beginning 1st October 1938 and ending 30th September 1948.

(1) Subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, where an exhibitor has, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibited to the public at any theatre in Great Britain films which are registered as foreign long films, or has, in any such year, so exhibited films which are registered as foreign short films, then, unless—

- (a) in the first case, the proportion which the total length of films which have been exhibited by him to the public at that theatre in that year, and are registered as British long films, bears to the total length of films which have been so exhibited and are registered as long films is at least equal to the proportion prescribed in relation to long films for that year by Part II of the First Schedule to this Act, or
- (b) in the second case, the proportion which the total length of films which have been exhibited by him to the public at that theatre in that year, and are registered as British short films, bears to the total length of films which have been so exhibited and are registered as short films is at least equal to the proportion prescribed in relation to short films for that year by Part II of the said Schedule, the exhibitor shall be guilty of a quota offence, except in a case where either the Board of Trade certify, under the following provisions of this Part of this Act, that his failure to fulfil the relevant conditions imposed by this subsection was due to circumstances beyond his control, or the exhibitor proves that fact to the satisfaction of the court.

(2) For the purpose of the preceding subsection, the total length of films of any class mentioned in that subsection which, in any exhibitors' quota year, has been exhibited to the public at any particular theatre shall be computed as follows, that is to say:—

- (a) the registered length of each film of that class which, in that year, has been exhibited to the public at that theatre during the normal hours in the ordinary programme shall be multiplied by the number of times the film has in that year been so exhibited; and
- (b) the products arrived at under paragraph (a) of this subsection shall be added together.

(3) In relation to any exhibitor who does not, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibit registered films to the public at any one theatre in Great Britain on more than six days nor at more than one such theatre at the same time, the preceding provisions of this section shall have effect as if all the registered films which had in that year been exhibited by him to the public at theatres in Great Britain had been so exhibited at one such theatre.

(4) For the purpose of determining whether any conditions imposed by subsection (1) of this section have been fulfilled as respects any exhibitors' quota year, a film which was first registered as a British film more than four years before the beginning of that year shall be disregarded, unless, upon an application made not later than the end of that year by a renter having a right to distribute the film in Great Britain, the Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, direct that the film shall be taken into account for that purpose.

General Provisions.(8).—Restriction on renting registered films otherwise than at their registered length.

If, on any occasion on which, during the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, a registered film is delivered by a renter to an exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition at a theatre therein, the length of the film as so delivered on that occasion differs from the registered length of the film by more than one-tenth of that registered length, the renter shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds.

(9).—Licensing of renters and exhibitors.

(1) No person shall, in the year beginning at the commencement of this Act or any of the nine succeeding years, carry on the business of distributing registered films in Great Britain, unless—

(a) there is in force a licence under this section authorising him to carry on business as a renter, or

(b) an application for such a licence as aforesaid in respect of that year has been duly made and the determination of the application is still pending;

and if any person carries on business in contravention of this subsection, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which he so carries on business.

(2) No exhibitor shall, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibit a registered film to the public at a theatre in Great Britain, unless at the time of the exhibition—

(a) there is in force a licence under this section authorising him to carry on business as an exhibitor at that theatre, or

and if any exhibitor exhibits a film at any theatre in contravention of this subsection, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds for every day on which he so exhibits the film at that theatre.

(3) A licence authorising a person to carry on business as a renter in Great Britain or, as the case may be, to carry on business as an exhibitor in Great Britain shall, upon application made in that behalf by the said person, and on payment of the prescribed fee, be granted to him by the Board of Trade, unless he is disqualified for holding the licence applied for:

Provided that the Board of Trade may refuse to grant such a licence, unless the applicant has furnished to the Board such information, verified in such manner, as they may reasonably require for the purpose of satisfying themselves that he is not so disqualified.

(4) Subject as hereinafter provided, a licence under this section authorising a person to carry on business as an exhibitor shall be limited so as to extend only to the exhibition of registered films at such one theatre in Great Britain as may be specified in the licence:

Provided that such a licence as aforesaid may be granted so as to extend to the exhibition of registered films at more than one theatre in Great Britain, subject to the limitation that the licence does not authorise the holder thereof to exhibit registered films at any one theatre on more than six days in the year in respect of which the licence is granted, or to exhibit registered films at more than one theatre at the same time.

(5) Without prejudice to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, a person shall be disqualified for holding a licence under this section unless he has a place of business in Great Britain.

(6) Where the holder of a licence under this section which is for the time being in force changes the address of his place of business in Great Britain, or ceases to have a place of business in Great Britain, he shall, as soon as practicable, notify to the Board of Trade the change of address or, as the case may be, the fact that he has ceased to have such a place of business.

(7) Subject as hereinafter provided, a licence under this section shall take effect on such day not being earlier than the beginning of the year in respect of which it is granted, as may be specified in the licence, and shall continue in force until the end of that year and no longer:

Provided that if, after the granting of such a licence, the holder of the licence becomes disqualified for holding it, the licence shall forthwith cease to have effect.

(10).—Provisions for securing that films exhibited in Great Britain are obtained from licensed renters.

(1) An exhibitor shall not, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirty-first day of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, exhibit on any occasion to the public at a theatre in Great Britain any film to which this Act applies, unless—

(a) he has acquired the right to exhibit the film to the public at that theatre on that occasion from a person who, at the time of the acquisition, was lawfully carrying on business as a renter in Great Britain, or

(b) the exhibitor is himself lawfully carrying on business as aforesaid, and has acquired the film for distribution in Great Britain.

(2) If any person exhibits a film in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which he so exhibits the film.

(11).—Penalties for quota offences.

(1) Any person guilty of a quota offence under this Part of this Act shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds or, on conviction on indictment, to a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds.

(2) Where a person is convicted, on indictment, of a quota offence under this Part of this Act, then, in addition to imposing such a fine as aforesaid, the court—

(a) if the offence is an offence under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, and the offender has previously been convicted of a renter's offence not less than twice (whether summarily or on indictment), may revoke any renter's licence held by him, and may order, with respect to the offender or any of the following persons that is to say,—

- (i) any person who, at or since the time when the offence occurred, was or has been financially associated with the offender in his business as a renter.
 - (ii) any person concerned in the management of the offender's said business who was knowingly a party to the offence, and
 - (iii) any person who has acquired the offender's said business either wholly or in part, that he shall, for such period as may be specified in the order, be disqualified for holding a renter's licence, and
- (b) if the offence is an offence under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to exhibitors' quotas, and the offender has previously been convicted of an exhibitor's offence not less than twice (whether summarily or on indictment), may revoke any exhibitor's licence held by him in respect of the theatre in relation to which the offence has occurred, and may order, with respect to—
- (i) the offender,
 - (ii) any person who, at or since the time when the offence occurred, was or has been financially associated with the offender in his business as an exhibitor, or
 - (iii) any person concerned in the management of the offender's said business who was knowingly a party to the offence.
- that he shall, for such period as may be specified in the order, be disqualified for holding an exhibitor's licence in respect of that theatre, and may also order that every person in whose case an exhibitor's licence, or a licence granted under the Act of 1927 for the purposes of section twenty of that Act, has been revoked during the year immediately preceding the date of the conviction, shall, for such period as may be specified in the order, be so disqualified :

Provided that an order under paragraph (a) of this subsection shall not operate so as to prevent the offender performing, for a period not exceeding six months, any obligations under any contract entered into by him before the institution of the proceedings leading to the conviction.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, summary proceedings for a quota offence under this Part of this Act may, in the case of an offence under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, be instituted at any time within two years after the end of the renter's quota period in relation to which the offence has occurred, or, in the case of an offence under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to exhibitors' quotas, be instituted at any time within one year after the end of the exhibitors' quota year in relation to which the offence has occurred.

(4) In this section the expression "renter's offence" means a quota offence under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, or an offence under section thirteen of the Act of 1927, and the expression "exhibitor's offence" means a quota offence under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to exhibitors' quotas, or an offence under section nineteen of the Act of 1927.

(12).—Record books to be kept by renters and exhibitors.

(1) Any renter who has, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirty-first day of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, acquired for distribution in Great Britain a film which is a registered film shall, as soon as practicable, record in a book to be kept by him for the purpose—

(a) the title and registered length of the film, the fact that it is registered as a British film or registered as a foreign film, as the case may be, and such other particulars with respect to the film as may be prescribed for the purpose of identification, and

(b) the theatres in Great Britain for public exhibition at which he delivers the film to exhibitors, and the respective dates on which, or periods for which, the film is to be, or has been, exhibited to the public at those theatres on delivery as aforesaid ; and shall, whenever requested so to do by a person authorised in that behalf by the Board of Trade, produce the said book for inspection by that person.

(2) Any exhibitor who, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibits a registered film to the public at a theatre in Great Britain shall, as soon as practicable, record in a book to be kept by him for the purpose in respect of that theatre—

(a) the title and registered length of the film, the fact that it is registered as a British film or registered as a foreign film, as the case may be, and such other particulars with respect to the film as may be prescribed for the purpose of identification, and

(b) the dates in that year on which the film was exhibited to the public at that theatre, and, in relation to each of those dates, the number of times the film was so exhibited and the respective hours at which the exhibition of cinematograph films to the public at that theatre began and ended :

Provided that an exhibitor who does not, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibit registered films to the public at any one theatre in Great Britain on more than six days nor at more than one such theatre at the same time, shall not be obliged to keep under this subsection more than one book in respect of the theatres at which he so exhibits registered films in that year.

(3) Any book which an exhibitor is required by this section to keep in relation to a particular theatre shall, so long as he continues to carry on the business of exhibiting registered films to the public at that theatre, be kept by him at that theatre and be open to inspection thereat, at all reasonable times, by any person authorised in that behalf by the Board of Trade ; and, subject to the preceding provisions of this subsection, an exhibitor who is required to keep a book under this section shall, whenever requested so to do by a person authorised in that behalf by the Board, produce the book for inspection by that person.

(4) If any person who is required to keep a book under this section fails to keep the book in accordance with the requirements of this section or to record any particular therein in accordance with those requirements, or fails to produce the book on demand for inspection by any person entitled to inspect it, or prevents or attempts to prevent the inspection of the book by any person so entitled, he shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

(13).—Relief from liability for quota offences in circumstances beyond control of renter or exhibitor.

(1) If, upon application made to them, the Board of Trade are satisfied that any failure on the part of a person to fulfil any relevant quota conditions was due to circumstances beyond his control, the Board may issue a certificate to that effect:

Provided that, where any application is made under this subsection to the Board, they shall, before determining the application, consult the Cinematograph Films Council and consider its advice in the matter.

(2) For the purposes of this Part of this Act, a failure on the part of a person to fulfil any relevant quota conditions shall be deemed to have been due to circumstances beyond the control of that person if, owing to the character of the films available or to the excessive cost of such films, it was not commercially practicable to fulfil those conditions, but, in the case of a renter, shall be deemed not to have been due to circumstances beyond his control if it was commercially practicable for him to fulfil those conditions by making, or arranging for the making of, the necessary films.

(14).—Provisions as to cases where distribution rights in respect of films pass on renters going out of business.

(1) Where, in any renters' quota period, a person being the holder of a renter's licence for the time being in force has ceased to carry on business as a renter in Great Britain, and, in consequence of the cessation, the right to distribute in any country or area a film to which this Act applies, and which that renter had acquired in that period for distribution in that country or area, passes in that period, by assignment or will or by operation of law, from the said person to some other person being the holder of such a licence, then, subject to the provisions of the following subsection, the first-mentioned person shall, for the purposes of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, be deemed never to have acquired the film for distribution in that country or area, or delivered the film to an exhibitor for public exhibition.

(2) If, in relation to any such assignment as is mentioned in the preceding subsection, it appears to the Board of Trade that the assignment was made with a view to the evasion of any of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, the Board may direct that the said subsection shall not apply in relation to that assignment.

(15).—Power of Board of Trade to alter quotas by order.

(1) Subject to the following provisions of this section, the Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may, not later than the end of June nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering either or both of the proportions prescribed by Part II of the First Schedule to this Act for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and thirty-nine; and if, before the end of July nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, each House of Parliament has resolved that the order be made, the Board shall forthwith make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation upon the making thereof.

(2) Subject to the provisions of the next following subsection, the Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter,—

(a) may, at any time during the year nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering, either generally or in relation only to long films or short films, all or any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the First Schedule to this Act for the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and forty and the next succeeding year, or prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and forty and the next succeeding year, and

(b) may, at any time during the year nineteen hundred and forty-one, lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering as aforesaid all or any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and forty-two and the next two succeeding years, or prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and forty-two and the next two succeeding years, and

(c) may, at any time during the year nineteen hundred and forty-four, lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering as aforesaid all or any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and forty-five and the two succeeding years, or prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and forty-five and the two succeeding years; and if, before the end of the calendar year in which the draft of such an order is laid before Parliament each House of Parliament has resolved that the order be made, the Board shall forthwith make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation upon the making thereof.

(3) This section shall not authorise the making of an order—

- (a) altering any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the First Schedule to this Act to a proportion being, in relation to long films, less than twenty per cent. or more than thirty per cent. or, in relation to short films, less than fifteen per cent. or more than 30 per cent., or
- (b) altering any of the proportions prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule to a proportion being, in relation to long films, less than fifteen per cent. or more than thirty per cent. or, in relation to short films, less than twelve and a half per cent. or more than thirty per cent.

4) As from the coming into operation of an order under this section altering any of the proportions prescribed by the First Schedules to this Act, that Schedule shall have effect as if it prescribed, instead of that proportion, the proportion substituted therefor by the order.

(5) In this section the expression "calendar year" means year beginning with the first day of January.

(16).—Reduction of exhibitors' quotas for year ending 30th September, 1938.

The First Schedule to the Act of 1927 shall have effect, and be deemed always to have had effect, as if the proportion prescribed by Part II of that Schedule as respects the year ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight were fifteen per cent. and not twenty per cent.

PART II.

RESTRICTIONS ON BLIND BOOKING AND ADVANCE BOOKING OF FILMS.

(17).—Restriction on blind booking.

(1) No renter shall, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, procure the giving by an exhibitor (whether for a consideration or not, and whether orally or in writing) of any such undertaking as would, if it were legally binding on the exhibitor, impose on him an obligation, either actual or contingent, to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies, for public exhibition at a theatre in Great Britain, being a film which had not been trade-shown at the time of his giving the undertaking:

Provided that this subsection shall not operate so as to restrict—

- (a) in relation to any serial film or series of films, the making, at a time when at least three parts of the film or series have been trade-shown, of an agreement for the public exhibition of any part thereof.
- (b) the making, in relation to any one film, of an agreement for the exhibition of that film at one theatre only and on a number of consecutive days, or
- (c) the making, in relation to any one film, of agreements for the exhibition of that film on not more than three days and at not more than three theatres.

(2) Where, in relation to any one film, there have been made, at a time when that film has not been trade-shown, several agreements the purport of which taken together is to provide for the public exhibition of that film in Great Britain either at more than one theatre or otherwise than on consecutive days, the benefit of paragraph (b) of the proviso to the preceding subsection shall not extend to any of those agreements; and where, in relation to any one film, there have been made, at a time when that film has not been trade-shown, several agreements the purport of which taken together is to provide for the public exhibition of the film in Great Britain either on more than three days or at more than three theatres, the benefit of paragraph (c) of the said proviso shall not extend to any of those agreements.

In relation to any film being a part of a serial film or series of films, the preceding provisions of this subsection shall have effect as if, in those provisions, for the words "when that film has not been trade-shown," in each place where those words occur, there were substituted the words "before three parts of that serial film or series of films have been trade-shown."

(18).—Restriction on advance booking.

No renter shall, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirty-first day of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, procure the giving by an exhibitor (whether for a consideration or not, and whether orally or in writing) of any such undertaking as would, if it were legally binding on the exhibitor, impose on him an obligation, either actual or contingent, to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies for public exhibition at a theatre in Great Britain at a date later than six months after the date on which he gives the undertaking:

Provided that, in relation to any serial film or series of films, this section shall not operate so as to restrict the making of an agreement in so far as it provides for any part of the film or series being exhibited after three parts thereof have been exhibited to the public at a theatre in Great Britain.

(19).—Penalties.

If any renter contravenes any of the provisions of this Part of this Act, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds.

(20).—Invalidation of agreements involving blind booking or advance booking.

(1) Any agreement made after the commencement of this Act (whether in Great Britain or elsewhere) shall be invalid, if and so far as—

(a) in the case of an agreement made before the end of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, it purports to impose on any exhibitor an obligation, either actual or contingent, to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies for public exhibition at a theatre in Great Britain, being a film which has not been trade-shown at the time of the making of the agreement, or

(b) in the case of an agreement made before the end of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, it purports to impose on any exhibitor an obligation, either actual or contingent, to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies for public exhibition at a theatre in Great Britain at a date later than six months after the date on which the agreement is made :

Provided that the preceding provisions of this subsection shall not apply in relation to any agreement the making of which is unrestricted by virtue of the proviso to subsection (1) of section seventeen of this Act or the proviso to section eighteen of this Act, as the case may be.

(2) Any agreement validly made before the commencement of this Act (whether in Great Britain or elsewhere) which, if made after the commencement of this Act, would be invalid under the preceding subsection, shall, if and so far as it relates to the delivery after the end of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, for public exhibition in Great Britain, of a film to which this Act applies, cease to have effect at the end of that month.

(21).—Information to be furnished by renters to Board of Trade for purposes of Part II.

A renter shall, whenever requested so to do by a person authorised in that behalf by the Board of Trade, produce to that person such books or other documents, and furnish to that person such other information, with respect to any film delivered or to be delivered by him to any exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition therein, being a film to which this Act applies, as the Board may require for the purpose of the enforcement of this Part of this Act.

PART III. REGISTRATION OF FILMS.

(22).—Prohibition of distribution or exhibition of unregistered films.

(1) No person shall, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, deliver to an exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition therein any film to which this Act applies, unless, at the time of the delivery, the film is a registered film, and no person shall, in the said period, exhibit to the public at a theatre in Great Britain any film to which this Act applies, being a film which he knows, or ought to have known, not to be a registered film :

Provided that this subsection shall not restrict the delivery or exhibition, in pursuance of a valid agreement for its exhibition at one theatre only on a number of consecutive days, of a film in respect of which a provisional application for registration has been made, if the film is trade-shown within six weeks from the date on which the application was made, and shall not restrict—

(a) the delivery or exhibition of any film which has been exhibited in Great Britain to exhibitors or to the public before the commencement of this Act, other than a film which was first so exhibited after the end of September nineteen hundred and twenty-seven and is a film to which the Act of 1927 applies, or

(b) the delivery or exhibition, in pursuance of valid agreements for its exhibition on not more than three days and at not more than three theatres, of a film which, at the time of the delivery or exhibition, has not been trade-shown.

(2) If any person delivers a film in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds; and if any person exhibits a film in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which he so exhibits the film.

(23).—Registration of films.

(1) Upon application duly made to them, not later than the end of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, for the registration of a film to which this Act applies, the Board of Trade shall, subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, register the film under this Part of this Act in a register to be kept by the Board for the purpose.

(2) The register shall be so kept as to record, in relation to each film registered therein,—

(a) the title and length of the film, the fact that it is a British film or a foreign film, as the case may be, and such other particulars (if any) with respect to the film as may be prescribed for the purpose of identification, and

(b) such other particulars with respect to the film as are required by the following provisions of this Part of this Act to be entered in the register.

(3) On the registration of a film under this Part of this Act, the Board of Trade shall issue to the person on whose application the film is registered a certificate of registration specifying all the particulars which, at the time of the issue of the certificate, are recorded in the register with respect to that film.

(4) As soon as may be after the end of the week beginning at the commencement of this Act, and of each subsequent week, the Board of Trade shall publish in the Board of Trade Journal a list of films registered in that week.

(5) The register shall, at all reasonable times, be open to inspection by any person at the offices of the Board of Trade, on payment of the prescribed fee, and any person inspecting the register may take copies of any entries therein.

(6) The Board of Trade shall, on demand made in that behalf by any person and on payment of the prescribed fee, furnish that person with a copy of the entry in the register relating to any particular film, being a copy certified to be true by the officer of the Board of Trade having the custody of the register.

(24).—Applications for registration, and information to be furnished in connection therewith.

(1) Every application for the registration of a film shall be made either by the maker of the film or by a renter who has acquired it for distribution in Great Britain, and shall be accompanied by the prescribed fee.

(2) No such application as aforesaid shall be entertained unless the film which is the subject of the application has been trade-shown within the fourteen days immediately preceding the date on which the application is made :

Provided that—

(a) a provisional application may be made before the film has been trade-shown, and in that case, if the film is trade-shown within six weeks after the date on which the provisional application is made, the provisional application shall thereupon be treated as if it had been made within fourteen days after the film was trade-shown ; and

(b) an application made more than fourteen days after the film was trade-shown may be entertained by the Board of Trade if they are satisfied that the delay was due to special circumstances and was not intentional.

(3) The applicant for the registration of a film, and if the applicant is not the maker of the film, the maker, shall produce to the Board of Trade such books and other documents relating to the film, and furnish to the Board such other information with respect thereto, as the Board may require for the proper discharge of their functions under this Part of this Act in relation to that film ; and any information furnished for the purposes of this subsection shall, if the Board so direct, be accompanied by a statutory declaration as to the truth of the information, being a declaration made by the person furnishing the information :

Provided that an application for the registration of a film shall not be granted, unless and until there has been furnished to the Board of Trade a statutory declaration made by the applicant to the effect that there has not been made, in relation to that film, any such agreement as is declared by part II of this Act to be invalid in any respect.

(25).—Determination of films to be treated as British films for purposes of registration.

(1) Subject to the following provisions of this section, a film shall, for the purpose of the registration thereof under this Part of this Act, be deemed to be a British film if, and only if,—

(a) the maker of the film was, throughout the time during which the film was being made, either a British subject or a British company, and

(b) the studio, if any, used in making the film was within His Majesty's dominions, and

(c) not less than the requisite amount of labour costs represents payments paid or payable in respect of the labour or services of British subjects or persons domiciled in some part of His Majesty's dominions.

(2) In paragraph (a) of the preceding subsection the expression "a British company" means a company incorporated under the laws of any part of His Majesty's dominions, being a company the directors of which, or the majority of the directors of which, were British subjects ; and for the purposes of paragraphs (a) and (c) of that subsection, any film used for making photographs depicted as part of any scene in the film which is the subject of the application for registration, shall be deemed to form part of the last-mentioned film ; and in paragraph (c) of that subsection the expression "the requisite amount of labour costs" means, in relation to any film—

(a) (in a case where the total labour costs of the film amount to not less than twenty-two thousand five hundred pounds, and the quotient derived from dividing the amount of the said total labour costs by the number of feet comprised in the length of the film is a sum of not less than three pounds) whichever of the two following amounts is the less, that is to say—

(i) the amount arrived at by applying the fraction three-quarters to the total labour costs of the film, after deducting therefrom, if the applicant for registration so desires, the amount of any payment which, as part of those costs, has been paid or is payable in respect of the labour or services of any one person who was, while engaged in the making of the film, neither a British subject nor a person domiciled in some part of His Majesty's dominions ;

(ii) the amount arrived at by applying the fraction four-fifths to the total labour costs of the film, after deducting therefrom the amount of any payments which, as part of those costs, have been paid or are payable in respect of the labour or services of any two persons neither of whom was, while engaged in the making of the film, a British subject or a person so domiciled, and at least one of whom was so engaged in the capacity of an actor or actress, or

(b) in any other case, the amount arrived at under sub-paragraph (i) of the preceding paragraph:

Provided that if, upon the application for the registration, as a British film, of a film in respect of which the condition imposed by paragraph (c) of the preceding subsection is not fulfilled, the Board of Trade are satisfied that the maker of the film took all reasonable steps to fulfil the said condition, and that the non-fulfilment thereof was due to exceptional circumstances beyond his control, the Board, if they think fit, may direct that this subsection shall have effect in relation to that film as if in paragraph (a) of this subsection for the words "three-quarters" and the words "four-fifths" there were respectively substituted the words "seven-tenths" and the words "three-quarters."

(3) If, upon an application for the registration of a film as a British film, the applicant requests the Board of Trade so to do, the Board shall, for the purpose of determining whether the conditions imposed by this section are fulfilled in respect of the film, treat the film as if such portions thereof as may be designated by the applicant, being portions the length of which does not exceed in all ten per cent. of the total length of the film or twenty per cent. of so much of its total length as consists of photographs of studio scenes (whichever percentage is the less), did not form part of the film; and in that case the length of the film shall, for the purpose of the registration thereof, be deemed to be reduced by the length of the portions of the film which, by virtue of this subsection, are to be treated as not forming part of the film.

(4) Every film registered under this Part of this Act shall, if the conditions imposed by subsection (1) of this section are fulfilled in respect of the film, be registered as a British film, or, if those conditions are not so fulfilled, be registered as a foreign film.

(5) Section seven of the Finance Act, 1928, (which provides for the reduction of customs duties on negative cinematograph films which are certified by the Board of Trade to satisfy the requirements of subsection (3) of section twenty-seven of the Act of 1927) shall have effect as if the reference in the said section seven to the said subsection (3) included a reference to subsection (1) of this section.

(26).—Conditions governing registration of British films as quota films.

(1) Every film registered under this Part of this Act as a British film shall be registered as an exhibitors' quota film, and, subject to the following provisions of this section, shall, if the applicant so requests, be registered also as a renters' quota film.

(2) A film registered under this Part of this Act as a British film shall not be registered as a renters' quota film unless—

(a) the maker of the film was, throughout the time during which the film was being made, a person carrying on business in the United Kingdom and having his principal place of business therein, and

(b) the studio, if any, used in making the film (exclusive of any portion of the film which, by virtue of subsection (3) of the last preceding section, is to be treated as not forming part of the film) was within the United Kingdom, and

(c) at least half the requisite amount of labour costs, as defined by subsection (2) of the last preceding section, represents payments which, as part of the labour costs of the film, have been paid or are payable in respect of the labour or services of British subjects ordinarily resident in, or persons domiciled in, the United Kingdom.

(3) A film registered under this Part of this Act as a British long film shall not be registered as a renters' quota film unless—

(a) the total labour costs of the film amount to not less than seven thousand five hundred pounds, and

(b) the quotient derived from dividing the amount of the said total labour costs by the number of feet comprised in the length of the film is a sum of not less than one pound:

Provided that the Board of Trade may exempt any particular film from the operation of this subsection if, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, the Board are of opinion that the film has special value for purposes of entertainment.

(4) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may lay before Parliament the draft of an order directing that the last preceding subsection shall, subject to such modifications of that subsection as may be specified in the order, apply in relation to films registered under this Part of this Act as British short films, as it applies in relation to films registered as British long films; and if each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made, the Board shall make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation on such date as may be specified therein.

(5) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may lay before Parliament the draft of an order providing that the Board, upon representations made to them within the prescribed period after there has been trade-shown a film which is the subject of an application for the registration thereof as a British film and also as a renters' quota film, or which has been registered as aforesaid, may, notwithstanding that the conditions as to cost imposed in relation to the film by subsection (3) of this section, or by an order under the last preceding subsection are fulfilled, either refuse to register the film as a renters' quota film or, as the case may be, cancel the registration of the film as a renters' quota film, if, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, the Board are satisfied that the film has insufficient value for purposes of entertainment; and if each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made the Board shall make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation on such date, falling not earlier than twelve months after the date on which the order is made, as may be specified in the order :

Provided that an order under this subsection shall not apply in relation to short films unless and until an order under the last preceding subsection is in operation.

(6) Where, in the case of a film registered under this Part of this Act as a British long film and also as a renters' quota film,—

(a) the total labour costs of the film amount to not less than twenty-two thousand five hundred pounds but to less than thirty-seven thousand five hundred pounds, and

the film shall be registered as doubled for the purpose of renters' quota ; and where, in the case of a film registered as a British long film and also as a renters' quota film—

(i) the total labour costs of the film amount to not less than thirty-seven thousand five hundred pounds, and

(ii) the quotient derived from dividing the amount of the said total labour costs by the number of feet comprised in the length of the film is a sum of not less than five pounds. the film shall be registered as trebled for the purpose of renters' quota.

(7) If, and to the extent that, section one of this Act has effect subject to the modification made therein by an order containing such a direction as is authorised by paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of that section, subsection (6) of this section shall have effect as if, in that subsection, for the words "trebled for the purpose of renters' quota " there were substituted the words "capable of being doubled under section three of this Act."

(27).—Power to disregard items of labour costs in certain circumstances.

If, upon any application for the registration of a film under this Part of this Act, being an application in connection with which it is material to ascertain—

(a) the labour costs of the film, or

(b) the proportion of those costs which represents payments in respect of the labour or services of persons of any particular class, it appears to the Board of Trade that any sum which, as part of those costs, is paid or payable in respect of the labour or services of any particular person is so great as not to be a bona fide payment by way of remuneration for the labour or services in question, the Board may direct that the said sum shall, as to the whole or any part of the amount thereof, be disregarded in ascertaining the said labour costs or the said proportion thereof, as the case may be.

(28).—Registration of serial films.

(1) Subject to the provisions of the following subsection, an application for the registration of any part of a serial film or series of films may be entertained if three parts of the film or series have been trade-shown.

(2) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may by order direct that the preceding subsection shall not apply in relation to any such application for registration as aforesaid which may be made during the continuance in force of the order ; and any order under this subsection may be revoked by a subsequent order of the Board.

(3) If an order is made under the last preceding subsection, any provision contained in Part II of this Act which qualifies, in relation to any serial film or series of films, a restriction imposed by that Part of this Act shall operate so as to qualify that restriction in relation only to the exhibition of such parts (if any) of a serial film or series of films as are not the subject of applications for registration made during the continuance in force of the order.

(29).—Prohibition of registration of film exhibited or registered before commencement of Act.

A film which has been exhibited in Great Britain to the public before the commencement of this Act (other than a film which was first so exhibited after the end of September nineteen hundred and twenty-seven and is a film to which the Act of 1927 applies) shall not be registered after the commencement of this Act, and a film which has been duly registered under Part II of the Act of 1927 shall not be registered under this Part of this Act :

Provided that for the purposes of this section a film shall not be taken to have been exhibited to the public by reason only that the film has been trade-shown.

(30).—Corrections of register.

If, at any time after the registration of a film, the Board of Trade, upon making any such enquiries as they think desirable, are satisfied that the film either ought not to have been registered or is incorrectly registered in any particular, they shall cause the necessary deletion or correction to be made in the register and, if the Board think proper, issue to the maker of the film, or, if the film has been acquired by a renter for distribution in Great Britain, issue to the renter, a certificate of registration to take the place of any such certificate previously issued in respect of the film ; but the Board, if in any particular case they think fit so to do, may direct that, for the purpose of any of the provisions of Part I of this Act relating to renters' quotas and exhibitors' quotas, the film shall, to such extent as may be specified in the direction, be treated as if the deletion or correction in the register had not been made.

(31).—Reference of disputes to High Court or Court of Session.

(1) Any person who is aggrieved by any decision taken by the Board of Trade for the purpose of the performance of their duties in relation to the register, may, subject to rules of court, make application in the matter to the High Court, and the decision of that court on any such application shall be final and not subject to appeal to any other court.

(2) In relation to any person whose principal place of business is in Scotland, the preceding sub-section shall have effect as if for any reference therein to the High Court there were substituted a reference to the Court of Session.

(32).—Evidence of registration.

The registration of a film may be proved by the production of—

(a) a copy of the Board of Trade Journal containing a notification of the registration of the film, or

(b) the certificate of registration issued, or, as the case may be, last issued in respect of the film, or

(c) a copy of the entry in the register relating to the film, being a copy certified to be true by the officer having the custody of the register ; and a document purporting to be such a certificate of registration, or to be such a certified copy as aforesaid, shall be evidence of the matters stated in the document, without proof of the signature or authority of the person signing it.

(33).—Information to be given to exhibitors with respect to registration of films.

(1) A renter who, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, delivers a registered film to an exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition therein shall, in such manner, and at such time, as may be prescribed, notify to the exhibitor the title and registered length of the film, the fact that it is registered as a British film or registered as a foreign film, as the case may be, and any such other particulars for the time being recorded in the register with respect to the film as may be prescribed.

(2) If any renter fails to comply with the provisions of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

PART IV.

PROVISIONS AS TO PERSONS EMPLOYED BY MAKERS OF CINEMATOGRAPH FILMS.

(34).—Wages and conditions of employment of persons employed by makers of cinematograph films.

(1) The wages paid by any person carrying on in Great Britain the business of making films to which this Act applies to persons employed by him in connection with that business, and the conditions of employment of persons so employed, shall, unless agreed upon by the employer and by organisation representative of the persons employed, be not less favourable to the person employed than the wages which would be payable, and the conditions which would have to be observed, under a contract which complied with the requirements of any resolution of the House of Commons for the time being in force applicable to contracts of Government departments ; and if any dispute arises as to what wages ought to be paid, or what conditions ought to be observed, in accordance with this section, it shall, if not otherwise disposed of, be referred by the Board of Trade to the industrial court for settlement.

(2) Where any matter is referred to the industrial court under this section, the court, in arriving at its decision, shall have regard to any determination that may be brought to its notice relating to the wages or conditions of service of persons employed in a capacity similar to that of the persons to whom the reference relates, being a determination contained in a decision of a joint industrial council, conciliation board or other similar body, or in an agreement between organisations representative of employers and workpeople.

(3) Where any award has been made by the industrial court upon a dispute referred to that court under this section, then, as from the date of the award or from such later date as the court may direct, it shall be an implied term of the contract between the employer and workers to whom the award applies that the rate of wages to be paid, or the conditions of employment to be observed, under the contract shall, until varied in accordance with the provisions of this section, be in accordance with the award.

PART V.

GENERAL AND SUPPLEMENTARY PROVISIONS.

(35).—Films to which Act applies.

The films to which this Act applies are all cinematograph films other than—

- (a) films consisting wholly or mainly of photographs which, at the time when they were taken, were means of communicating news, or
- (b) films made wholly or mainly for the purpose of commercial advertisement, or
- (c) films certified by the Board of Education under subsection (2) of section seven of the Finance Act, 1935, as being entitled to exemption from customs duties under the convention for facilitating the international circulation of films of an educational character which is referred to in that subsection.

(36).—Power of Board of Trade to vary by order minimum figure in respect of labour costs.

(1) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may lay before Parliament the draft of an order directing that any provisions of this Act or of an order under Part III of this Act which specify a sum to which—

- (a) the labour costs of a film, or the quotient arrived at by dividing the amount of the labour costs of the film by the length thereof, or
- (b) the price paid or payable for the acquisition of the right to distribute a film in a foreign country, must amount for any particular purpose, shall have effect as if for any reference in those provisions to the said sum there were substituted a reference to such other sum as may be specified in the order; and if each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made, the Board shall make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation on such date as may be specified therein.

(2) The power conferred by the preceding subsection to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order shall be construed as including a power, exercisable in the like manner and subject to the like condition, to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order varying or revoking an order having effect by virtue of that subsection.

(37).—Annual returns to be made by renters and exhibitors.

(1) Every person who has, in the year beginning at the commencement of this Act or any of the nine succeeding years, carried on business as a renter in Great Britain shall—

- (a) within one month after the end of that year, or within such longer period as the Board of Trade may in any particular case allow, furnish to the Board a return stating whether or not he has in that year acquired for distribution in Great Britain any film which is a registered film, and, if he has done so, giving with respect to each registered film which has been so acquired by him in that year such particulars as may be prescribed, being particulars which the Board consider necessary for the purposes of this Act, and
- (b) not later than the end of April in the year next following that in which a return has been made by him in pursuance of paragraph (a) of this subsection, furnish to the Board of Trade a supplementary return giving, with respect to any registered film acquired by him as aforesaid in the year to which the original return relates, such of the prescribed particulars as could not have been given in the original return:

Provided that, in relation to any such person who has ceased in any such year to carry on business as a renter in Great Britain, paragraph (a) of this subsection shall have effect as if for the reference in that paragraph to the end of that year, there were substituted a reference to the date in that year on which he ceased to carry on business as aforesaid.

(2) Any such return as aforesaid shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of determining whether the films mentioned in the return as having been acquired by the person by whom the return was made were acquired by him for distribution in Great Britain.

(3) Every person who has, in any exhibitors' quota year, carried on business as an exhibitor at a theatre in Great Britain, shall, within one month after the end of that year, furnish to the Board of Trade a return stating whether or not he has in that year exhibited to the public at a theatre in Great Britain a film which is a registered film, and, if so—

- (a) specifying the dates in that year on which any registered film was exhibited by him to the public at that theatre, and, in relation to each of those dates, the number of times the film was so exhibited, and
- (b) giving such other particulars (if any) with respect to the film as may be prescribed, being particulars which the Board consider necessary for the purposes of this Act; and the said return shall include a statement showing, in relation to each day in the said year on which cinematograph films were exhibited to the public at that theatre, the respective times at which the exhibition of films as aforesaid began and ended:

Provided that, if in any such year an exhibitor ceases to carry on the business of exhibiting registered films to the public at any particular theatre in Great Britain, the return to be made by him with respect to that theatre for that year shall be made within one month after the date on which he so ceases to carry on that business at that theatre.

(4) A return required by this section shall be deemed not to have been furnished in compliance with this section unless it is accompanied by a statutory declaration of the truth of the particulars contained in the return, being a declaration made by the person required to furnish the return.

(5) Every person by whom a return has been made to the Board of Trade in pursuance of this section, shall produce and furnish to the Board such books and other documents and other information by way of explanation of the return as the Board may require for the purposes of this Act.

(6) For the purposes of any proceedings which may be taken by virtue of this section, the fact that a person has been the holder of a renter's licence or of an exhibitor's licence shall be evidence that the said person has, in the year in respect of which the licence was granted, carried on business as a renter in Great Britain or carried on business as an exhibitor at a theatre in Great Britain, as the case may be.

(38).—Penalties in connection with the furnishing of information.

(1) If any person fails to produce, furnish or give to the Board of Trade, in accordance with the requirements of this Act, any book or other document, or any return, notification or other information, which he is required by this Act so to produce, furnish or give, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding five pounds for every day during which the default continues.

(2) Any person who, in furnishing or giving any return, notification or other information for the purposes of any provisions of this Act, or, in recording any particulars in pursuance of this Act, knowingly or recklessly makes a statement false in a material particular, shall be guilty of an offence and liable, on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds or to both such imprisonment and such fine.

(39).—Offences by corporations.

Where a body corporate is guilty of an offence under this Act, and it is proved that the offence occurred with the consent or connivance of, or was attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the body corporate, he, as well as the body corporate, shall be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

(40).—Regulations of Board of Trade.

(1) Subject to the following provisions of this section, the Board of Trade may make regulations prescribing anything which by this Act is required or authorised to be prescribed, and may make regulations prescribing—

(a) the form of applications for the registration of films or for licences under this Act.

(b) the particulars and evidence necessary for satisfying the Board that a film is a British film or is a film which ought to be registered under Part III of this Act as a renters' quota film, and

(c) the form of the returns to be made, and the record books to be kept, under this Act, and also regulations providing that any statutory declaration which a person is required by this Act to make shall be deemed to be properly made if it is made on his behalf by any such person as may be specified in the regulations; but no such regulations prescribing the payment of fees shall be of any effect unless those regulations have been made with the consent of the Treasury.

(2) Any regulations prescribing the amount of any fees shall be so framed as to secure, as nearly as may be, that the aggregate amount produced by those fees will be equal to the amount of the expenses incidental to the carrying out of this Act and the carrying out of the Act of 1927 after the commencement of this Act; but the amount of the fees payable on applications for the registration of films or for licences under this Act shall not exceed the amounts specified in the Second Schedule to this Act.

(1) There shall be a council to be called "the Cinematograph Films Council," consisting of twenty-one members appointed by the Board of Trade; and of the members of the said Council—

(a) eleven (of whom one shall be the chairman of the Council) shall be persons appointed as being independent persons,

(b) two shall be persons appointed as representing makers of British films,

(c) two shall be persons appointed as representing renters,

(d) two shall be persons appointed as representing exhibitors, and

(e) two shall be persons appointed as representing persons employed by makers of British films.

(2) It shall be the duty of the Board of Trade to satisfy themselves, with respect to any person whom they propose to appoint under paragraph (a) of the preceding subsection to be a member of the said Council, or who is a member of the Council by virtue of an appointment made under that paragraph, that he will have or has, as the case may be, no such financial or commercial interest as is likely to affect him in the discharge of his functions as a member of the Council; and any such person shall whenever requested by the Board so to do, furnish to them such information as they consider necessary for the performance of their duty under this sub-section.

Before appointing a person to be a representative member of the said Council, the Board of Trade shall consult such bodies, if any, as appear to the Board to be representative of the interest concerned.

The Board of Trade shall not appoint to be a member of the said Council any person who has been convicted of an offence under the Act of 1927 or this Act.

(3) The functions of the said Council shall be—

- (a) to keep under review the progress of the cinematograph film industry in Great Britain, with particular reference to the development of that branch of the said industry which is engaged in the making of films, and to report thereon to the Board of Trade at such times as the Council thinks fit,
- (b) to advise the Board in any matter relating to the cinematograph film industry in which the advice of the Council is sought by the Board (whether at the request of any persons appearing to the Board to have a substantial interest in the matter or otherwise), and
- (c) to make to the Board, as soon as may be after the end of the year beginning at the commencement of this Act and each subsequent year, a report of the proceedings of the Council during that year.

(4) As soon as may be after receiving any report made to them under paragraph (c) of the last preceding subsection, the Board of Trade shall lay copies of the report before Parliament.

(5) The Board of Trade shall furnish to the said Council such information as the Council may reasonably require for the proper discharge of its functions.

(6) The quorum of the said Council shall be such number, not being less than ten, as the Board of Trade may determine; and the Council shall have power to regulate its own procedure, and may act notwithstanding a vacancy among the members thereof.

(7) A member of the said Council shall hold and vacate office in accordance with the terms of the instrument under which he is appointed, and a member of the Council who ceases to hold office shall be eligible for re-appointment; but no person shall, on any occasion, be appointed to be a member of the Council for more than three years:

Provided that, if any member of the said Council is convicted of an offence under the Act of 1927 or this Act, his office as a member of the Council shall forthwith become vacant.

(8) The said Council may, subject to any such limitations and conditions as it thinks proper delegate any of its functions to a committee of the Council consisting of such members of the Council as they may determine.

(42).—Institution of proceedings, and service of process.

(1) Proceedings for an offence under this Act shall not, in England, be instituted otherwise than by the Board of Trade.

(2) Any process to be served on any person for the purposes of this Act shall, if that person is out of Great Britain but has a place of business in Great Britain, be deemed to be duly served if it addressed to that person and left at, or sent by post to, that place of business.

(43).—Exercise of powers of Board of Trade.

Anything required or authorised by or under this Act to be done by, to or before the Board of Trade, may be done by, to or before the President of the Board, any secretary, under-secretary or assistant-secretary of the Board, or any person authorised in that behalf by the President.

(1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say:—

“the Act of 1927” means the Cinematograph Films Act, 1927;

“the Cinematograph Films Council” means the Cinematograph Films Council constituted under this Part of this Act;

“exhibitor” means a person carrying on the business of exhibiting cinematograph films to the public;

“exhibitor’s licence” means, in relation to any person, a licence under Part of this Act authorising him to carry on business as an exhibitor;

“exhibitors’ quota year” means the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and thirty-eight or any of the nine succeeding years;

“foreign country” means a country or territory which for the time being does not form part of His Majesty’s dominions;

“labour costs,” in relation to a film, means the total amount of the payments paid or payable by the maker of the film in respect of the labour or services of persons directly engaged in the making of the film, in so far as those payments are attributable to the making of that film, but does not include payments in respect of copyright; and for the purposes of this definition—

(a) the author of the scenario of a film shall be deemed to be a person directly engaged in the making of the film, and

(b) a person shall not be taken to be directly engaged in the making of a film by reason only—

(i) that he is financially interested in the making of a film, or is engaged, in an administrative or clerical capacity, as an officer or servant of an undertaking concerned with the making of the film, or

(ii) that he supplies goods used in the making of the film or is in the employment of a person who supplies such goods ;

"long film" means a film the length of which is not less than three thousand feet ;

"maker," in relation to a film, means the person by whom the arrangements necessary for the making of the film are undertaken ;

"the register," means the register of films registered under Part III of this Act, and "registration" means registration under that Part of this Act ;

"registered" means registered either under Part III of this Act or under Part II of the Act of 1927 ;

"registered length," in relation to a film, means the length of the film as registered for the time being

"renter" means a person who carries on the business of distributing cinematograph films to exhibitors, and, in relation to any renters' quota period, includes a person who has carried on that business in that period ;

"renter's licence" means, in relation to any person, a licence under Part I of this Act authorising him to carry on business as a renter ;

"renters' quota period" means the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, or the period of six months beginning with the first day of April or October in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-nine or in any of the eight succeeding years ;

"serial film or series of films" means a serial film or series of films consisting of a number of parts not exceeding thirteen, each of which does not exceed two thousand feet in length, and which are intended to be exhibited on successive dates at intervals not exceeding fourteen days ;

"short film" means a film the length of which is less than three thousand feet ;

"studio" means a building constructed or adapted for the purpose of making films therein, and includes any land occupied with such a building, and a studio shall be deemed to be used in making a film if any part of that film, or of any other film used in making it, consists of photographs taken in that studio ; and "studio scenes" shall be construed accordingly ;

"theatre" means any premises used for the exhibition of films to the public, except that the expression shall not, in relation to any year,—

(a) be construed as including any church, chapel or other place of religious worship, or any hall or other premises used in connection with, and for the purposes of, any church, chapel or other such place as aforesaid, if the number of days on which registered films are exhibited in that year at the church, chapel, place, hall or premises (exclusive of any exhibition forming part of a religious service) does not exceed six, or

(b) be construed as including any premises used in that year for providing entertainments at which the exhibition of films is only part of the programme, if the total length of the registered film or films exhibited in the course of any one of those entertainments does not exceed two thousand feet ;

trade-shown," in relation to a film, means—

(a) displayed within the administrative county of London to exhibitors or their agents in a building, and under conditions, allowing for the satisfactory viewing of the film, after announcement to such persons at least seven days before the display the display not being open to any member of the public on payment, or

(b) displayed to exhibitors or their agents on one occasion on which the film is exhibited to the public at a theatre in Great Britain during the first four consecutive days on which the film is so exhibited, the display taking place after announcement to such persons at least seven days before the display.

2) Any film registered under the Act of 1927 as a British film (not being a film which, by virtue of paragraph (ii) of the proviso to subsection (1) of section twenty-seven of that Act, is to be deemed to be a registered film for the purposes of the provisions of that Act other than those relating to the renters' quota) shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be registered also as a renters' quota film.

(3) A person shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to acquire a film for distribution in any manner if he acquires the right to distribute the film in that manner.

(4) Any reference in this Act to distributing, or the distribution of, a film in any country or area shall be construed as a reference to distributing, or the distribution of, the film to exhibitors in that country or area for public exhibition therein.

(5) For the purposes of this Act, the making of a film shall be deemed not to include the production of blank film or of positives intended for public exhibition, or the production of negatives by means of any process used for making copies of negatives.

In this sub-section the expressions "blank film," "positives" and "negatives" have the same meanings respectively as in section three of the Finance Act, 1925.

(6) For the purposes of this Act, registered films shall be deemed to be exhibited at more than one theatre at the same time if any part of the period during which any one registered film is exhibited at a theatre coincides with any part of the period during which any one registered film is exhibited at another theatre.

(7) For the purposes of this Act, each part of a serial film or series of films shall be deemed to be a separate film.

(8) Any reference in this Act to His Majesty's dominions shall be construed as including a reference to any British protectorate, and to any such territory, being a territory in respect of which a mandate on behalf of the League of Nations is being exercised by His Majesty, as His Majesty may designate by Order in Council.

Any Order in Council under this sub-section may be varied or revoked by a subsequent Order in Council.

(45).—Repeals and transitional provisions.

(1) The provisions of the Act of 1927 specified in the Third Schedule to this Act are hereby repealed.

(2) No film shall be registered under Part II of the Act of 1927 after the end of March nineteen hundred and thirty-eight; and any application for the registration of a film under the said Part II, being an application which has been made before the commencement of this Act and has not been determined before the commencement of this Act, shall be treated as an application made under Part III of this Act for the registration of the film under that Part of this Act.

(3) Any reference in the Act of 1927 to a licence or to a licensed person shall be construed as a reference to a licence granted under that Act, or, as the case may be, to a person holding an appropriate licence granted under that Act which is for the time being in force; but the power of the court under paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of section twenty-four of the said Act to order that no licence shall be issued to a person may be exercised with respect to the issue of a licence under this Act, as well as with respect to the issue of a licence under that Act.

(4) Section eighteen of the Act of 1927 shall not apply in relation to any acquisition of a film after the end of March nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, and section twenty-one of the said Act shall not apply in relation to any exhibition of a film after the end of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight.

(5) The reference in subsection (2) of section twenty-three of the Act of 1927 to the advisory committee thereinafter mentioned shall be construed as a reference to the Cinematograph Films Council.

(6) Any regulations made by the Board of Trade under section twenty-nine of the Act of 1927 shall, if and so far as those regulations were in force immediately before the commencement of this Act and provide for matters other than the charging of fees, continue in force notwithstanding the repeal of that section, but may be revoked as if they were regulations under this Act, and the sum by which the aggregate amount produced up to the commencement of this Act by the fees charged under the Act of 1927 exceeds the expenses incidental to the carrying out of that Act up to the commencement of this Act shall be deemed to form part of the amount produced by the fees chargeable under this Act.

(7) The expressions "registered," "registration" and "the register," wherever used in the Act of 1927, shall be construed as meaning respectively registered under that Act, registration under that Act and the register of films registered under that Act, except that in section nineteen of the said Act the expression "registered" shall, in relation to the year ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, be construed as meaning registered either under Part II of that Act or under Part III of this Act.

(8) Any Order in Council made in pursuance of subsection (5) of section twenty-seven of the Act of 1927, shall, if and so far as the Order was in force immediately before the commencement of this Act, have effect as if any reference in the Order to the said subsection (5) included a reference to subsection (8) of the last preceding section of this Act, and may be varied or revoked as if it were an Order under the said sub-section (8).

(46).—Short title, commencement and extent.

(1) This Act may be cited as the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938.

(2) This Act shall come into operation on the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight

(3) This Act shall not extend to Northern Ireland; and for the purposes of the Government of Ireland Act, 1920, the enactment of legislation for purposes similar to the purposes of this Act shall be deemed not to be beyond the powers of the Parliament of Northern Ireland by reason only that such legislation may affect trade with places outside Northern Ireland.

PROVISIONS REPEALED IN THE ACT OF 1927.

Sections one to five.
In section six, the proviso to sub-section (1).
Sections ten and eleven.
Sections twenty-nine and thirty.
Subsection (4) of section thirty-three.

long film, but no British quota film. British films acquired by the company did not qualify as quota films. If small renters pleaded that they could not comply with the Act and required exemption, however unfortunate it might be, it was not an answer to this legislation. G. D. Roberts, K.C., for the company, said the company could acquire six "Westerns" for £200 each, but to comply with the Act they would have to spend £12,000 to £15,000 on British films. That would cause them to go out of business.

Dismissing the appeal, A. W. Cockburn, chairman, said the committee could not see that a person was to be excused merely because he was unable to find the additional money necessary to buy the requisite quota of British films.

Quota Appeal Fails.—The Appeal Committee of the London Sessions on January 10 dismissed the appeal of Metropolitan Provincial Cinematograph Theatres, Ltd., against a fine of £100 and 40 guineas costs, which had been imposed by the magistrate at West London Police Court, in respect of a quota default at the Hammersmith Palace.

Anthony Hawke, for the Board of Trade, said that in the year beginning October 1, 1938, to September 30, 1939, the applicants exhibited 7.55 British long films and 7.04 British short films, which was just a little more than half of the requirements.

For the applicants it was stated that when the theatre changed in May from Variety to Films, they found that every worth-while film had been booked six months previously. Some British shorts were shown and they were booed and hissed from the gallery and had to be withdrawn. They could not show "second" films and keep open. Because they could not find films that the house would stand they defaulted. They relied upon Section 13 of the Act which provided exemption. Counsel asked the Committee to say that the particular set of circumstances warranted a lower fine, particularly as this was the first conviction.

Exhibitors' Quota Returns.—A number of exhibitors who failed to make their returns under the Cinematograph Films Act to the Board of Trade were fined at the Bournemouth Police Court on Wednesday, August 27. Some other similar cases were adjourned until September 24 next for hearing. The cases were heard at Bournemouth because the Board of Trade Films Department is now housed in that town.

The defendants were: The Picturedrome (Stamford), Ltd., and the Central Cinema (Stamford), Ltd., both of Broad Street, Stamford, Lincolnshire; Albert Warburton, in respect of the Ritz, Darwen, Lancashire, and the New Star, Burnley Road, Brierfield, Lancashire; Arthur E. W. Pentelaw, of "Woodlands," Grindleford, Sheffield, in respect of the Victory, Miles Platting, Manchester, and the Picture House Theatre, Tideswell, Derbyshire; and Selected Cinemas Amalgamation, Ltd., in respect of the Grand, Kinswainford, Staffordshire. In each of the cases heard a fine of £5, with £1 1s. costs, was imposed. Summonses against Sydney Colwell Millar, in respect of the Picturedrome, Gibson Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and the Gem Theatre, Tindal Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, were withdrawn as damage by enemy action had prevented the sending in of the returns.

Quota Defaulters.—Twenty-two exhibitors who made themselves liable to fines totalling about £20,000 by not sending in the specified time their Board of Trade returns of the films they exhibited during the year ended September 30, 1940, under the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938, were summoned at Bournemouth on September 24. In all except one case fines of £5 and £1 1s. costs were imposed, the total amount being £105 in fines and £23 6s. in costs.

The exception was the St. Peter's Picture House (Grantham), Ltd., where it was stated there was no negligence and the case was dismissed on payment of costs amounting to £1 5s.

The following were summoned: The Star Cinemas (London), Ltd., in respect of the Majestic, Scunthorpe; the Picturedrome, Sleaford; the Empire, Wombwell; the Savoy, Worksop; the Plaza, Fitzwilliam; the Picture House, Asken; the New Star, Castleford; the Cinema, Rotherham; the Grand, Maltby; the Royal, Scunthorpe; the Majestic, Normanton; the Waterloo, Huddersfield; the Regent, Thirk; the Majestic, Chaddesden; and the Rex, Grimsby; also connected with the same firm, W. R. Eckart (the Regal, Worksop), W. R. and R. Eckart (the Regent, Huddersfield), and the Regent, Upton. The other four summonses were against the Queen's Cinema (Preston), Ltd., P. H. Yorke (the Guild Cinema, Preston), St. Peter's Hill Picture House (Grantham), Ltd., and the Picture House (Hawwell), Ltd.

The cases were dealt with as mentioned above.

Manchester Quota Default.—Failure to show the required footage of quota film at the Gaiety, Manchester, resulted in the Buxton Theatre Circuit, Ltd., with registered offices at Hargreaves Street, Burnley, being fined £50 and ordered to pay £10 10s. costs, at Manchester Police Court on Oct. 30, 1941. A plea of guilty was entered. On behalf of the Gaiety, D. I. Sandelson explained difficulties that had been encountered owing to the magistrates refusing a licence pending certain alterations to the building, the loss of records and the departure of the manager to join the Army. Actually, the proportion of British films booked to the Gaiety was 22 per cent.

West End Quota.—The Carlton Theatre Co., Ltd., were at Bow Street on Tuesday, November 11, fined £50 with £10 10s. costs on each of two summonses for failing to exhibit at the Carlton Theatre, Haymarket, the statutory quota of British films. The Plaza Theatre Co., Ltd., were fined £50 and £10 10s. costs on one summons for a similar offence. T. W. Fry, the magistrate, said the required quota for the year ending October, 1940, was 15 per cent. for British long films and 12½ per cent. for short films. The Plaza fulfilled requirements as to short films, but showed only 8.8 per cent. of long films. The Carlton Theatre showed only 11.55 per cent. of long films, and 6.45 per cent. of short films. Defendants claimed to have rejected nearly 100 British films, either on the score of price or length, or as being unsuitable to their audiences, or as having been exhibited elsewhere, or likely to prove unsuccessful. He did not think this was a sufficient defence. British films were obtainable, and, having regard to the hazards attending all theatrical productions, it could not be concluded that all these would have been failures.

LICENSING

Reclassified an "A" Film.—When Tyne Picture Houses, Ltd., were fined £5 at Wallsend Police Court, on February 4, for permitting children in the Royal Picture Hall, Wallsend, when an "A" film was being exhibited, it was alleged that the classification of an "A" film was changed to "U" on the indicator board after the week's run of the show had begun. Frederick William Thirgood, manager of the hall, charged with aiding and abetting, was ordered to pay £2. Defendants pleaded guilty.

The "A" film was shown to an audience of over 250 children who were not accompanied by parents or guardians. It was admitted that there was nothing offensive in the particular film.

Unlicensed Kinema.—Cornwall Cinemas, Ltd., Newquay, charged, on December 9, at Saltash, with exhibiting films at the Regal, Torpoint, without a licence, were fined £5, plus 5s. for each day from October 18, 1941, to November 6, 1941, and 25s. costs.

Supt. Sloman said that Geoffrey Taylor, director of the company, on October 26, 1940, applied for a licence, but the County Architect wrote to the secretary of the company stating the plans submitted were inaccurate. Meanwhile, the kinema was being used, although no licence had been granted, and when Taylor called at County Hall he was told that no licence could be issued because the kinema did not conform to Home Office regulations nor the requirements of the local authority. He was cautioned not to show any films till he had a licence. Taylor defied that caution.

Impossible Licence Conditions. The Ashton-under-Lyne Licensing Justices, in July, reviewed its conditions for the granting of a licence of the Star, Church Street, and ultimately agreed to modify its requirements. When the original scheme for certain improvements was got out, in conjunction with the Chief Constable, it was thought they could be done for about £500, but the quotation was well over £1,500, and probably the ultimate price would be in the region of £2,000. In times like these it was utterly impossible to carry through work of that character. The Chief Constable agreed with this view, but insisted upon the provision of a wide exit and the alteration of the projection and re-winding room. The licence was then renewed.

SALARIES AND COMMISSIONS

Manager's Summary Dismissal. An important decision on the law between employer and employee was given by His Honour Judge Scobell Armstrong at Truro County Court on February 14, when he held that the proprietors of the Plaza Cinema, Truro, were justified in summarily dismissing a manager. The judge gave his deferred judgment in an action heard at two previous Courts, in which Percy James Mills, of Truro, sued Sound and Movement Cinemas, Ltd., of Plymouth, for £3 8s. 3d., which he claimed as due to him as wages.

Giving judgment for the kinema company with costs, His Honour said that Mr. Mills, who was under a week's notice, was asked by the supervisor to show his successor the routine. As Mr. Mills was unwilling to comply, G. P. Prance, the managing director, agreed that it was an embarrassing situation, and said it would be best for Mr. Mills to hand over the keys to the supervisor for checking in his presence, and to leave the theatre that night. Had Mr. Mills consented to that he would have become entitled when he left at the end of the day, to the whole of his week's wages, for the contract would then have been terminated not by summary dismissal but by the employer's decision to dispense with his services. Mr. Mills flatly refused to hand over the keys unless his wages were handed to him at the end of the checking, and because of that refusal Mr. Prance told him to leave at once. He also refused to do that, and was prevailed on to go only after the police had been called. Even then he persisted in his refusal to surrender the keys, being apparently under the delusion that he was entitled to impound his employer's property for the purpose of enforcing his legal right. As soon as he had taken legal advice the keys were wisely and promptly restored. Their retention was the subject of a counter-claim which had since been withdrawn. An employer dismissing an employee for reasons other than misconduct could either give notice terminating the contract at a future date, or to terminate it forthwith by paying the wages which would be due on the expiration of the notice. If, as in this case, the employer adopted the first alternative, the employee was under a contractual duty to serve him for the further wage period—in this case a week—and unless the employer decided to dispense with his services before the expiration of that period no wage became due until he had fulfilled this contractual obligation. If the employee's misconduct, such as a breach of his promise of obedience, brought about the termination of the contract a moment before the current week's service had been performed or his services had been dispensed with, he had no claim to be paid wages for any part of the uncompleted wage period. His Honour concluded that in this case the degree of disobedience justified summary dismissal, and he gave judgment for the company with costs.

£10,000 Commission Appeal.—Judgment was given in the House of Lords on December 12 upon the appeal of Luxor (Eastbourne), Limited, and Regal (Hastings), Limited, against a judgment of the Court of Appeal reversing one that Justice Branson had given in their favour in the King's Bench Division.

Respondent to the appeal was Norman Aldred Cooper, insurance broker, of Brunswick Gardens, Kensington. The latter brought an action before Mr. Justice Branson, in which he claimed £10,000 as commission for introducing a purchaser ready and willing to buy the Luxor, Eastbourne, and the Regal, Elite, and de Luxe, Hastings. Alternatively, Mr. Cooper claimed the same sum as damages for alleged breach of contract. His case was that he introduced the London and Southern Cinemas, Ltd., who were willing to buy the kinemas for £185,000 (to include his commission of £10,000) and that the appellants declined to complete the sale, accepting an arrangement by which the majority of the shares in appellant companies were transferred to the Union Cinema Co., Ltd. Mr. Justice Branson held that the appellant companies had a reasonable and just cause for refusing to complete the sale, but the Court of Appeal took an opposite view and gave Mr. Cooper judgment for £8,000 and costs for breach of contract. The appeal to the House of Lords was allowed. The Lord Chancellor in the course of his judgment said: It seemed to him that the express bargain was simply this: if a party introduced by respondent should buy the kinemas for at least £185,000, each of the two appellants would pay to the respondent £5,000 on the completion of sale. No such sale, however, took place. Accordingly, there could be nothing due to respondent on the terms of the express bargain. He therefore was of opinion that the appeal should be allowed.

PLAGIARISM

Injunction for Film Title. An interim injunction restraining Rialto Products, Ltd., from exhibiting a film under the title "This Man is Dangerous," so as to pass off the film as a screen production of Peter Cheyney's novel of the same name, was granted to Mr. Cheyney by Mr. Justice Oliver in the Vacation Court on August 13. The film is an adaptation of a book entitled "They Called Him Death," written by John Victor Turner, whose pen name is "David Hume."

J. V. Nesbitt, for Rialto Productions, Ltd., said that they were not attempting to gain any benefit from Mr. Cheyney's book. "This Man is Dangerous" was a common-place expression in which Mr. Cheyney could not have any proprietary right, and the defendants were entitled to use the title as long as they made it plain, as they had done, that it had nothing to do with the book. The public were told clearly in the credit titles and by poster that it was taken from David Hume's story. The posters of the film supplied to kinemas contained the words "David Hume's thriller."

CONTRACTS

Loss of Profits.—At the Glamorgan Assizes on November 28, at Cardiff, an action was brought by the Barton Cinemas, Ltd., of Barry, who claimed £2,705 damages from George Motton, contractor, of Barry Dock, for breach of covenant in respect of the Palace, Barry Dock. Motton leased the Palace Cinema and its contents to the Barton Cinema Co., Ltd., at a rent of £520 per annum and undertook the responsibility of keeping the walls in good condition. In April, 1937, the kinema was destroyed by fire but Motton did not make any attempt to rebuild. The plaintiffs claimed £2,705 as loss of profits. Mr. Justice Hallett gave judgment for the plaintiff company with costs.

GENERAL

Seat-Slashers.—Senseless slashing of seats in two Bury kinemas was alleged against two schoolboys of 11 and 13 at Bury Juvenile Court on November 14, who were also charged with stealing £47 10s. from the box-office of another kinema. Another boy said in one kinema the boys showed him two big knives, and he saw them moving from seat to seat cutting the upholstery and tearing the padding. A row of seats had to be replaced. At another kinema they ripped up the feet of the seats from the floor. The offenders were bound over.

Sale of Hastings Kinemas.—An appeal was heard by the House of Lords in the action instituted by Regal (Hastings), Ltd., against some of its former directors and the company's solicitor. The action was dismissed by Mr. Justice Wrottesley on August 30, 1940, and his judgment was upheld by the Court of Appeal on February 12, 1941.

Regal based their action on the allegation that Messrs. Chas. Gulliver, Arthur Frank Bobby, David Edward Griffiths, Harry Charles Bassett and Harry Bently (directors) and Peter Garton (solicitor) used their position as such to acquire shares in Hastings Amalgamated Cinemas, Ltd., for themselves with a view to selling them at a very substantial profit and were accountable to Regal for the profits. It was proposed in July, 1935, that Regal should acquire leases of two small kinemas in Hastings and St. Leonards called Elite and the Cinema de Luxe, and that a subsidiary company with a capital of £5,000 should be formed by Regal for the purpose of acquiring the leases. Evidence was given at the trial that the Board of Regal decided that Regal was not in a position to subscribe more than £2,000 for shares in the Amalgamated company and the directors and Mr. Garton each applied for 500 of the remaining 3,000 shares. They later sold their shares at a profit of £2 16s. 1d. a share. A. T. Miller, K.C., who appeared for Regal in support of the company's appeal, invited their lordships to hold that the directors of a company, although not commonly called trustees, must be considered as in the position of trustees in such a transaction. H. Wynn Parry, K.C., contested this. He said that unless the directors had put the money to acquire the shares in Amalgamated the deal would have fallen through. Their action enabled the company to gain some advantage. Cartwright Sharp, K.C., for Mr. Garton, said that the company could not succeed against him unless it could be shown that he put himself in a position where his duty and private interest conflicted and there was, in his submission, no such conflict. Judgment was reserved.

A lengthy Judgment was pronounced in the House of Lords on February 20, 1942, in this action, which was started seven years ago. It appears in full in the KINE WEEKLY of February, 26, 1942.

Queue Summons. Rufus L. Thomas, manager of the Grand Cinema, Aberavon, was summoned for "wilfully obstructing the footway" by allowing a queue to form outside the kinema. An interesting legal point was submitted by the defence, who argued that there was no evidence of wilful obstruction. The evidence was that the manager was inside the kinema and was not aware that a queue had formed. It was, therefore, the people in the queue that formed the obstruction and not the manager.

Police Inspector Folland, submitted that it was the manager's duty to see that there was no obstruction, and failure to do so was tantamount in law to a wilful act. The magistrates adjourned the case for 14 days to consider the legal point raised.

A Preposterous Claim.—A claim for damages for injuries alleged to have been caused through slipping on some steps was dismissed on May 7 by Mr. Justice Macnaghten in the Manchester Civil Court with the epithet "preposterous." It was admitted that plaintiff had used the steps for nearly two years and it was stated that they conformed to the regulations of the London County Council. The action was brought by Mary Catherine King (15), Robert Stanley Street, Bolton, against the proprietors and occupiers of the Cinema (Rialto), Bolton, Ltd. It was alleged that during the performance plaintiff left the kinema to go across the road and buy some ice cream. When returning plaintiff fell upon the steps injuring her leg.

The judge said that it was pleaded that defendants were negligent because the steps which Miss King had gone up and down for nearly two years were so steep and narrow as to be dangerous to children. There was no competent evidence as to other allegations. It seemed to be forgotten, added his lordship, that the common law in England not only required a person to take care not to injure another, but also to take reasonable care for his own safety.

Whose Responsibility? The question as to whether a company who had delegated their powers to a manager could be held responsible for a black-out offence was raised at East Penwith Sessions, when Arthur James Firth, manager of the King's, Camborne, was summoned for allowing a light to be visible at the kinema. Sound and Movement Cinemas, Ltd., Plymouth, owners of the house, were also summoned. It was contended that as they had delegated their powers to the manager to see that the regulations were observed the company could not legally be held to be occupiers of the premises. The prosecution maintained that as owners and in a legal sense occupiers of the premises the company should see that the black-out regulations were complied with, and this they had not done. The Bench found the case proved against both defendants, who were each fined £1.

Arson Allegation Dismissed.—Appeals against the decision of the Recorder of Londonderry in dismissing three claims, amounting in all to £41,700, brought against the corporation for damage to the Opera House Kinema, its equipment and consequential loss, were dismissed at Londonderry Assizes Appeal Court by Mr. Justice Brown. Appellants were William Doherty, who claimed £28,500; City Pictures, Ltd., who claimed £12,201 for the loss of kinematographic materials; and who, with Western Electric, also claimed £1,000 in respect of the sound projector system. The appellants' case was that the fire which destroyed the kinema was of malicious origin and occurred after fire notices had been served upon Londonderry kinemas by the I.R.A. On the other hand, the corporation's chief fire officer alleged that the origin of the fire was a defective flue. Affirming the decision of the Recorder and dismissing the appeals with costs, Mr. Justice Brown said no theory had been advanced that had not been demolished by somebody else. The onus was on the appellants to prove that the fire could only have been caused maliciously.

Unstamped Film Contracts.—Hearing a case in which an exhibitor was sued for damage to a copy of a film hired for exhibition, his Honour Judge J. Fraser Harrison commented sharply on the statement made in evidence at Bury (Lancs) County Court, in April, that the original contract was not stamped. The case was one in which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Ltd., sued R. H. Greenwood, a Tottenham kinema proprietor, for damage to a film. When the defence asked for production of the contract it was stated that it was in London and was not stamped. The judge adjourned the case on payment of the costs by the plaintiffs.

Fire-Watcher Summoned.—Judgment was given by the Salford stipendiary magistrate in a case where a kinema fire-watcher was summoned for not discharging his fire-watching duties at the place of his day-time employment. Defendant was Herman Smith, employed at the corporation gasworks. He declined duty one night when he was engaged for fire-watching at the kinema, but offered to fire-watch on Sunday nights. When the case first came before the stipendiary magistrate Smith said he had no wish to shirk his obligations. The issue was, who had prior claim on his services? The stipendiary magistrate held that it did not seem common sense that an employee should be liable for carrying out an arrangement when the arrangement was not enforceable against the employer. The summons was dismissed.

Gas Safety Lighting.—At Port Talbot Police Court, on May 8, the Portavon Cinema Co., Port Talbot, were fined £1 for an offence under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, in respect of its secondary lighting system, at the Grand. The company pleaded guilty to a technical offence, and stated that the secondary lighting system was gas, whereas all the other kinemas belonging to the company in the town and district had electricity. They were grateful to the Fire Department for bringing the defect to their notice. Once the manager was notified of the defect he took immediate steps to remedy it.

Dodging the Column.—Fines of £10 each and costs, £4 11s. 8d., in addition, were imposed upon two Newcastle men, on May 23, for misrepresentation of employment in relation to National Service. Arthur Woolf, kinema manager, had declared that he was a kinema operator, and Maurice Cohen, managing director of the company owning the Imperial, Newburn, had supported the statement. Percy L. Frankham, who prosecuted for the Ministry of Labour and National Service, said that Woolf had declared he was employed at the kinema as operator, whereas his major occupation was that of manager. At that time kinema operators were reserved from the age of 25 and Woolf was over that age. The occupation of manager was not reserved. Afterwards, Mr. Frankham continued, when amplification was required Woolf said he was second operator, still not disclosing the fact that he was manager. For the defence, it was stated that Woolf had been trained as an operator and regularly worked in the box.

Judgment for British Lion.—In the King's Bench Division, in June, judgment for the British Lion Film Corporation, Ltd., was entered by Mr. Justice Hilbery for £12,283 7s. 11d., with costs, against Herbert Wilcox. Samuel Woolf Smith produced an agreement in writing, dated December 30, 1938, and also a deed dated March 24, 1939. Mr. Wilcox was a party to both documents and under the deed he gave certain guarantees that referred to the obligations of the Emperor Films Productions, Ltd. Under the agreement this company was liable to pay £12,283 7s. 11d. to plaintiffs. No part of that sum had been paid.

Took Cash for Expenses.—A former manager of the Majestic, Beeston, Reginald G. Warner, pleaded guilty at the Shire Hall, Nottingham, on February 15 to stealing chocolates, cigarettes and ices valued £9 3s. 4d., and £2 10s. in money belonging to his employers, the Abbey Theatres, Ltd., between September 30 and January 25. It was stated that Warner, who was previously at a London kinema which had been bombed, came to Beeston at the end of September and was given notice to leave his employment on Saturday, January 25. He received his wages, £4 15s., but he did not report for duty on the Saturday, and when the cash in the safe was examined it was found that £2 10s. was missing, although he had, "rather cheekily," left a receipt for the money. When arrested he said: "That is right. I took the £2 10s. for my expenses and left a receipt." Because of his good character, Warner was bound over for 12 months and ordered to pay £3 costs.

Bankruptcies, Liquidations, etc.

No attempt has been made, under this heading, to cover all the minor instances of failure in the industry, only cases likely to have a general interest being included.

BANKRUPTCY EXAMINATIONS,
MEETINGS OF CREDITORS

Deptford Blitz Victim.—Meetings of creditors and shareholders in Deptford Entertainments, Ltd., 79, Denmark Hill, Camberwell, S.E.5, were held on December 4, when the Official Receiver reported that the company was formed in July, 1939, with a nominal capital of £500, the whole of which had been issued. At the outbreak of hostilities the takings had declined owing to evacuation of people and there was also extensive damage in the district through enemy action. The draft statement of affairs showed liabilities of £1,952, and the only asset was cash in hand of £3. The liquidation was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

Bombing Causes Failure.—Meetings of creditors and shareholders of Cumberland Cinemas, Ltd., Hadleigh, Essex, were held on April 29. The Official Receiver reported that the company was formed in February, 1935, with a nominal capital of £100, which was subsequently increased to £10,000. The failure was attributed to the outbreak of war and particularly to the bombing of the area in which the company's cinema was situated. The draft statement of affairs showed liabilities amounting to £44,854, and no assets.

Grand, Gillingham.—A meeting of the creditors of P.G. Productions, Ltd., Grand, Gillingham, in voluntary liquidation, was held on March 10. The statement of affairs showed that the assets were only estimated to realise £186 os. 6d., against which there were preferential claims for rent, rates and taxes, totalling £980 4s. 6d. There was a deficiency of £3,380 18s. 10d. In order to carry out renovations and provide working capital for the company, which was formed in 1938, a bank overdraft was obtained on the guarantee of the two directors. Losses were sustained in carrying on the theatre, which was twice closed, but subsequently reopened. The cinema, however, was finally closed down last November. Creditors for approximately £2,000 would withdraw their claims. Then, if the assets provided more than sufficient to discharge the preferential claims, the position of the other creditors would be improved.

Slum Clearance.—Meetings of creditors and shareholders of the N.G.L. Syndicate, Ltd., cinema proprietors, 214, Westminster Bridge Road, London, were held on January 23. The company was formed in 1911, and the concern did very well until about 1937, when the L.C.C. started a local slum clearance scheme which considerably reduced the population on which the company drew for its audiences. The takings after the war dropped very considerably and losses were incurred. In September last, owing to the effect on audiences of indiscriminate bombing, the cinema was closed down. Liabilities were estimated at £1,830. The liquidation was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

Imperial Theatre, Brighton. Meetings of creditors and shareholders of the Southern Counties Theatres, Ltd., 109, Jermyn Street, London, S.W.1, were held on January 28. The company was formed in July, 1938, by Ralph Lyon, and the theatre was opened in April, 1940. It remained open until the following July, when the directors decided to close down and await better times, because a loss of £1,850 had been incurred. Unsecured liabilities amounted to £14,316, and there was a surplus of assets of over £6,000. The liquidation was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

United Curzon Cinemas. At meetings of creditors and shareholders in United Curzon Cinemas (Subsidiary), Ltd., 46, Bedford Row, W.C., the Official Receiver reported that the company was formed in December, 1938, with a nominal capital of £10,125, and opened the Paris Cinema in the West End, exhibiting chiefly Continental films. The company appeared to have lost money from the start. In September, 1940, the cinema was requisitioned by the Office of Works. The draft statement of affairs showed liabilities of £64,873, of which over £63,000 was due to the landlord. The only asset was £225 cash at bank. The liquidation was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

Borrowed to Build.—When Claude Morris Marx, of "Clear Down," Rickmansworth, appeared at his public examination on September 17, at St. Albans, it was disclosed that his statement of affairs showed a deficiency of £15,154. His only assets were described as an uncertain contingent life interest in a marriage settlement. He attributed his failure to commencing business with insufficient capital, heavy interest on borrowed money, the depressed state of the cinema trade since the outbreak of the war and the loss sustained upon the sale of his cinema at Harrow. In connection with this last transaction it was revealed that although already in debt to the extent of £5,000, he was able to raise £21,000 upon mortgages, etc. Previously he had been employed with various film renters, including the Alpha Film Corporation. Debtor admitted that he had to repay £750 when threatened with an action for misrepresentation in respect of a previous cinema transaction. With borrowed money he had paid £1,000 for shares in a football pool company. Since the war he had acted as "tout" for a West End gaming den.

London Exhibitor's Failure.—The first meeting of creditors of Benjamin Jacobs, known as Ben Jay, of 111a, Wardour Street, W.1, was held on February 12; liabilities were returned at about £5,000. His assets consisted of shares and leases of doubtful value. Debtor, who started in 1918 as an exhibitor at Columbia, Hackney, had been interested in 22 other cinemas and entertainment halls, 14 of which were open at the date of the receiving order. The failure was attributed to the evacuation of people from districts where the cinemas were situated, and to enemy action whereby five cinemas suffered severely. R. T. Tiplady, C.A., was appointed trustee of the estate.

COMPANIES WINDING-UP

Grand National Pictures, Ltd.—On a petition by Worton Hall Studios, Ltd., of Budge Row, E.C., film studio proprietors, Mr. Justice Bennett, in the Chancery Division on December 16, made an Order for the compulsory winding-up of the Grand National Pictures, Ltd. At the meeting of creditors and shareholders on January 24, the Official Receiver reported that the investigation into the affairs of the company had been made difficult because of the departure to America of the joint managing directors, M. J. Wilson and J. Bernerd. No statement of affairs had been filed, but the gross liabilities were estimated at £121,770, and the assets had been valued at £92,039. L. Cival was appointed liquidator with a committee of inspection.

Highbury Studios.—On a petition by Studio Holdings Trust, Ltd., Brook Street, W., creditors for £1,318, Mr. Justice Simonds, in the Chancery Division, on January 20, 1941, made an order for the compulsory winding up of the Highbury Studios, Ltd. It was disclosed at the first meetings of creditors and shareholders on February 27 that the company was formed in November, 1935, with an issued capital of £12,000. The working capital proved to be inadequate, and within a few months the company had to resort to borrowing money on debentures. Bonds for £5,200 were issued in December, 1936, and on November 20, 1940, the debenture holder appointed a receiver and manager. The statement of affairs at that date disclosed liabilities of £14,574, and assets £19,000. The failure of the company was attributed to lack of working capital and curtailment of its operations resulting from the quota condition, whereby the labour costs of a film were not to be less than £7,500. In his observations subsequently, the Official Receiver said that the investigation into the company's affairs had been made difficult by the fact that the chairman, M. J. Wilson, proceeded to America in June, 1940, and had not been available for examination.

PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS

Film Producer's Failure.—The statement of affairs of Frederick Beresford Johnson Graves, Carlton Court, 41, Hertford Street, W.1, a film producer, showed liabilities of £2,220 and no assets. In 1933 he started "Ultra Film Productions," and produced several films. In 1939 he became assistant director and production manager to Nero Films, Ltd., in France. After the war broke out he and others commenced production of a film called "Polish Rhapsody" which was abandoned owing to lack of funds. The examination was closed.

Producer's Failure. When the public examination of Victor Maurice Greene (Victor L. Greene), Little Balgair, Ighel, Crawley, Sussex, film producer, was resumed in March, at Brighton, it was stated that debtor's estimated deficiency was £4,909 16s. 9d.

Travelling Kinema Losses.—The public examination of George Francis Bellamy, 13, Danielsfield Road, Yeovil, Somerset, travelling cinematograph proprietor, was held on December 12, at the Law Courts, Yeovil. According to the statement of affairs which had been lodged there was a deficiency of £387 10s. 3d. on gross liabilities of £599 12s. 3d. The debtor attributed his failure to excessive price paid for an interest in a travelling kinema, and heavy losses in recent years caused by competition from kinemas erected in the districts which he visited with his travelling kinema. Two years ago the takings amounted to £18 to £20 a week during the summer and £30 to £33 weekly during the winter.

Loan for Reseating. Benjamin Harry Franks, formerly carrying on business at Brazenose Street, Manchester, with kinemas at Bolton, Derby, Nottingham and Manchester, appeared for public examination on December 6, 1939, at Manchester. His statement of affairs showed a deficiency after deduction of assets of £13,432. Causes of failure given were "depreciation in value of kinema properties since the outbreak of war, cost of litigation, heavy interest on borrowed money, depreciation of value of life policies and liabilities under guarantee." He admitted having gone to money-lenders to pay for the cost of reseating a kinema. At one time he was paying over £30 a week in interest. The examination was adjourned.

Leeds Failure.—The public examination of Rowland Winston Beecroft, carrying on business at Alexandra Picture Theatre, Camp Road, Leeds, kinema proprietor, and also under the name of R. W. Beecroft and Co., Alexandra Buildings, Camp Road, Leeds, was held on February 4, when the statement of affairs disclosed gross liabilities of £1,529, of which £928 was expected to rank for dividend. There were no assets. The failure was ascribed to lack of capital, slim clearance and the international situation.

GENERAL

Twickenham Film Studios, Ltd.—The final report of the liquidators on the position of Twickenham Film Studios, Ltd., presented in July, showed that whereas the receipts were estimated to produce £126,322, they actually amounted to nil in regard to every item. Instead there is a balance of £557 owing to the Official Receiver. There is no possibility of the debenture holder's claim being satisfied.

Strand News Theatre.—On an application by the Official Receiver as liquidator of Strand News Theatre, Ltd., which, on August 26, 1940, was ordered to be compulsorily wound up, Mr. Justice Simonds, in the Chancery Division, on December 15, held that a payment of £160 to Wardour Theatres, Ltd., on June 25, 1940, when Strand News Theatre, Ltd., was "hopelessly insolvent," was an undue preference over the other creditors. His lordship ordered Wardour Theatres, Ltd., to repay the £160 and to pay the costs of these proceedings.

Grafton Films, Ltd.—An adjournment until January 19, 1941, of the petition by Metal Containers, Ltd., for the compulsory winding up of Grafton Films, Ltd., was granted by Mr. Justice Simonds in the Chancery Division on December 15, 1941.

Royal Court Cinema.—The Official Receiver in the Companies Winding-Up Department of the Board of Trade has issued his observations in the matter of the Royal Court Cinema, Ltd., 11, Suffolk Street, Haymarket, London. He stated that the liabilities of the concern amounted to £2,467, and there were no available assets. The company was formed in May, 1935, to acquire the Royal Court Theatre in Sloane Square, S.W. The issued and paid-up capital was £5,400. At a cost of over £2,000 the premises were redecorated, etc., and converted into a kinema and for publicity purposes was known as "London's Repertory Kinema." After the war broke out the takings fell away and the kinema was closed in July, 1940.

FILM EXHIBITION AND KINEMA TECHNIQUE

By A. L. CARTER.

THE beginning of the third year of hostilities opens a new and critical phase in the war-time operation of the Film Industry which was barely envisaged a twelve-month back. The spread of the conflict to world dimensions has introduced many complicated problems, the profound and necessarily disturbing influence of which upon the future of the Industry is already discernible in many departments of production and exhibition. It is difficult to realise fully what will be the future implications of a situation so full of political menace to the continuance of the satisfactory discharge of the service to the community which authority acknowledges the kinema is so admirably carrying on. Apart from these significant possibilities, however, the circumstances of the Industry during the past year has radically altered from that of 1940.

The beginning of 1941 was the testing-time for all those official theories embodied in the multifarious A.R.P. regulations. How well justified were these precautionary measures the events of 1940/41 air raids fully proved, and in the comparatively quiet period which followed lessons learned from the experience of the previous winter have provided additional assurance of the adequacy to our arrangements for passive defence. This time last year many exhibitors were considering how best they could have salvaged their businesses overwhelmed in scores of bomb-stricken areas—to-day sees hundreds of repaired and renovated theatres re-equipped to shoulder again their responsibilities to the Government and the public. Indeed, the Trade is in a more satisfactory position than even the most optimistic expected at the outbreak of hostilities would have been possible after 28 months of war.

Both exhibition and the production sides have proved the inherent economic stability of the financial structure of the Industry. A general rise of 25 per cent. admissions has taken place, despite a reduction of 10 per cent. in the number of kinemas open for entertainment. The average weekly admissions are estimated to have risen by 3,500,000 from the original pre-war estimate of 20,000,000. Although there has been no increase in the number of British films made, the high quality achieved and the gratifying box-office response has resulted in cash to almost any amount being made available to recognised producers.

The reason that these heartening improvements in the status of the Industry have not been accompanied by correspondingly notable technical advances in the scientific departments, is due to the preoccupation of the majority of our technicians on war research. Evidence, however, that progress is being made in certain directions from which the kinema will ultimately benefit was forthcoming at the May meeting of the British Kinematograph Society when a surprisingly large number of new apparatus was exhibited and demonstrated. The manner in which the Industry is serving the national cause will come to light in later years in much the same way as the mirror principle of arc illumination—to mention one example—developed after the last war. The only possible exception was a more or less experimental demonstration, by J. L. Baird, of small screen television in stereoscopy and colour. Progress in the development of large screen television is reported from America, but war-time precautions prevent a detailed listing of technical improvements. Research in "stereoscopic sound" has engaged the attention of many U.S. workers, and it seems likely that after the war a series of systems will be available which, while embodying the main principles of directional reproduction, will achieve this effect by a simpler process than that which necessitated the use of three or four sound tracks involving a complementary outlay on projection modifications. For the most part, the technical history of the period has been a continual struggle by limited and often not fully experienced staffs against shortage of material and equipment to keep the show running—often with makeshift means. The fact that there have been so relatively few breakdowns and that the quality of the screened picture has been so consistently good justifies the warmest commendation of the enthusiasm, the hard work and selfless devotion to their job of the staffs who have been called upon to function in circumstances of almost unbelievable difficulty ; no less credit is due to the work of the sound service engineers who have contributed to this result.

The restriction placed upon expenditure and the reduction of competitive forms of relaxation, coupled with the Government encouragement of the kinema as a sustainer of public morale and as a medium of propaganda, have resulted in the Industry reaching its third war-year in a financial position which has never been stronger. The estimated annual turnover is now reckoned to be in the neighbourhood of £50,000,000, although the number of kinemas have decreased by 464 since the beginning of the war, and the admissions, during early 1941, were comparatively low owing to air raids. Statistics of closings and reopenings compiled during the past two years show the following results :—

Damage by air raid does not account for the whole of this number of closures, some being due to removals of population, requisitioning, and other reasons.

The past year has been noteworthy for the big financial moves in connection with the three big circuits which are regarded among independent exhibitors as a step towards the control of the Industry. That the menace is a very real one is obvious from the fact that to all intents and purposes one-quarter of the biggest and newest theatres in the country are controlled by two groups, in both of which there is a huge investment of American money. In one case, Warner Bros. bought into A.B.P.C. by the purchase for £900,000 of Mrs. Maxwell's holding. Concern at the deal was roused by the C.E.A., who feared the prospect of American control, but the negotiations which involved the transfer of American dollar exchange in payment was approved by the Treasury, although the retention of control in British hands was understood to be assured. The chief objection to the other instance was not the penetration of American capital into the Industry but the prospect of trustification by the single control of vast exhibitor, renting, producer, and equipment interests represented by Odeon and Gaumont-British. The cause for anxiety arose by the buying by J. Arthur Rank, who had been long associated with the many film activities—distribution, production and theatre—of C. M. Woolf of a controlling interest in Metropolis and Bradford Trust, which in turn controls G.-B. The death, at the end of the year of Oscar Deutsch, founder of the Odeon circuit, led to Mr. Rank becoming Chairman of the organisation, a similar position which he also holds with G.-B. and its manifold subsidiary companies. There is no indication at the moment of any other point of contact between G.-B. and Odeon, but the probability is already being seriously considered by exhibitors whose already grave concern about the power of the circuits in booking or other Trade registrations is being greatly intensified. Many independents already profess to see in the growing strength of circuit representation on C.E.A. executives, concrete evidence of a deliberate circuit challenge to independent interests.

The exhibitor has been engaged in what almost amounts to a dual struggle for existence. Not only has there been the always-present enemy action, but he has been beset by numberless orders, instructions and controls—any one of which might conceivably contribute to the extinction of the Industry. Much of the detail work arising from representations and deputations to various Government Departments would have been eliminated had the framers of the regulations dealing with the conduct of the home front during the war seen fit to implement the Government's oft-quoted assurance that the kinema is an essential service. Lack of appreciation of the peculiar circumstances of the Trade has thrown a vast and often unwarrantable amount of work upon the C.E.A. officers. All phases of the Industry have engaged their attention, and members fully endorsed the warm testimony paid by Lord Wedgwood, at the annual meeting of A.B.P.C., when he declared that exhibitors relied to a very great extent for the effective representation of their interests upon the Association. It certainly has been a period of great responsibility, and continuous hard work has been necessary to keep abreast of the very complicated requirements of the Industry in the light of war legislation.

Among the more important problems dealt with was the amendment of the Quota, which somewhat mitigated the hardship experienced by exhibitors in their search for British product; the War Damage Act, the various implications of which engaged the attention of the Association for nearly a year without, however, achieving a wholly satisfactory solution; the successful opposition to the curfew proposals, and the not altogether abortive attempt to obtain amelioration of the Government's man-power proposals. Wage discussions which are now undertaken on a national basis evoked considerable discussion before the acquiescence, this year, in another increase in the war-bonus. Representations were made in respect of the incidence of the Paper Control Order, and more recently of the still prohibition; a careful watch has been kept on arbitrary licensing conditions, particularly those in connection with Sunday opening. One of the most involved and exhaustive inquiries undertaken by the C.E.A. was the examination of the valve situation and the fact that no early easement of the situation is likely is certainly no fault of the Technical Committee. Early this year the exhibitor organisation brought forward proposals for the examination of the case for an all-round increase in admission prices, and the principle being approved, the subject is being discussed by the branches. This brief review of the C.E.A. activities has made no mention of the time and energy expended in deputations and discussions and finally analysing various regulations and subsequently interpreting them to members, nor of the thousand-and-one matters of national detail which have engaged the attention of General Secretary W. R. Fuller, and his officers and associates, but it affords a very clear indication of the indispensable and loyal service the Association is rendering to the Trade which it is doubtful could have been better secured by a joint council of every element in the business suggested by Councillor H. P. E. Mears, but eventually turned down.

The year has witnessed further insistence on complaints concerning the inordinate length of mediocre films in order to support the policy favoured by the Americans of the one-feature programme. One view expressed was that no film should be more than between 6,000 ft. and 7,000 ft. There exists some diversity of opinion as to whether one- or two-feature programmes are the most popular, but there is a general agreement that more four-reelers are wanted. The current tendency to increased footage has a detrimental effect upon the war-time programme to the extent of limiting the footage necessary for news and propaganda subjects.

A growing difficulty is experienced by exhibitors in the increasing demands for free screen time for trailers and short films generally with a national or local application to the war or social services. Hitherto such subjects were not covered by the agreement between the C.E.A. and the Ministry of Information which controlled the presentation of special propaganda shorts, but the situation was eased by a decision that the M. of I. should be the sole channel of application.

Licensing authorities have been closely watching the arrangements made for the safety and well-being of the public, and it is to the credit of the efficient staffing and arrangements that so many have paid tribute to the manner in which managements had met the abnormal conditions existing as the result of the war and the way in which provision for the entertainment of the public has been maintained. These tributes have been fairly earned by exhibitors who have ensured their shows shall go on, notwithstanding the multifarious and ever-increasing responsibilities he must shoulder, some in common with the rest of us, but the more exacting one peculiar to the entertainment business. Not only do black-out, fire-watching and fire-fighting duties demand constant vigilance, but the loss of male employees and the withdrawal of the female workers have complicated the problem of catering for the largely-increased attendance at kinemas.

LEGISLATION AND LOCAL REGULATIONS.

THE amendment of the Quota provisions of the Films Act was the only legislative enactment during 1941 directly applicable to the Industry if one excepts the subsequent Control Order relating to various forms of generator equipment and, more recently, the prohibition of the use of stills, both of which, though specially directed to the Trade, are really an integral part of the war-time economy which has affected the functioning of every business in the country. The National Service Act, the A.R.P. commitments, paper restrictions, transport, and curfew hours are instances of matters in which the peculiar interests of the kinemas were not assailed in a greater degree than those of any other Trade, but which, nevertheless, provided cause for anxiety on the part of exhibitors and, consequently, had to be tackled with varying degrees of success by the C.E.A., whose executive has had to be almost in continuous session dealing with many points which affect the exhibiting side of the Trade. In many cases, the divided control of the direction of war-time amusement has caused difficulties where the local and national interpretation of a regulation has been at variance, but on the whole most obstacles have been successfully surmounted and a satisfactory compromise has been found possible. The case in point was the suggestion brought forward of a 7 p.m. curfew for kinemas on the grounds that such a restriction would relieve the transport situation which was vigorously and successfully opposed by the C.E.A., whose contention was that such a step was more likely to intensify rather than relieve the strain upon traffic undertakings and that it would prevent the munition workers from enjoying an evening's relaxation. It was also pointed out that early closing during 1940 served no purpose, but affected the efficiency of production and the maintenance of morale, caused loss of revenue by way of entertainment, excise and income taxes, and restricted the playing time of propaganda films. These arguments proved effective and announcing his decision in the House of Commons, Herbert Morrison, the Minister of Home Security, admitted the national importance of the work being carried out by the Industry upon which he had no desire to impose increasing restrictions. Unless heavy raiding called for special measures in any area the normal closing hour would be fixed not later than 10 p.m. This decision had a salutary effect upon many local authorities who had imposed earlier hours of closing, but there were others who yet insisted upon their retention. The man-power proposals affected both kinemas and studios, and although representations made to the Government did not obtain all that was aimed at assurances were obtained that the functioning of both departments of the Industry would not be unduly interfered with. The Clothes Rationing Order also affected these branches and although no concession was made to the kinemas, certain modifications were granted to the studios which entailed no great a degree of hardship.

One matter—Sunday opening conditions—which, though primarily the responsibility of the local licensing authority, is likely to be referred to Parliament as soon as national conditions warrant. This subject has been the source of considerable complaint owing to the many arbitrary and unreasonable conditions which have been appended to Sunday opening licences. Many of them have been so arduous that exhibitors have refused to take up the licenses under the terms laid down. In view of the wide variation of these conditions—principally the importance of the Charity clause, the amendment of the Act involving a modification of the clause dealing with the Charity contribution is expected to rank as one of the first tasks of the General Council during the post-war period. In this connection, unsuccessful attempts have been made to obtain the agreement of the London and Middlesex County Councils to a reduction of the 12 per cent. charity contribution. It is urged that the license conditions should be made uniform throughout the country and emphasis has been directed to the differing bases of the assessment.

Apart from the financial consideration, many attempts have been made to enforce some sort of jurisdiction over the type of patrons and the prices of admission. The Liverpool Licensing Justices endeavoured to prevent the attendance of any child at Sunday performances, but exhibitors declined to avail themselves of the proffered facilities and challenged the action as being ultra vires proceeding to take steps to test its validity in the High Court. As a result, the condition was withdrawn and licenses were issued on the same terms as week-days. A threat by Brighton exhibitors to close on Sundays also had the effect of the dropping of a proposal to increase the S.O. levy £1,000 to £1,500. Another instance of dictation which is being brought to the notice of the Home Office comes from Ipswich, where the Sunday programme change and seat prices are to be subjected to control. Clear indication that the Home Office does not countenance such procedure was conveyed in a letter to the Carlisle City Council dealing with its attempt to restrict Sunday opening to soldiers. The Home Office stated that it was regrettable that the Council should be unwilling to make an order under Defence Regulation 42 from a fear that other persons might enjoy such Sunday entertainment.

The endeavour of some authorities to compel managements to refuse admission to patrons not carrying their gas masks, was resented on the grounds that onus for such disciplinary action should not be placed on the exhibitor. The seat price controversy has remained fairly quiescent, and there is record of only one authority—Kettering—following the lead of the L.C.C., upon whose regulations the new license conditions has been modelled. This and another instance where the Safety rules of the L.C.C. were quoted in a claim for damages heard in a provincial Court of Law as evidence of the structural soundness of a staircase, are significant examples of the manner in which the lead of the L.C.C. is followed by provincial authorities. It emphasises the need for most rigid examination of proposed additions to the rules of management of that authority before they are acquiesced in by exhibitors. At the same time, it is not often there is a complaint concerning arbitrary licensing action by the L.C.C., and consequently there was surprise expressed at its action, apparently on the strength of periodical review, in banning, without viewing the picture, the premiere of the Columbia production "Married but Single," which had been granted an "A" certificate by the B.B.F.C. The renters were told it must not be shown until the Council had seen it.

AIR-RAID PRECAUTIONS.

THE effectiveness of the air-raid precautions imposed upon the Industry in common with all other business was fully proved during the months of intensive bombing in 1940-1941. Several kinemas have succumbed to enemy action; but in a few isolated instances, principally in coastal areas, casualties to patrons have been unexpectedly light. The early curfew arrangements in operation at the time had much to do with this satisfactory state of affairs, but even in cases, as at Sheffield, where theatres were badly damaged, the A.R.P. and fire-training of the staff have proved invaluable in clearing kinemas and preventing panic when the time came to exercise it. The only new regulation during the year dealt with the fire-watch precautions and the duties imposed upon staffs and management. Many of these have proved onerous in operation owing to staff shortage or to the increasing employment of women, who will not be accepted in some areas as efficient substitutes for either the male fireman or fireguard. Other districts insist upon the A.R.P. training of all personnel, which, in these days of constantly changing staffs, is difficult to arrange without detriment to the theatre service. Very few additional structural precautions have been found necessary in the light of experience other than the bricking up of window spaces, which has been found more effective against blast than the strapping of glass and pinning up of certain parts of the building. Most managements have replaced glass fittings in the interior of the building with one or other of the glass substitutes which are handled by, among other firms, Walturdaw, H. Lagaras and Son, Ltd., Rawlplug Co., and Leon Goodman.

Some interest was shown in the introduction by a Chester firm of a gas-tight metal window. The basic principle is the use of a plastic sealing material which forms a gas-tight seal when it is run along an extra wide contact surface. The fitting of laminated glass and metal glazing heads enables the windows to stand a certain amount of blast. Incidentally, numerous air raids have demonstrated the great strength of the metal window. Special designs of gas-proof and splinter-resisting doors have also been marketed by this firm.

Interesting information concerning the effects of blast on kinema equipment has been published. Practical instances show the immunity of most kinema equipment from blast. At the Dominion, the blast was sufficient to buckle the safety curtain, but had no effect on the speakers. In another kinema two explosive incendiary bombs burst in the stalls, and no fewer than 10 H.E. bombs burst within a mile radius; neither the H.F., the 16 in. L.F., nor the box cone speakers were in the slightest degree upset, although one of the O/150 ma. meters in the amplifier panel showed a subsequent tendency to stick. In a recording studio only two doors away, not one of the delicate instruments was damaged.

WAR DAMAGE PROBLEMS.

THE situation arising from the application of the provisions of the War Damage Act to the special circumstances of the Industry provided C.E.A. branches with a fruitful subject of debate, particularly concerning the determination of contributions in respect of fixed property and apparatus held under hiring agreements. These problems of responsibility and contributory payments called for very close examination by the legal department of the C.E.A., a summary of whose conclusions appears on page The question of fixtures turned mainly upon the interpretation of the operative clause, but the insurance of sound sets proved a vastly more complex matter—and provoked very considerable discussion with Western Electric, without, however, arriving at a solution satisfactory to the exhibitor. Suggestions were made that concessions along these lines might form the subject of an amendment of the Act which would permit of the payment of premiums to cover the full reinstatement value of the set, and that the precedent followed in regard to leases whereby the premium is apportioned as between lessor and lessee of property should be followed in these cases. The appeal, however, was ineffective, and it seems the exhibitors must make up their minds either to accept the new agreement introduced by Western Electric or follow the example of some of the circuits who have not insured their sets, but in this latter case it must be remembered that the replacement of damaged or destroyed sets is facilitated by the ability to draw upon equipment in other circuit-houses that have been closed for one reason or another.

The operation of the Act resulted in the winding-up of various mutual insurance societies which dealt with the coverage of consequential damage following enemy action, and consequently a C.E.A. proposal to effect some scheme whereby loss of profits could be made good in the event of closure through enemy action could not be proceeded with.

The wisdom of those exhibitors who arranged for the proper valuation of their property has been proved in many cases where claims for compensation for damage done by enemy action have been greatly facilitated. One recommendation is that exhibitors should take an inventory of the kinema and have it checked by the insurance company.

Arising from the operation of the War Damage Act the subject of the basis upon which kinemas are assessed has achieved certain prominence. Inquiries revealed such amazing variations in the methods of arriving at assessments that the opinion is vigorously expressed that the C.E.A. should press for a national formula embodying a clear-cut method of arriving at assessments. Instances of the difference in assessment cases have been cited. For example, insurance authorities took into consideration the trade of the kinema; another authority "took all relative factors into account." Southport, with 5 per cent. of 45 per cent. of the maximum possible receipts; a tremendous number of rating authorities, it was found, took takings into account. It is claimed that the basis should be on what the premises should be let for on terms to be fixed between a willing landlord and a willing tenant.

Not altogether unconnected with this subject was an interesting memorandum, prepared by A. A. Snape, well-known exhibitor and accountant, of Manchester, dealing with the question of income tax claims for deferred expenditure, examples of which included the following:—

Decoration : Normally every three years; to-day's costs were so much higher than when buildings were last decorated that corresponding provision had to be made in the amount reserved. Seating : Renewals every seven years; if repairs are needed after a shorter period, reserve for them; carpets, three to five years, and runners, three years, according to usage. Draperies : Seven years. Projection Box Equipment : If getting to the renewal stage should be claimed for. Uniforms, etc. : Cleaning, making good, etc. Camouflaged Exteriors : Restoring to original condition should be allowed for, and also, possibly, even substitutes of black-out curtains with new ornamental material, new fittings and damaged glass, through removal of electrical fittings to avoid blast. Neon will probably need replacement and a reserve should be made. Mr. Snape advised exhibitors to examine the books to remind them of variou renewable items—footlights, ash trays, vacuum cleaners, advertising boards, etc. He pointed out that instructions had been given to inspectors of taxes to allow reserves on repairs and renewals postponed as the result of the war, and which otherwise would have been executed.

KINEMA REPAIR AND RENOVATION.

SOMETHING like three or four hundred new places of entertainment have been built since the war started, but as each one of them is a camp institution, their interest to the exhibitor, except as a possible competitor, is by no means as great as that to the equipment supplier. Nevertheless, it is a pity that the Official Secrets Act prevents a description being given of examples of these all-purpose halls, because some of them boast characteristics in design, building or equipment which might well be successfully adapted to the needs of the commercial kinema. While many of these theatres are unpretentious and conform strictly to the barest utilitarian needs, others have been so ingeniously designed and so well equipped that they fully merit the description of "pocket-supers" applied to them by a resentful exhibitor.

The erection of the commercial kinema has practically ceased. There are only two records of activity in new buildings, and these are both in Scotland. At Aberdeen, work was proceeding until the middle of the year on the construction of a handsome granite-built house, but operations have since been suspended on this and two other luxury theatres which were to have been erected; at Dundee, however, the completion is in sight of a new theatre, which A.B.C. proposed to open early this year. There were very few other semi-finished kinemas at the start of the war which were not completed in the first year of hostilities. Some few were in such an early stage of construction that the stoppage of further work could cause no deterioration of that which already had been done, and these will certainly remain in this condition for the duration. But though there has been no new building, a great amount of activity is recorded in the recommissioning of theatres that have suffered from enemy action. Quite a few, of course, have been irreparably damaged, and await entire rebuilding, others are no longer suitable as picture theatres, and have been leased as store premises for the period of the war. One reason for the latter decision has been the impossibility in many cases of obtaining licences for the expenditure of the maximum amount (reduced last year from £500 to £100) on repairs. This has been the dominating problem of exhibitors in blitzed areas, who previously found that £500 could only effect more or less makeshift and temporary repairs. With the new proviso that no building may be undertaken at a cost exceeding £100, the matter would be almost insuperable were it not for the fact that in the generality of cases applications for licences have received sympathetic consideration of the authorities concerned. It has, however, been explained that the limit mentioned by the Government that bomb damage must not be repaired without a licence or that not more than £100 may be spent in one year was not intended to apply to repairs for the purpose of making premises wind and watertight, but new materials must not be used and that the work shall be repairs and not replacements—a door, for instance, might be repaired, but not replaced. Obviously, the expenditure of the earlier sum of £500, if accompanied by careful planning and keen buying, was able to effect some quite satisfactory renovations, judging from the descriptions of many of the kinemas which have been reopened during the year. Many of the materials, such as used bricks, timber and the replacements of equipment, have frequently represented salvage from other bombed premises and theatres. These, with roof coverings of a very temporary nature, may do sound duty until the time comes when proper rebuilding is feasible. It is to be hoped that the exhibitor has availed himself of the quiet period most areas have enjoyed this year of the opportunity to prepare stocks of materials which may come in useful were intensive bombing to recommence. At one time the suggestion was made in a C.E.A. branch that a co-operative organisation should be established with this purpose, but little more has been heard of the proposal. A little forethought of this nature would very materially assist the exhibitor in making temporary repairs where possible, and thus enable him to restore his theatre as early as possible to its position as a centre of community entertainment. It is evident, however, that whatever preparations may be made renovation of a sufficiently adequate character to enable a kinema to function is all that dare be attempted, but little can be done if the local authority refuses a licence for the spending of money over £100. Little can be done with such an amount, but, in view of the importance attached by official circles to the kinema entertainment, the exhibitor should lose no time in stating the circumstances to his local authority. It is essential, however, that he should restrict his expenditure on renovation consistent with the safety and comfort of his patrons. Probably a greater measure of consideration will be given by a council to an application if loss of rates to the municipality if the kinema is closed is emphasised by the exhibitor, although instances have occurred where councils have been obdurate in insisting upon the £100 limit.

One point to which the most serious consideration should be given is the upkeep of kinema property. The difficulty of following this advice is admitted in view of the serious restrictions on materials and labour; but so many exhibitors have neglected the most elementary essential repairs to equipment and structure. Painting of exteriors and, where needed, of the interiors, should not be delayed. The effects of weathering to roofs or footings, and, where there has been enemy action, of bombing and blast, should be critically examined with a view to carrying out any repairs that may be found necessary.

There have been few developments in building and design in America, whose concentration on war supplies and latterly active participation in hostilities has also practically curtailed new construction and has placed a rigid limit on expenditure. Some interesting conclusions on the subject of seat-staggering and floor slope are, however, contained in the S.M.P.E. report on theatre design. It is pointed out that even when the seats are placed in line behind one another, staggering exists on either side of the centre-line, but not on the centre-line; if the floor slope were to be increased to make it possible to have unobstructed vision from the central seats, the slope would be excessive and dangerous. It is proposed that where floor slopes become too great or otherwise where the screen is placed too high, the central section of seats be staggered. This would result in a total loss of seats amounting to only about $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the total.

Interest also attaches to the lay-out of the American projection theatre which possesses not a single flat wall surface, and no parallel surfaces whatever, with the exception of the wall of the projection chamber.

DECORATION.

A PERIOD of total war is not conducive to the exercise of any of the Arts, and it was not to be expected that theatre decoration, a humble branch of the older arts, would be able to survive war conditions unimpaired. There can be no profit in endeavouring to review tendencies of theatre decoration during 1942, for, although bombed theatres would have presented numerous opportunities for the talents of architects in normal circumstances, the most that has been demanded is the exercise of ingenuity rather than artistry in making good enemy damage.

Last year there was a complete cessation of the building of new theatres other than those connected with the services, whose establishments do not generally lend themselves to elaborate decorative treatment any more than did the renovation and repair of kinemas which had suffered as the result of enemy action. The restriction to £100 of the amount to be spent in reinstatement has necessarily hampered the carrying out of such work, although it must be admitted that in most districts officials have been as sympathetic as could have been expected towards exhibitors' proposals. Nevertheless, the prime factor of rigid economy, to which was added the Limitation of Supplies Order and the absence of skilled personnel, has imposed such limitations upon the work that it has necessarily been reduced to the lowest minimum. The results in a score or more kinemas have been more satisfactory than would have been imagined, and are a testimony to the good taste and happy improvisation of its originators. It may be that one result of this economy of material will propagate a new era of decoration. For, unable to reproduce the often out-moded ornamentation, so often a feature of some of the older (and others not so old) buildings, designers have been driven to rely upon plain plastic-sprayed wall surfaces, offset by the most inconspicuous decorative detail. It provides a more restricted note in kinema decoration which is a happy mean between flummery ornament of the older school and the flamboyancy of the modernist. Strangely enough, it seems that the presence of wide, unbroken surfaces do not adversely affect the acoustic properties of the halls concerned.

Managements of not so seriously damaged theatres have made good jobs of repairs carried out under the supervision of their own staff or by hired labour. This was possible in many cases because the precaution was taken of laying in stocks of the more essential materials to enable a rapid repair to be satisfactorily undertaken.

Experience has shown that the entertainment requirements of the people will always be sympathetically regarded by the authorities, but the implementing of this attitude does not go farther than making the building weather-proof. Consequently, a great responsibility rests upon the exhibitor if he desires to augment the amenities of his theatre. Shortages of material are likely to increase, contractors even find it difficult to obtain certain colours which are so popular in kinema work. Chromes are particularly short and, of course, cellulose, to name but two which concern the decorator. It would be well, therefore, to make what provision is possible and lay in stocks of paints and what material is available against the day when renovation or redecoration must be undertaken.

If the most satisfactory job is desired, it is more than ever necessary these days to have the work done by specialists. Walturdaw's decoration department, for instance, has been much in request, both in respect of Service theatres and also in a number of kinemas, including many bombed premises, which have been restored to something like their pristine freshness. The extent of many of these contracts have been curtailed for the reasons stated; but, notwithstanding difficulties, old-established firms, such as Clark & Fenn, Ltd., Campbell Bros., Roffe Decorations, have made special study of decorative possibilities under war conditions, and may be relied upon to afford a relatively satisfactory service to exhibitors. Some firms, as Modernisation, Ltd., and G.-B. Equipments, have adopted the "all-in" contract method pioneered by Kenneth Friese-Greene, whose firm (Modernisation, Ltd.) have carried out country-wide contracts for renovation and repairs, and, in many cases, the technical re-installation of blitzed premises. A number of "first-aid" contracts have enabled kinemas to function again with the minimum possible delay. Maple & Co., Ltd., are also ready to place their long experience and unexcelled facilities at the service of exhibitors. Decorative Crafts, Ltd.—Since the outbreak of war this firm, of which H. F. Mara is managing director, has carried out a deal of kinema contracts, but, in addition to these activities, has also handled numerous jobs for the camouflaging and blacking-out of a great number of industrial plants and other buildings, and, of course, kinemas. Fosters (Curtains), Ltd.—Restrictions in staff and supply of materials have necessarily affected the business of this Nottingham organisation, yet, in spite of difficulties, Fred. A. Foster has continued to serve the industry and to meet a great proportion of the demands of their many clients, particularly in respect of redecoration, redraping and upholstering. A glance at the list of contracts carried out during the year indicates the excellent service provided to exhibitors, which includes the provision of festooned curtains, stage draperies and tracks, pelmets, flooring, and other essential requirements. A large proportion of this firm's business has consisted in redecorating interiors, including sprayed plaster decorations, which have been successfully carried out notwithstanding shortage of several colours and other materials, which has taxed the ingenuity of the contractor to overcome. Despite being kept busy with Government work, Kalee's decoration department have been able to help a number of their customers out of their troubles and hope to be in a position to continue to do so, although under present restrictions this will temporarily have to be on a much smaller scale.

FURNISHINGS AND SEATINGS.

IT is a remarkable fact that after 28 months of war, the furnishings of the majority of our picture theatres, even those in garrison areas, show so few visual signs of wear or deterioration. This is as much a tribute to the good sense of the exhibitor who originally insisted upon quality fabrics and material as it is to honest craftsmanship and efficient service of those firms who specialise in this department of picture theatre equipment. It is hoped that the lesson of the first two years of hostilities will not be lost upon proprietors and their architects when peace permits more than temporary replacements to be made. It may be, however, that the decision to refurnish will also have to be taken during the war period, and in that case his choice is likely to be severely restricted, although some of our biggest contractors still hold stocks of pre-war quality which they are using while they last in the continuance of a proved tradition of service. Nevertheless, limitations have resulted as the result of various control Orders, and further shortages are visualised, if, indeed, not actual rationing, so that it behoves every showman to give the most careful consideration to the preservation of all furnishings. He will find his decision not only beneficial economically, but also contributing, albeit in a relatively lesser degree to the perpetuation of those amenities which have given the kinema its predominance among public entertainment. Saving on the furnishing and seating can only be effected at the expense of quality with the consequence that renovation and replacement have to be considered at a much earlier date than would have been necessary had not the original choice been swayed by a perverted sense of economy. New furnishings should be purchased with an expectation of the usual normal life of such equipment, and not merely regarded as a temporary expedient not intended to outlast the "duration." Consequently, if an exhibitor must buy, he should see that his purchases combine the highest degree of quality consistent with the national need for rigid economy.

Although most furnishing fabrics employed in kinemas in stage decoration, film sets and upholstery may be obtained without the surrender of coupons, the supply restrictions have proved one of the major difficulties of furnishers, and there is little doubt that the situation will worsen. Sponge rubber, formerly used in seating, is now being produced almost entirely for war purposes; springs and metal components of the standards subject to official priorities are also difficult to obtain. The situation as regards the reconstructed theatres has been solved in part by the employment of salvage equipment which has been fetching high prices, so great is the demand. An instance of the value of good second-hand seating was provided early in the year when a kinema badly damaged by an air raid the Lazarus seating was purchased as it stood at a price 20 per cent. above that of the original installation and supply contract.

It is unfortunate for the exhibitor that the incidence of these restrictions which makes replacement a matter of difficulty occurs at the same time that the wear upon most theatre furnishings, principally upholstery and carpeting, is generally far heavier than ever it was, or even than the most sanguine exhibitor ever anticipated. This makes it incumbent upon managers to give additional care to the cleaning and preservation of all drapery, upholstery and floor coverings.

The problem of renewal is complicated by the shortage of new material, and only where stocks are held or secondhand materials in tolerably good condition are available, can the difficulty be met. The position in regard to rubber flooring has become, of course, extremely critical. In the very near future, replacements even of this material will be impossible and the exhibitor will have to consider seriously the use of alternative floor covering. This will be difficult, for the supply of even the most suitable substitute—linoleum—is restricted, and moreover it is to be doubted whether the present commercial material is of sufficiently durable quality. It is suggested that treatment of the floor base itself—concrete or timber—might prove satisfactory. There are preparations designed for direct application to concrete, and these might serve the purpose in circulating spaces within the auditorium, but unless the comfort of the patron can be safely ignored, the continued use of carpet or its substitute between rows is advisable. Practically no modern kinemas possess wooden flooring, but where this does exist, the exhibitor might well follow the example of our chain-store establishments—apply a preparation which is preservative, pleasant to the smell, and dustless.

No new forms of seating have been recorded, but American opinion suggests a modification of the lighting unit in seat-row ends so as to permit the lighting, not only of the aisle floor, but also of the entry of the row. Another point which it is urged deserves attention in the design of standards is the better accessibility of the light fitting for cleaning and lamp substitution.

A review of furnishing activities indicates how well manufacturers and suppliers have succeeded in supplying new and maintaining existing kinema furnishings. Among the firms who have surmounted the difficulties presented by the situation is H. Lazarus & Son, Ltd., who report several important contracts for new tip-up chairs, re-upholstering and recovering installed seating, and for the supply of soft furnishings. They have their capacity fully extended preparing schemes and estimates for maintenance, utilising only the minimum amount of labour and materials essential to keep theatres in a state of good repair and comfort. By such limitation, they are enabled to satisfy many more of their customers than if they were to undertake indiscriminately the complete furnishing contracts that are continually being offered them, as these not only absorb unnecessarily large quantities, but, in addition, deprive others of their absolute necessities. It is appreciated, of course, that some seating, carpets and draperies are beyond repair, and where such is the case there is no alternative but to replace them with new, and this firm has several such contracts in hand, apart from innumerable smaller ones for renovations, etc., on the lines above-mentioned. Owing to shortage of labour, however, these contracts are taking very much longer than would normally be the case, and if any of our readers contemplate having work done it is advisable for them to make their inquiries well before such work becomes vital. Five important South African theatres were equipped during the year with Beck & Windebank seating; Iceland is another country to which this old-established Birmingham seating firm has shipped its product which now figures so largely in many of the most important kinemas at home and overseas. A list of nearly 70 other theatres shows wide scope of their activities which cover re-upholstering, floor-coverings, curtains, seating, proscenium draperies and fittings. A considerable number of Government contracts have been carried out by Walturdaw's, in addition to the furnishing and seating of many kinemas. Their renovation department has been kept quite busy during the year and they have been able to function to the satisfaction of a host of customers. Curtains are a speciality of Foster's (Curtains), Ltd., who, in spite of difficulties of supply and the loss of trained personnel, have continued to serve the industry. C. R. Harrison, the Lancashire seating firm, is one of the many engaged on work of national importance, but nevertheless, they have been able to ensure a continuance of the reputation for comfort and reliability of such seating that their restricted circumstances will permit them to accept. They welcome inquiries, but crave indulgence if they are unable to guarantee their usual speedy deliveries. A similar quandary faces F. D. Bowden, of Pathe Equipment, which continues to maintain a consistent level, while the product of W. W. Turner & Sons which he handles continues to achieve its normal high quality, despite National calls on their craftsmen's facilities. A firm of national repute, Paterson's (Glasgow), Ltd., have been busily engaged on new contracts and replacements in which the fact that they have the good fortune to hold large stocks has been of inestimable benefit to their customers. Kalee, Ltd., have been well occupied during the past 12 months in their curtain shop with many forms of Government, local government, and A.R.P. work, but have at the same time been able to cope with kinema requirements. So far as seating is concerned, restrictions make it difficult for Kalee to give the same service as pre-war, but they are anxious to be of every possible assistance to their customers and will be pleased to hear of their requirements, with a view to seeing whether they can satisfy them. Everything for the theatre is the slogan of G. B. Equipments, and by clever organisation it is still applicable, particularly in the furnishing and seating departments, which continues to serve satisfactorily the needs of a wide circle of satisfied clients. A brisk business has been done during the period by Theatre and Cinema Equipment, Ltd., whose service and workmanship have commended their product to a large number of customers, including the Government. Trinity Chair Works, the old-established Yorkshire firm, is the only one missing from this parade of furnishers, for the reason that the whole of the output is earmarked for Government purposes, although plans are in being for a rapid re-entry to the Trade as soon as circumstances permit. New and secondhand seatings are available from George Palmer. Although more popularly known for their metal projection screens, Stableford All-Metal Screens, Ltd., have been unostentatiously busy in various forms of furnishing. They have been responsible for the whole stage and (other than lighting) of almost all the Garrison Theatres in the country, and have a heavy programme of this still in hand. A similar blanket contract, involving all scenery lines, curtains and gear, floor screens and frames, at Royal Ordnance factory hostels throughout the country. C. R. Harrison & Sons, Ltd.—War conditions have necessarily hampered the functioning of C. R. Harrison & Sons, Ltd., theatre and kinema furnishers of Lancashire, and they wish to extend their regrets to clients who may have to wait for deliveries of their famous kinema seating. The factory has now largely turned its plant over to essential war work, which makes it impossible to maintain pre-war production. All inquiries will, of course, be welcomed, but the national effort must come first, and it is this work alone which prevents giving definite dates for the delivery of tip-up chairs and seating.

Actual wear by the patron cannot be avoided, but its effect can be considerably minimised by personal attention to the condition of all draperies and upholstery. The first essential to this end is a good vacuum cleaning plant—(incidentally, see that this is properly maintained, because it is practically impossible to obtain a new installation owing to manufacturers, such as Sturtevant Engineering, concentrating on the war effort. This plant must be efficiently operated if the deterioration arising from fretting is to be avoided. Other points to be regarded are the eradication of moth, the early repair of worn patches in carpeting and other floor coverings. Special treatment should also be given to soiled portions. Where possible, draperies should be dry-cleaned, but possible delay in deliveries may suggest to exhibitors the wisdom of having them washed—carefully with soap and water.

QUOTA LEGISLATION.

ALTHOUGH the Trade has been affected in some way or the other by the various enactments of Parliament concerned with the war effort, the only legislation specially applicable to the kinema industry was the reduction of the exhibitors' and renters' quota to a figure more in consonance with the film position resulting from the exigencies of the war. It had long been obvious that owing to a variety of causes—lack of studio space, shortage of personnel, and other restrictive influences—that the production of British films in sufficient quantity to satisfy the quota demands was an impossibility. The situation was repeatedly ventilated by the C.E.A., but, while it was obvious that concessions eventually would have to be made, the Board of Trade temporised with the suggestion that the British quota problem might be met by a reform of Trade practices, and particularly its distributive arrangements, by the loosing of bars and the general adoption of the 6-day-run policy. The proposals were coldly received by a joint meeting of the C.E.A. and K.R.S., whose action was, in effect, the return of the problem to the Government for solution. The C.E.A. case was that the suggestion was no solution, and pointed out that the real point at issue was that the Films Act of 1937 imposed an increasing quota while production showed a serious decline, and urged that the quota should be scrapped for the duration. A similar argument was advanced by the K.R.S., but the Society admitted that the alteration of barring clauses might result in an amelioration of the difficulties. The exhibitors' argument appears to have been unanswerable, and the C.E.A. representations were reinforced by the majority recommendations of the Films Council. The ultimate result was that towards the end of the year the Government accepted the proposed principle for the reduction of the quota, and in December, Parliament agreed to an amendment of the provisions whereby British quota requirements were stabilised for the next three years. The present requirements are as follows:—

Renters' features, 20 per cent. ; shorts, 15 per cent. ; exhibitors' features, 15 per cent. ; shorts, 12½ per cent.

Suggestions had previously been made that the age of British films to rank for quota be increased, and the spokesman for the Board of Trade agreed in principle to this further amendment. Another proposal was that short films should count against long films and that serials should be similarly treated, but although the scheme received quite an amount of support from certain C.E.A. branches no action was taken in this connection, although the point was pressed as likely to afford an alternative solution to the quota difficulties of the exhibitor.

The following figures are significant as indicating the ready response of the exhibitor to the presentation of British films:—

In the second year of the war exhibitors showed more British films than in the previous year; 24 per cent. of British films of all classes were shown in the 12 months ending September 30, 1940—a percentage which has only been exceeded in 1936 (27.4), and 1937 (29.9). It was pointed out, however, by the C.E.A. that this does not mean that the quota situation had been materially eased, and the current production difficulties had caused such a diminution of available British films that it was unlikely that the current 17½ per cent. quota will be able to be fulfilled by the majority of showmen.

Other matters such as the deferment of personnel, closing hours, etc., although they involved considerable discussion between the C.E.A. and the Ministries concerned, were matters of interpretation, and did not involve special legislative action.

INCENDIARY BOMB PRECAUTIONS.

IN common with the rest of the community, the Trade was called upon in the early months of the year to intensify its precautions against fires caused by incendiary bombs. The lesson was vigorously forced home by F. B. Blake at the annual general meeting of the C.E.A., whose remarks were supplemented by delegates whose branches were even then examining the effects of extensive raiding.

The lessons to be derived from these and similar incidents were examined by George Coles, F.R.I.B.A., among whose chief points were: the need to examine daily high-level storage tanks which must be kept filled while the mains supply was still available. They should be regarded as a reserve supply, and the number of fire buckets should not be reduced for this reason. Easy accessibility of the roof void and flat roofs was essential, and these parts and other parts of the theatre should be supplied with sand and fire-fighting appliances; having the appliances, the trained man power should be available and, moreover, should be protected with suitable personal equipment.

A memorandum on the use of chemical fire extinguishers in putting out incendiary bombs was issued (April) by the Fire Extinguisher Trades' Association. This stated that official tests had proved the soda-acid type and the water and compressed carbon-dioxide type of extinguisher (such for example, as those manufactured by Pyrene, Ltd.), were highly effective on both incendiary bombs and fires caused by them. An outstanding advantage of these hand extinguishers is that they can be operated single-handed. The decision applies only to the types of extinguishers mentioned, and, moreover, the operative distance of approximately 30 ft. enables the user to keep well outside the officially suggested zone of 10 ft. or 12 ft. Dual (jet and spray) nozzles as used on stirrup pumps are supplied by the manufacturers for extinguishers already installed.

Another memorandum was issued in May by the Institution of Electrical Engineers' Advisory Committee to the Ministry of Home Security dealing with fire detection devices with special reference to the detection of incendiary bombs. The report describes a number of methods of warning which should be of interest to exhibitors, including the use of light detectors (photo-cells), heat and smoke detectors and radio-active cells. Incendiary bomb detection is the subject of two specifications issued by the British Standards Institution, B.S./A.R.P. 53—the heat-sensitive type—and B.S./A.R.P. 55, "Detectors of Incendiary Bombs by Electrical Circuits Ruptured by Impact."

A new means of dealing with the fire-bomb menace is announced by Phelps Beddard, Ltd., who have introduced a fluid, "Incendex," two pints of which, it is claimed, will extinguish within 20 seconds, a fire bomb. The fluid is applied by means of a stirrup pump, set at the jet-stage of expulsion, and is said to be speedy, safe and certain in its operation. It has been widely adopted by property owners and its utility as kinema equipment is obvious.

The quandary in which exhibitors are placed owing to shortage of fire-trained personnel was illustrated by an incident at Liverpool where, owing to the sudden illness of two staff firemen, matinees had to be abandoned for eight days. The need for the allocation of temporary aid by the N.F.S. in such circumstances is obvious. Many authorities have visualised a problem arising from the employment of all-women staffs and have insisted in such instances upon a capable male [fireman being in attendance. Incidentally, there is frequent refusal to permit the manager to undertake this duty.

FILM STOCK SHORTAGE AND PRINT CONDITIONS.

THE position arising from the huge increase in the use of film stock, coupled with shortage of supplies—intensified since the entry of Japan into the war—has given rise to the gravest concern in Government and Trade circles. In an attempt to economise film stock, discussion took place at the instance of the Board of Trade between the C.E.A. and K.R.S. Suggestions, including readjustment of release dates, thereby reducing the number of prints, the reduction of programme footage to a maximum of 11,000 ft., the elimination of trailers, and censor certificates and the shortening of credit titles, each of which presented some point of difficulty, and the discussion failed to achieve a practical solution. A similar negative result attended a proposal that the number of copies of M. of I. propaganda shorts should be curtailed, the general exhibitor attitude being that what was needed were not fewer but more copies of all films, owing to the more rapid deterioration of prints arising from circumstances connected with the war. A practical contribution towards a solution was adopted in November, by the renters who voluntarily offered to reduce their consumption of film stock by 400,000 ft. each during the November 30-day period. This decision, it was hoped, would effect a saving of at least 20 per cent. without disturbing the business operations of exhibitors, It turned out, however, that notwithstanding this measure of self-abnegation on the part of the renters, some 3,000,000 more feet were consumed in December than in the previous month. It was felt at the K.R.S. meeting at which this revelation was made by E. E. Blake, managing director of Kodak, that if the Government demands were responsible for the increase, the efforts of renters to economise were being nullified. This instance should serve as a warning to the Trade that with the ever-increasing demands of the Service film departments, and also of propaganda production, that further economies in the Trade use of stock are likely to be called for early. It is believed in some quarters that the proposal to limit the length of programmes will again be brought forward; and in this connection it is significant that in America the suggestion is made that the most practical method of dealing with shortage of film stock, production personnel and facilities would be to make the single-feature programme compulsory.

This problem of film stock economy is closely related to that of print condition which has been causing great anxiety to exhibitors who fear, not without reason, that a reduction in the number of film copies will still further increase the number of bad prints. Even in normal peace time operation, there occur many complaints of the condition in which film prints are received for screening, so it is unlikely that any improvement in the handling of prints can be expected during the war, when so many semi-skilled and often inexperienced operators are functioning under circumstances of great difficulty. As much, if not a greater degree of responsibility for the prevalence of bad copies rests with the renters, many members of whose staffs engaged upon examination and repair work fall below the usual standard of competence and experience needed for this task; consequently, copies are not despatched in good condition. It has been urged that more interest should be taken, and a greater degree of supervision exercised in the exchanges.

Even the most stringent supervision both by the renter and the exhibitor is unlikely to prove more than a palliative under present conditions, and the situation would become inevitably worsened were the life of the print extended to any extent. It appears, therefore, that if the further economies in the use of film stock take place as they are likely to, that second and subsequent-run kinemas will be unfortunately placed, so far as the quality of their presentations are concerned; in that event, the capture of a first-run will possess a double significance. Attempts to alleviate the situation by the treatment of the film prints have been made with considerable success and there is an increasing demand for the various laboratory processes designed for the preservation of the lense and hardening the emulsion. At least one firm of renters is now applying this treatment to all its film prints. It is to be hoped that the Trade which has been placed in a favoured position by reason of the national importance of its commodity, will acknowledge as one of its responsibilities to the economy of the war effort by doing its utmost to aid in the conservation of film prints.

FILMS FOR THE FORCES.

WHEN the story comes to be told of the manner in which the film has served the Forces both with entertainment and instructional films it will provide fascinating reading. The Navy Film Corporation has seen to it that every ship which has the necessary accommodation is provided with equipment and an up-to-date supply of films. Similar work has been undertaken for the Army and Air Force, principally by N.A.A.F.I. In one week alone this organisation recorded 88,811 attendances, and the mileage covered by mobile units was 21,330. There are also 33 static kinemas in garrison towns; all these are in addition to the garrison-controlled kinemas, the majority of which rent their programmes through N.A.A.F.I. In addition, there are other official units, such as those controlled by the Ministry of Information and other official bodies. Private firms also specialise in this mobile provision of entertainment.

KINEMA ILLUMINATION.

ILLUMINATION, whether it be of the exterior of the kinema or of the auditorium, is of little more than academic interest to the exhibitor, but it is evident that research workers are fully alive to the post-war requirements of the entertainment industry, which, incidentally, will undoubtedly benefit from the peace-time application of war invention. There is bound to be an extension in the use of new and interesting applications of light which will find ready adoption in places of entertainment. Meanwhile the exhibitor is marking time and is largely content to carry on, so far as the regulations and enforced economies permit, with his existing installation. The cutting out of all façade illumination has resulted in the tying up of no considerable amount of capital. In the case of box signs many managements have treated the installation with preservative after removing the lamps, which have found useful employment elsewhere in the theatre, but for the past two years or so the majority of exhibitors have continued to honour their neon installation contracts. The subject has been discussed by most of the branches who, ultimately, were advised by the C.E.A. Solicitor not to renew their contracts and to have the signs taken down unless the contractors would agree that they should only be paid for so long as they were used and illuminated.

Although the use of luminescent and fluorescent lighting devices has not, for one reason or another, extended so widely as was anticipated when the first black-out arrangements were considered by exhibitors, it is possible that the current year may witness an extension of the use of this principle of illumination. Many well-known undertakings, such as the London Transport Board, have been experimenting, and a recent decision of the latter organisation to use "dark light" for the illumination of station and various directional signs, will probably cause exhibitors to reconsider its use to their own specific requirements.

Police restrictions, of course, have cut out practically all exterior light, consequently reliance has to be placed upon devices capable of producing the necessary amount of illumination within while being effectively screened from escape into the street. This is effected in the first instance by the installation of light-traps of various kinds, and while it is obvious that these must be retained, it facilitates access if the light-trap itself is illuminated from a luminescent source which does not "spill" into the street. In some districts this method is permitted for calling attention to the existence of a kinema, but elsewhere the stringency of the regulations prevents even the adoption but the purpose of equipment which theoretically conforms to the standard specification laid down for the maximum light emission. Where, however, permission is forthcoming, the exhibitor has the choice of several luminescent devices, most of which are basically similar in that they require no actual light source beyond that provided by daylight.

Even where an effective light-trap is employed it is frequently necessary to dim-down the vestibule lighting, and in such cases the outlining of the box-office and various displays by fluorescent material which responds to "black light" (a discharge lamp of near ultra-violet range) will be found convenient. In America and in a few isolated instances in this country this consideration has been artistically as well as usefully employed in the production of display and decorative designs both in the vestibule and in the auditorium. Attention has also been drawn to the possibilities of weaving fluorescent threads into carpets and drapes employed in houses of entertainment. Examples reported from America and South Africa are stated to have proved extraordinarily effective both from the decorative and utilitarian viewpoint.

A warning to users of fluorescent devices is that the "black light" source should be carefully masked and placed because it has been found that some people's eyes respond to the beam and induce a "haziness" of vision which persists until the light is right behind them.

Theatre practice in America is distinctly away from red as a colour in lighting the auditorium. Custom is now definitely turning towards the employment of green as the main colour, particularly in respect to exit and directional signs. The reason for this is that green is easier on the eyes and is more legible, particularly in case of notices which are at the screen end. Neutral colouration of auditorium lighting is advocated, for it is pointed out that with the development of colour film adjacent lamps of a vigorous colour would tend to rob the picture on the screen of its quality of colour. This fact should be remembered by the projectionist when flooding the screen preparatory to screening a Technicolor film: to finish on a neutral colour allows the richer tints to assert their true value.

Balancing of colour in coated luminescent discharge lamps has always been a problem for architects owing to the primary radiation emitted by the discharge itself tending to predominate over the secondary radiation from the luminescent material. Siemen's Electric seek to overcome this by a recently patented process by which the far greater part of the primary radiation is placed in the ultra-violet. The luminescent material is then altered to ensure an approximately equal balance.

G.E.C.—This company produces a range of powders and a technique of application which offer a complete range of materials that can be used for decorative or A.R.P. purposes and will withstand the weather when exposed out of doors. Their luminescent powders are excited by long-wave ultra-violet radiation from Osira and Osglim lamps. For kinemas, luminescent lighting of entrance foyers can be so devised that there is no need for light locks, and the company has devised programme boards that may be placed so that they are visible from the street without infringing police regulations. It can also be employed in fluorescent posters where these can be exhibited in safety. Publicity, however, is not the sole application of this material; it can be employed in several fascinating ways as a decorative medium, and also—a more utilitarian use—by coating phone dials, switches, etc., so that they may be visible should a current failure plunge the house in darkness. Continued research is being conducted into this form of illumination which will probably prove of outstanding interest to the exhibitor when normal times return. Meanwhile, those who are concerned with the war-time possibilities of fluorescence should contact the G.E.C. for data and demonstration. Although a fascinating subject, fluorescence illumination is probably the smallest part of the G.E.C. contribution to the exhibitor's requirements. Many replacements of installations of auditorium and general lighting have been effected and hundreds of Service establishments have also been equipped.

F. H. Pride, Ltd.—A full share of the current kinema business has gone to this firm, whose reputation for design and craftsmanship has survived the difficulties created by shortage of materials and skilled workmen. Many important repair and replacement contracts have been carried out in addition to several Government contracts.

Notwithstanding the war, considerable progress has been made by W. J. Furse & Co., Ltd., in their recently established colour lighting department, which amplifies their already well-tried service to exhibitors which hitherto covered every aspect of electrical and lighting equipment of the kinema. Although they have been busy with Service theatres, the substitution of the needs of the kinema industry is always in the forefront of their sales policy. Walturdaws have met the many and varied demands of the Trade and the Services, and in spite of obvious difficulties with which they have to contend, G.B. Equipments, Falk Stadelmann, Ltd., Pathe Equipment have also been busy and have successfully retained the distinctive quality of their product. Robert Digby, Ltd., R. R. Beard, Ltd., and Strand Electric, recognised leaders in all matters which concern illumination, are other firms whose service, though subordinated to national requirements, is being continued to the Industry.

TICKET ISSUING EQUIPMENT.

THE increased patronage of kinemas, coupled with the black-out and other circumstances arising out of the war, emphasises to a greater degree than ever the need of installing an efficient and fool-proof ticket-issuing equipment. It is of even greater importance nowadays when it so often happens that comparatively inexperienced girls have to undertake this important job. Much of the anxiety arising from this department of the theatre is dispelled where an Automaticket or an accurate check equipment is installed.

Automaticket, Ltd.—The newest addition to the Automaticket equipment for revenue collection and control is a Transfer System which provides a complete check on all transfers to higher-priced seats effected during the course of a performance. This is frequently one of the main sources of leakage, which can now be completely overcome by the installation of a machine no larger than a book, and so light that it can be carried by the attendant. Enquiries are invited, and demonstrations can be arranged at 197, Wardour Street, London, W.1.

Protection, speed and accuracy are provided by the installation of the Super "Simplex" Ticket Register. It is noiseless, and one, two or three tickets can be issued simultaneously by the depression of a single feather-weight key. The magazines, which hold 4,000 tickets, can be loaded without the slightest difficulty, and a safety lock prevents operation when the supply is exhausted so there can be no possibility of collusion or re-sale. Everything is under lock and key so that the sole responsibility rests with one person.

The Model "H" hand-operated Ticket Issuing Machine is extremely fast in operation, and being of unit construction, it expands to meet your growing demands. It provides an infallible double check on receipts, and when it is locked it cannot be used by any unauthorised person.

Another innovation is the "New-Style Two-Print" Ticket System, which provides complete paybox control at no additional cost. Write for full particulars.

Finally, when speed of issue is not a primary feature, the Model "C" ticket cabinet and issuer is a useful adjunct in the box office. Usually kept for the storage of half-price tickets and transfers, it is fitted with inaccessible, irreversible, untamperable mechanical recorders.

It may interest the firm's many friends to know that the Ticket Issuing Machines they had the foresight to accept some twenty years ago have now become practically standard equipment in canteens run by Government factories and commercial concerns.

Accurate Check, Ltd.—There can be no doubt about the continued and ever-growing popularity of the "Accurate" Silent-Electric Ticket Issuing and Recording machine, which is still available in limited quantities despite the difficulties of war-time production. Its rapid ticket delivery—from one to three can be issued simultaneously by pressing a button—its ease of operation, the simplicity with which tickets can be renewed, its individual unit construction, and, above all, the absolute and trouble-free revenue protection which it provides, make it an invaluable asset in both large and medium-sized cinemas. The fact that every ticket sold is automatically registered, giving an accurate and unalterable record of all sales, ensures positive audit at all times, while the two Yale type locks, one for the mechanism and the other for the magazines, keeps it under the absolute control of the manager. It is available in five sizes to issue from two up to six different priced tickets.

For the smaller exhibitor there is the "A.H." hand-operated ticket issuer. This, too, is of unit construction, so that if at any time one is out of action the others remain unaffected, and both time and labour are saved by the separately cut tickets which facilitate correct and quick tearing by attendants. Its black mottled case with bright top-plate makes it a handsome addition to any paybox.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT.

Dressing the Staff.—An essential complement to the decor of a kinema is the appearance of the staff. Hitherto, the kit of the attendant—a well-tailored uniform and a distinctive frock—were decorative and attractive factors in the appeal of a particular kinema. There was no let-up in the standard during the early war period, but the coming of clothes rationing presents such difficulties that new uniforms are likely to prove the exception rather than the rule while the war lasts. The great snag, of course, is the requirement of the surrender by the employee of coupons for his clothing—21 coupons for a man and 11 for a girl. An application for concessions made by the C.E.A. to the Board of Trade on the grounds that the uniform worn by kinema attendants was essential in war-time was unsuccessful. Among the alternatives put up by exhibitors was the adoption of the boiler-suit, which is unrationed, or the wearing of a cap and armband. The former, though apparently suited to the present time, has not found favour with exhibitors, while the drawback of the latter is that cap and armband are insufficiently conspicuous in cases where attendants are required to act in an emergency. Another proposal was that a theatre or district pool of coupons should be organised, but this was not found to be practicable. Consequently the care and renovation of uniform clothing have assumed a measure of considerable importance. It is obvious that the greatest care must be taken of those in use. They should be regularly cleaned and repaired, and the use of overalls is suggested wherever a dirty job is undertaken.

Where it is possible by arrangement with the staff to buy new uniforms, greater care than ever must be taken in selecting a quality cloth. Alfred Harold (Uniforms), Ltd., emphasise the "uniform" value of their cloth, but recognising that kinema clothing cannot be supplied in anything like the quantity required before the war, has set up an extensive repairing department which, dealing only with clothing supplied by the firm, carry out repairs with exactly matching materials while cleaning orders are executed with the minimum of delay. The Harold service, adapted to the peculiar conditions of the day, is succeeding in retaining the good will of its numerous clientele of more prosperous and peaceful days. Similar facilities are offered the trade by other specialists in uniform clothing, such as James Beever & Co., Ltd., Uniform Clothing and Equipment Co., Ltd., who, though mainly on Government contracts, are still able to execute theatre orders with reasonable speed, and Charles Baker & Co., Ltd., by whose efforts the quality appearance of the kinema staff is being satisfactorily maintained.

Ventilation.—In spite of, or more probably because of, the war, local authorities have been paying attention to the ventilation equipment of the theatres. The increase in patronage which has taken place in most districts has showed up the deficiencies of ventilation plant which were not designed to cope with S.R.O. attendances—black-out—and authority cannot be blamed for endeavouring to remedy this defect. It is, however, one of those matters which cannot be efficiently undertaken until after the war, and exhibitors faced with this pressure have, perforce, to improvise in their efforts to meet the situation. It is difficult to recommend any course open to the exhibitor who is dissatisfied with the ventilation of his theatre because inquiries of firms specialising in this kind of work indicate that they are almost wholly engaged on Government contracts. At the same time, the need for proprietors to see that their air-conditioning is as efficient as possible is all the more important in these days when kinemas are crowded—the large proportion of their patrons frequently are working and sleeping under conditions which deprive them of the normal amount of fresh air necessary for health. Every window, louver, and door should be opened, directly it is light, to permit the free circulation of air. Early steps should be taken to arrange for an annual overhaul of all equipment, although this may be difficult owing to the shortage of engineers available for this class of work. Apart from such specialised treatment as may be possible, the ordinary and periodic cleaning of the theatre will do much to retain a wholesome atmospheric condition. Some alleviation of conditions may be obtained by the use of portable air-conditioning boxes of the type of the "Etna Ozone," or the "Scentinal" which will aid in the purification of the atmosphere. Germicidal effects are also claimed for the pleasant-smelling spraying fluids, such as "Talfacto" and those marketed by New Hygiene, Ltd. Research and experimental work relating to ventilation problems has been carried out by the Lamson Engineering Co., Ltd., who have particularly concentrated on circumstances arising from the blackout and general war conditions. Lipton's Chemical Co., Ltd., who market sprayers and a variety of germicides.

Deaf Aids.—Although the majority of the kinemas of this country are equipped with deaf-aid sets, there seems to be no interest shown by the average manager in an equipment which should be one of the most valuable factors in the kinema service. The number of deaf, or near deaf, persons in this country is enormous, and yet very little attempt is made to acquaint this huge potential patronage of the fact that their particular infirmity is adequately catered for. The excuse might be proffered that most deaf persons are so sensitive of their affliction that they would resent any procedure which conceivably might particularise them, but it is not a convincing one. Exhibitors should realise that the kinema is practically the only aural entertainment in which a deaf person can participate, and he should publicise the possession of any facilities with which his theatre is equipped. It is time, too, that the procedure for obtaining a hearing aid is simplified. Too often does a patron approach an usherette with a request for the equipment only to find that he or she has started something with which it takes the whole of the attendants on the floor to deal, and in nine cases out of ten, it necessitates one or two experimental plugs-in before it functions. Moreover, too few seats in the average kinema are installed and they are by no means in the best viewing positions; quite a few managements also appear to work on the supposition that only the circle patrons can afford to be deaf. Exhibitors will find it good business to tackle this subject seriously, and if they are unable to do so to accept the advice of a firm of specialists such as "Ardente," whose installations in kinemas exceed 1,500. Place the plaque which is supplied by this firm prominently near the pay-box and at least once a day make a practice of showing the trailer which the firm supplies. First-rate equipment for the deaf is also available from those firms which specialise in sound equipment, but whether "Ardente," R.C.A., Western Electric, B.T.H., G.B., or any other make is installed, the exhibitor should publicise the fact.

The Nuvoice Co.—The company have been specialising since 1938 in sound equipment of all kinds, and are in a position to carry out a really well-planned scheme of sound distribution for stage, tour, etc. Equipment in the cafe or lounge is also installed in many cases and also call systems from the executives to the staff and audiences are another well-studied branch of the company's activities. A staff of acoustic consultants is available for all sound problems.

Fire Prevention.—It would have been imagined that the non-inflammable construction of the modern kinema, combined with the war time equipment and precautions, would have been practically immune from general fire risks. A glance through the files of the KINEMATOGRAPH WEEKLY shows this is not the case, although certainly there have been fewer outbreaks than is usually the case. The most complete protection possible from the mechanical viewpoint is afforded by Pyrene fire appliances, one type or another of which covers all kinema fire risks. For general use there are "Conquest" soda-acid extinguishers (now fitted with dual-purpose nozzle), Pyrene "Everyway" hose reels, and hose and hydrant installations. Fires in electrical plant can be quickly extinguished with Pyrene extinguishers without risk of shock, as this special liquid is non-conductive. Then, of course, there is the well-known Pyrene automatic extinguisher, which is installed on so many projectors and comes instantly and automatically into operation, cutting off the arc and stopping the motors, thus immediately limiting to the minimum the area of the fire.

Acoustics.—One of the factors that make for good acoustics in the theatre is the insulation against the transmission into the auditorium of outside noise, both air-borne and structural. Transmission of such noises as vibrating machinery can be minimised by using double-wall and floor construction in addition to the insulation of the machinery. In the projection box, inside walls and ceiling should be covered with fireproof insulating material, and the air-conditioning system should be operated at a low-noise level by employing a large volume, slow-velocity system with acoustic baffles. Other means to effect noise reduction are heavily upholstered seats, Ozite-lined carpet, and the treatment of auditorium walls with sound-insulating material.

The best method of preventing the intrusion of unwanted noise is the introduction of an insulation treatment such as that sponsored by W. Christie & Grey, Ltd., who by means of cork or spring anti-vibrators have successfully isolated noise and vibration from engine plants and other moving machinery. The system has been successfully applied in several theatres where the introduction of the scientific methods of this firm has proved very effective.

SUB-STANDARD PRESENTATION.

ONE of the most important developments of the war period undoubtedly will prove to be the substantial advance recorded in the sub-standard field. The improved technical quality of the equipment and its extreme mobility recommend its use in situations where the employment of 35 mm. is not practicable, and it is consequently no surprise that all the Services and other Departments depend, to a very considerable extent, on the facilities afforded, principally by the 16 mm. presentations. The widespread coverage demanded of sub-standard has necessitated the formation of training classes for operators, chiefly women members of the Forces concerned. Not only are sub-standard portable units the chief source of entertainment of the many small communities of the Services scattered up and down the country, but it is also a recognised medium for the presentation of training and propaganda subjects. In one week alone, N.A.A.F.I. presented no fewer than 281 sub-standard entertainments. Science and education also provide a wide field for the sub-standard activities, which has by no means been neglected, although the temporary suspension of production of modern subjects militates against its wider application in this respect. At the same time, there still exists in the various film libraries a wide and comprehensive selection of titles, of which good use is being made. It is, however, a fact that for instructional purposes, sound or silent 16 mm. films are used almost exclusively. A not inconsiderable business is also being built up in some of the remoter districts in sub-standard commercial shows, for which some fairly recent releases, reduced from 35 mm., appear to be available to the concern of the already established kinema owner in adjoining districts. Indeed, instances have been quoted of releases being presented on 16 mm. actually in advance of the kinema booking!

This brief survey indicates the widespread use of sub-standard, and it seems that its war time operations will only be limited by the lack of acetate base, of which there is an alarming shortage. Incidentally, this growing popularity of the 16 mm. film has again drawn attention to the point made in these pages a few years ago—that the freedom from censorship of sub-standard films opens the way to abuse. In Parliament, early last year, the charge was made that 16 mm. films were being used for anti-war propaganda, and although the allegation was refuted by the Government, it was not without significance.

Recognition of the importance of this phase of kinematography has naturally been accompanied by sustained research with a view to bettering both equipment and its performance. In this direction considerable progress has been made on both sides of the Atlantic, particularly as regards the evolution of a sturdier mechanism, clarity of sound and efficient light source. Reduction of 35 mm. and processing have also been given attention, and special laboratory departments and enlarged facilities have had to be provided to cope with the demands made.

The chief weakness of the sub-standard presentation is average poor quality of the sound reproduction, which is very much inferior to that of the standard film. While it must be admitted that at its best 16 mm. is indistinguishable in reproduction quality from standard film, it does appear difficult to sustain this high quality. This point was discussed at length in the IDEAL KINE, by R. Howard Cricks, who considers the chief fault in a 16 mm. quality is the film base, which, being non-flammable, is much less flexible than 35 mm. Emulsion grain hitherto has been too coarse, but the new examples are being produced with exceedingly fine grain, which will considerably improve the ground noise and the departure of the higher frequencies. Another disadvantage is the width of the sound track, which is roughly two-thirds that of standard film, or one-quarter of the track area; consequently, ground noise is likely to be four times as prominent. A more massive flywheel of the sound head and adequate smoothing means are also necessary. Indeed, the idea of the 16 mm. machine being essentially a portable should be dispensed with, and designers must produce a projector embodying the same features as a 35 mm. kinema projector and of similarly robust design. The growing familiarity of the public with the sub-standard type of entertainment and, to a lesser degree, the increase in mechanism consciousness among men and women, are factors which doubtless will lead to a huge post-war development of 16 mm. kinematography directed not solely along educational and scientific channels, but also as an alternative to the 35 mm. presentation. In America there was talk of producing subjects directly on 16 mm., but the obvious wastefulness of this procedure is not likely to commend it unless the full-size producer wakes up to the danger of competition and makes prohibitive conditions for reduction.

Among the more important requirements of the sub-standard projector is that of a greater intensity of illumination. Although the possibility of adapting arc illumination to existing sub-standard projections has been canvassed, there are so many mechanical, optical and electrical difficulties to be overcome that the only effective method of securing increased screen illumination is by the use of the discharge lamp, such as the B.T.H. box-type air-cooled compact-source lamp. The 250-watt lamp is three or four times as bright as the most efficient filament lamp. G.E.C. have also been experimenting. As an alternative to the 250-watt compact source lamp, which, though originally designed for small sub-standard projectors, presented considerable difficulties as regards their practical application, G.E.C. are concentrating what little effort they can spare during war time towards the development of a mercury discharge lamp. It is anticipated that within a couple of years after the war this type of lamp will be widely used.

The first demonstration of the Gebescope 16-mm. projector was made in May before the B.K.S. It accommodates 1,500 ft. of film on one spool. The amplifier had an output of 8 watts undistorted. The illuminant was a 500-watt projector lamp. It is simple to lace up, having only two sprockets and a simple form of curved gate. A trip lever under the gate automatically switches off the motor should a film break cause loss of the loop. The machine can be run at either sound or silent speed, and on either A.C. or D.C. supplies from 200 v. to 250 v. During the year the Australian distributors started to manufacture under licence a duplicate of the British Gebescope.

SHOWMANSHIP.

AS the war progresses it becomes more and more difficult for the exhibitor to indulge in those forms of attracting the public which have contributed so greatly to the popularity of the kinema. Up to the end of 1941 the restrictions, while they prevented big poster displays and limited throwaways and programmes, did at least leave the exhibitor with a minimum of material upon which he might exercise his ingenuity, and flair for publicity. Then the tightening-up of the regulations concerning the use of paper gradually whittled away even those limited opportunities until the final blow which absolutely cut out all photographic stills for display purposes. This followed on a previous Order—Control of Paper (No. 36), which imposed further restrictions upon the size and number of posters, of which no more than ten may be exhibited in connection with any one programme, the prohibition of circulars, throwaways, etc., and the limitation of the size of show display cards. Programmes were limited to 80 sq. inches, i.e., one quarto sheet. Attempts were made to mitigate the rigorous nature of the restrictions, but although some concessions were granted to the live stage, nothing was done for the kinema. The prohibition of stills (Cinematograph Film Industry Order, 1942) which comes into force on March 1 was introduced to conserve supplies of sensitised photograph materials of which there is a great shortage, and applies to all premises, including both kinemas and kinema showrooms, but does not prevent projection on a screen or the use of stills in business negotiations. The Order is to be rigidly enforced except where a licence is obtained for exhibition of stills made before the publication of the Order (January 28). After March 1 all stills must bear the renter's endorsement to this effect. Meanwhile renters are considering the adoption of a process which does not involve use of photographic material.

Showmanship under these conditions is not likely to flourish, but already there is ample evidence that the ingenious exhibitor is able to rise above his misfortunes. Bereft of poster facilities even on a limited scale and now prevented from using stills, he must attract by other means. The practice of using illustrations from the Trade papers seems almost the only avenue whereby pictorial display can be used—unless there is a gifted member of the staff who can turn his hand to a wash drawing, which, of course, would have to be executed upon a washable medium, such as oilcloth. One exhibitor has already installed a 48 sheet of this material on his canopy and stencil sets on permanent backgrounds have been used in foyer displays. The shortage of materials has led to the resuscitation of old cut-outs and other advertising material for refashioning to meet present-day publicity requirements. Previously they have been used in conjunction with renters' posters, but now that supplies of these latter have been withdrawn a considerable amount of local art work will be entailed. Frequently this is uneconomic if put out, and it is not every theatre that possesses a man with the requisite artistic qualifications, so that generally speaking the exhibitor will have to rely largely upon letterpress for his publicity. Many managers have done so during the past year and have scored a hit by the production of humorously topical bill boards which have a great attraction. Model work and foyer tie-ups with shops will still be possible, but the more popular trend is to co-operate fully with one or other of the National war campaigns for which it is absurdly easy to obtain posters, speakers of civic distinction, and parades of personnel. This latter policy has the unique advantage of selling the theatre in the guise of what every manager should aspire to make his theatre—a real community centre.

Lighting has been practically abolished as a showmanship adjunct, for the only setting for illumination is provided by darkness and it is a waste of effort to evolve schemes which can only operate in the already adequately lighted interior of the foyer. There have been some stage units employed in lighting cut-out displays, and transparent pictures and notices with rear lighting have added a little artistically illuminated relief to the main circulating space of the theatre, but there does not appear to exist any considerable interest in the use of ultra violet light and fluorescent surfaces. This is a pity, for providing the intensity of the light source comes within the regulations there are numerous gay and ingenious uses to which this form of illumination can be adopted.

Girosign, Ltd.—Notwithstanding temporary dislocation of their manufacturing side, the Girosign service has continued to expand and is probably in greater demand than ever. Entirely reorganised production methods have been introduced in the new factory at Coulsdon, Surrey. In connection with the new Board of Trade Order Girosign will be able to continue for some time to come their service, as they hold a substantial stock of stills of forthcoming attractions and particularly of reissues. In any event they will be able to maintain an efficient service of display publicity.

Coltman Displays, Ltd.—During the last year the problem of providing publicity for theatre display has in no way become easier, and to overcome this difficulty numerous theatres have installed a Coltman Display still service, which ensures a regular supply of attractive publicity of arts, photographic enlargements and stills, all coming from and returnable to the one source. This service has the added and big attraction that it includes all the cabinets and frames, everything being supplied at an inclusive weekly charge, with no capital outlay required at all; further, the display is made specially for the theatre in question, so that every frame, in both size and treatment, becomes part of the theatre's decoration. The problem of supply and production, however, has in no way hindered work required for damaged theatres that have managed to reopen; at such places repairs and renovations have been carried out or, if essential, entirely new displays installed.

Gordon's Sales and Advertising Service, Ltd., who are one of the three firms to supply the entire Odeon circuit with publicity under their new scheme, has had its activities hampered by supply restrictions and the calling up of personnel. With ingenuity as regards material and the substitution of female labour the company has kept things going.

Gordons have concentrated on adapting publicity within the existing permissible limits, and have gained quite a fair amount of business through short runs of screen process posters. Their clients, Odeon have introduced a new scheme of co-ordinated art publicity for interior use which has every indication of working out well, and might easily prove to be something revolutionary in kinema publicity at some time in the future, when business may be conducted under more normal conditions.

National Screen Service, Ltd.—During 1941 National Screen Service has widened the scope of its activities which were, of course, predominantly associated with trailers, by including in its services to exhibitors the distribution of Ministry of Information "five-minute shorts," Ministry of Food "factual messages," and sundry short films for the National Savings Committee, the Red Cross, Air Distress Fund and for Government Departments.

In and out, the company has handled anything from 20,000 to 24,000 short films a week, and has trailer contracts with over 3,750 kinemas. Over 200 people are employed by the company in its offices and factory.

THE KINEMA ORGAN.

WHILE the exigencies of the war have virtually caused the cessation of the building and importation of kinema organs, their popularity has in no way diminished, and it is probably unchallenged as the favourite instrument of the masses. On the air and in the theatre, both as a solo instrument and as an accompaniment, its functions have never been in greater demand—and the excellent investment it represents is admitted even by those who never previously availed themselves to the full of its entertainment facilities. The organ has become an integral part of any well-balanced programme, and exhibitors who take every opportunity of employing it as a medium, not only of entertainment, but also of publicity and showmanship, find it impossible to assess its value. This situation is a tribute to the inherent musicianly attributes of the instrument itself, for the Forces have absorbed a large number of first-rate organists (altogether some 85 per cent. are serving). It is a significant fact which should not be lost upon exhibitors that even when played by performers inferior in registration and general console technique, the organ has proved so popular. On the other hand, credit is due to those who have taken the place of more famous players that so many are achieving such sure showmanship coupled with a high degree of musicianship that the standard of kinema music remains at such a satisfactory standard. In order to cope with any further intake of organists, it is suggested that the trade should arrange some sort of training tuition, but lack of training opportunities presents an obvious difficulty.

John Compton Organ Co., Ltd.—Production and research are necessarily at a standstill, yet notwithstanding war time difficulties the John Compton Organ Co. have been able to continue the maintenance of their instruments, and recently to carry out the transfer of a Compton Organ from a bombed kinema and its installation in another theatre, where its entertainment value has won the spontaneous approval of audiences and management alike.

The Compton Theatre has not been in production since the war began, but a number of these effective instruments are installed in theatres and military establishments, where they are giving complete satisfaction. The Compton organisation is intact. Post-war requirements are well in mind, and there is no doubt that with the cessation of hostilities finer instruments than ever will be available to enhance the great reputation of the Company.

Wurlitzer Kinema Organs.—Major S. J. Wright, whose partner, Walter Pearce, has been detained in unoccupied France since the outbreak of war, informs us that since September, 1939, all importations of musical instruments from the U.S.A. have been prohibited, consequently he has had neither Wurlitzer Organs or Wurlitzer Coin-Operated Phonographs to sell. Nevertheless, the firm of Walter Pearce have managed to keep their heads above water. The damage done to organs by enemy action has provided a good deal of work, which, added to their maintenance service, has proved very helpful. In addition to this they have turned their machines on war work and altogether have been kept busy with a reduced staff. After the war it seems certain that there will be a great demand for both organs and phonographs, and provided the factory at North Tonawanda can make a quick change-over from war work to normal and the restrictions on imports of musical instruments are removed they look forward to very large sales.

STAGE EQUIPMENT.

JUDGING from the extent of the demands made last year by the various Service institutions upon the purveyors of stage equipment and the ever increasing interest of the kinema exhibitor in the matter of stage presentations, it is little wonder that delays in delivery occur, for not only do these establishments endeavour to meet the requirements of the entertainment with which they were so closely identified in peace time, but most of them are engaged in priority work for the Government and upon export trade so vital to national interests. Apart from this, though, the revival in the use of the kinema stage arising from the increasing elaboration of presentation and its frequent utilisation for concerts, military shows and the like, has called for a more complete set-up of lighting and equipment than the ordinary kinema was accustomed to use in normal times. This extension of the facilities offered by the kinema has consequently resulted in a moderately steady demand for all essentials of equipment which, with the priority requirements of Government institutions, has created a demand for stage equipment which restrictions of men and material have not made it easy to satisfy.

W. J. Furse & Co., Ltd.—Important steps have been taken to develop the illuminating engineering branch of Furse activities, and important developments are also in hand for the expansion of the theatre engineering side of this business. R. Gillespie Williams, late Chief Colour Engineer of Holophane, is now in charge of theatre lighting and engineering. Important research work is in hand, and already a new lighting and control system has been produced.

The works organisation is now almost entirely occupied in connection with work of urgent national importance, and, as Furse are a protected establishment and registered under the Essential Works Orders, instructions for the supply of cinema and theatre equipment can only be accepted when these are accompanied by the necessary licences. Spare parts and replacements in connection with Furse equipment already in use, however, continue to be supplied, as the company is very anxious to maintain its high reputation and to take every step within its power to keep all Furse equipment at full operation.

The export side of the business has been developed, and steps have been taken for increased representation in many parts of the world. Curtain controllers, tracks and lighting equipment are being supplied for installations abroad, and many outfits, for example, have been sent to South Africa during the last year.

Development work in colour-lighting, which is one of the organisation's new interests, is continuing, and evidence of this may be found in some very interesting installations in industrial premises and at R.A.F. and military camps. In many cases W. J. Furse have undertaken the complete electrical contract, and these include a number of N.A.A.F.I. halls.

Provincial Cinematograph Trading Co.—This firm is successfully carrying on and, despite difficulties, have met their customers' requirements in respect of all forms of electrical equipment and fittings in which they specialise. The needs of the exhibitor, whether they result from the policy of ambitious stage shows or such forms of presentation involving the use of little more than the bare essentials of stage illumination can be fully met from stock. Other equipment—curtain tracks, controllers and dimmers—all conform to the most modern principles of design and manufacture.

Walturdaw Cinema Supply Co., Ltd.—A considerable business has been done with the various Service departments, but notwithstanding this, Walturdaws have been able to supply their numerous trade customers with all essential equipment to enable presentations to be staged under the best and most efficient conditions. All forms of draperies, curtain tracks and controls are still available, while requirements in respect of spots, batteries, footlights can still be met. A feature is made of the electrical equipment and switch-gear, and there has been a consistently brisk demand for the supply of dimmers.

R. R. Beard, Ltd.—Continuous research work has been carried out by these experts, who recently introduced new pattern spotlights which have proved most efficient for both stage and studio use. Among the new apparatus is a 500-watt spotlight with four adjustable marking shutters and colour or diffusing slide-holder. Mention should also be made of the R. R. B. A.C. stage arc, a compact minor arc equipment which combines long throw with a white light of even intensity.

Knight & Co. (Engineers), Ltd.—War contracts notwithstanding, this firm has catered for stage requirements as regards maintenance and servicing of orchestra lifts, console and stage lifts, safety curtains, counter weighting, to name but a few of the comprehensive range of equipment and mechanisms designed.

Robert Rigby, Ltd.—Almost since the very beginnings of the Trade all kinds of kinematograph and stage apparatus have been supplied under the famous "Premier" trade mark, and even during the present emergency, when so large a proportion of the manufacturing facilities of Robert Rigby, Ltd., is employed on work of national importance, stocks of kine. apparatus are available to meet the ordinary requirements of the trade. All Premier equipment is supplied through the various trade houses and there has been no alteration of the high standard of craftsmanship so long associated with the firm.

Strand Electric and Engineering Co., Ltd.—The stage lighting activities of Strand Electric have continued since the outbreak of war. Many of the peace-time customers have, of course, curtailed their activities, but this reduction of business has been more than offset by the number of orders which have been received for the equipping of hostels, camps, barracks, etc., for the Services.

In addition, considerable progress has been made in the export market. For example, two important Portuguese contracts were secured, in spite of keen German and Italian competition.

The first of these was that in connection with the Portuguese State Opera House, the San Carlos Theatre, Lisbon. In this instance the installation, which is as large as that at the Covent Garden Opera House, included a Strand Light Console, the new form of stage lighting control which was such a feature of the performances at the Strand Electric Demonstration Theatre, and which has since been installed at the London Palladium. The second, recently completed, was that for the Coliseum Oporto, a combined theatre and circus.

The Research Department of Strand Electric is also continuing its activities, and many new types of apparatus and new systems of control, which will be of considerable interest to exhibitors after the War, are being evolved.

PROJECTION AND EQUIPMENT.

THE advice was tendered last year that exhibitors would be well advised to do whatever they could in accumulating stocks of spare accessories as a precaution against possible shortages. Although it must be admitted that up to the time of writing the matter has not yet assumed critical proportions, at the same time the situation is not too easy, and those exhibitors who took the course suggested possess both a safeguard and a sense of security. It is, however, pretty evident that components which formerly were able to be supplied from stock are beginning to be the subject of considerable delay in delivery, and in some cases may have to be subject to alternative means of supply. Even when the exhibitor has successfully surmounted the licence problems he is now finding that stocks of all types are low and ill-distributed.

In a review of the situation, R. H. Cricks points out that valves present a major difficulty which has caused many headaches to the C.E.A. technical department. Some types are practically impossible to obtain; others were of foreign origin; and the manufacture of others have been discontinued.

The situation, as it now stands, is referred to elsewhere. There is a grave shortage of optical goods. Many types of arc mirrors are unobtainable, and it is not always easy to get them re-silvered. Lenses are also extremely scarce. The situation in regard to the mechanical components of mirrors is also difficult. The scarcity of high-grade steel and the shortage of skilled craftsmen have combined to restrict supplies. Just as important as keeping as large a stock of components as possible is the need to take every precaution during their operation and use, and not to neglect periodical examination and cleaning. There has been no development in projection apparatus in this country, although we may expect not a little of the secret research being undertaken for war purposes may be found to have important application to the technique of projection when the subject-matter is ultimately released. That remains to be seen. Otherwise, such technicians as are left to the Trade have their time fully occupied in ensuring that the show goes on. Some interesting technical work has been done in the adaptation of existing components to the demands of the Services in connection with the various schemes carried out with stationary and mobile equipment for entertainment and training. These requirements have also led to considerable activity in the sub-standard field, which is referred to elsewhere. Some manufacturers suffered heavily in the London bombings last year, and their normal war time difficulties have been accentuated by having to move premises and re-equip workshops for manufacturing purposes.

Although the importation of American material has to all intents and purposes ceased, it is remarkable that the number of hold-ups, owing to a breakdown in servicing, has been practically negligible. This trouble-free situation has been brought about by the fact that when war broke out manufacturers and suppliers were well stocked with spares, including rebuilt mechanisms which, from time to time, have been reinforced by salvaged material. Our manufacturers of mechanisms, arc lamps, and other equipment have necessarily had much of their former activities curtailed, and the Control Order issued last year requiring permits for manufacture and sale did not simplify the situation; indeed, the scope of control was subsequently widened to embrace various types of generators, switch-gear, motors, rectifiers, rotary converters and transformers, static condensers, transformers, etc.

Exigencies of the war situation have necessarily led to the postponement of the demand for the longer reel. There are many logical arguments in favour of the proposal, and it may be taken for granted that the post-war period will see the subject of the 2,000 ft. reel again in the realm of practical politics. Meanwhile the need of larger capacity reel tins and transport cases and other difficulties prevent the serious consideration of its adoption.

Two interesting suggestions relating to the projector light source have been recorded. An American suggestion is that of switching off the arc lamp during those fractions of a second when it is not needed in order to increase the efficiency of the arc and at the same time economise current. The object of the other device—a German one—is to secure a more even field of light on the gate aperture, and involves an arrangement whereby a number of such elements are impressed on the plane faces of two plano-convex condensers arranged with curved faces outwards. The total length of these small lenses is such that each pair forms a separate image of the light source—each small image covering the whole aperture.

The possibility of using photo-electric cells and bi-metallic thermostats to ensure a constant light on the screen has been advanced in America as a means of improving control of carbon arc position.

A new type of rewinder has been developed by Western Electric. The device is motor driven, and as the diameter of the lower reel increases and additional torque is needed to maintain an even tension, the upper reel becomes lighter and consequently increases the tension of the film. The apparatus should prove a complete guard against careless or incompetent projectionists.

The Carbon Pool.—The second year's operation of the Carbon Pool has convinced exhibitors of the wisdom in supporting this form of control rather than invite a Government rationing scheme. The safeguards insisted upon by the C.E.A. have functioned successfully and beyond one or two inevitable grumbles of delivery delays, the exhibitor has been freed from anxiety as regards his illuminant. This result is the more remarkable when we consider the huge demand made by the Services on the carbon output; the efficiency of the organisation is reflected in the decision last year to stop the importation of the American carbons, by which it was found necessary to supplement the home-produced article. Nowadays, the British makers are able to take care of all requirements. One interesting point which was disclosed during this period was that our exhibitors very much preferred the British article. Owing to the rising costs of manufacture, carbon prices were advanced 20 per cent. during the December rationing period. In order to ensure a smooth flow of product to exhibitors, it was decided that the Pool vouchers were available only during the rationing period for which they are issued. Later on in the year the need for paper economy led to increasing and standardising the packing quantities and the importance of returning to the Pool the empty packages was emphasised.

British Films, Ltd.—In addition to the production of propaganda shorts, the firm has the distinction of being the only organisation in this country which builds mobile kinemas for daylight and open-air presentations. Recent contracts include five for the Ministry of Information for use in the Colonies, and five for the Conservative Party. The largest order to date has come from the National Savings Committee, who are acquiring 12 vans.

Apart from the constructional side, the company is in a position to hire, staff and maintain a fleet of 15 mobile kinema vans, and with these they have conducted tours for Government and other organisations. Since April 1940, the National Savings Committee alone have given over 23,000 displays to audiences numbering just 8 million.

British Films also specialise in the construction of mobile kinemas for indoor displays, and have for hire both 35 mm. and 16 mm. units. Eleven years' experience enables the company to tackle any problem in kinema construction and operation. Recently a contract was completed for 50 conversion units and 39 petrol electric power units for the Ministry of Information; these were specially designed for 16 mm. portable projection, and the company is now engaged in producing 149 of the latter for the War Office. Another interesting feature of British Films' activities is the construction and installation of public address equipment; facilities which have been in constant use for Government and propaganda purpose.

British Thomson-Houston Co., Ltd.—The latest developments in the B.T.-H. mercury discharge projection lamps were demonstrated before the B.K.S. in May. The lamp consists of a small quartz tube inside a water jacket. The brightness is about 30,000 stilb, and has the characteristic that it runs up to brightness in a very short time. Length of life is about 1,000 hours, but is dependent largely upon the number of times the lamp is started; the efficiency is from 60 to 65 lumens per watt. It was pointed out that one way of increasing the brightness of a discharge lamp is by putting more power into the arc. In the compact-source type, the voltage drop across the arc is kept quite low—about 60 or 70 volts—and the lamp operates at a pressure of from 20 to 40 atmospheres. Such lamps are marketed in 250 and 500 watt sizes, the brightness being respectively 10,000 and 20,000 stilb. One defect of the lamp is that it takes a few minutes to run up to full brightness. Another way of obtaining high brightness is to use a much higher pressure and quite a low current; the high pressure means that the voltage gradient in the arc is very high and so the arc requires a high working voltage.

Cine Sales, Ltd.—The War has given very little opportunity for J. Sturgeon to produce new models. 1941 would have been a record year for sales of Sturgeon-Acme Arc Lamps but for the fact that their works were completely destroyed by enemy action. The many difficulties of obtaining new machinery being overcome, the new works are in full production, and all arc lamps now being made will be fitted with the new Patented Negative Head. This new movement provides for the minutest vertical adjustment to the Carbon Electrodes. The present lateral adjustment is being retained, as this has proved most satisfactory.

If any exhibitor has been disappointed owing to non-delivery of Arc Lamps they are assured that deliveries during 1942 will be greatly accelerated.

J. Frank Brockliss, Ltd.—Official restrictions and difficulties of supply notwithstanding, Brockliss are still in a position to supply a number of arc lamps and spotlights which were in stock prior to July 31, 1940. The "Stelmar" arc is proving a very valuable asset at the present time, particularly in view of the fact that the now well known "Suprex" type of arc such as Magnarc and the Monarc are difficult to obtain.

Provincial Cinematograph Trading Co.—All forms of projection equipment and accessories are distributed by this well-known Leeds firm, whose proprietors are Electrocord, Ltd. Electrical fittings and all box-office requirements, rectifiers, screens and lenses, switchboards and dimmers are among the wide range of technical equipment marketed under the famous "Premier" trademark, which indicates a comprehensive guarantee of all installations.

Morgan Slides, Ltd.—The war has emphasised the importance of slides for the immediate presentation of urgent announcements and Morgans have been called upon to deal with many orders of this type. One of the most interesting jobs of this nature was an order to provide each house of one of the major circuits with three slides. The order was completed in two days—quite an achievement even in normal times, but particularly so at a period when shortage of supplies and staff have to be reckoned upon. Nevertheless H. M. Morgan and his staff have generally surmounted all difficulties and upheld the firm's reputation for speedy service.

Novelties at B.K.S.—A surprisingly large number of new apparatus was demonstrated at the May meeting of the British Kinematograph Society. They included the new Gebescope 16-mm. projector, new rectifier alloys by the Westinghouse Brake and Signal Co. Pick-up improvements by P. G. A. Voight; mercury discharge lamps by B.T.-H.; new lenses by Taylor, Taylor & Hobson, including a giant television projection lens; a new electrical measuring device, and the new Kalee transportable 35-mm. projector. It was evident of the manner in which the Industry is serving the national cause was indicated by the fact that nearly all the equipment had been produced for the Government.

Sound Testing Equipment, an instrument which should be in the possession of all for sound and electrical testing, is the 46 Range Universal AvoMeter, Model 7, manufactured by the Automatic Coil Winder and Electrical Equipment Co., Ltd. This entirely self-contained instrument provides for every essential test in the maintenance of electrical and sound equipment. It has 46 ranges of direct readings, all taken without external shunts or multipliers. An automatic cut-out protects the instrument from damage in the event of a severe overload. With its ranges for measuring A.C. and D.C. current, A.C. and D.C. voltage resistance, capacity, audio-frequency power output, and decibels, it is an all-embracing test instrument indispensable to the maintenance and sound engineer.

PROJECTORS.

British Thomson-Houston Co., Ltd.—The research, advanced design and service for which this company's products are famous have been continued during the year, and their kinema sales, recorded by Sound Equipment, Ltd., have been highly satisfactory. Two B.T.H. models are marketed: (A) The standard model, utilising the highly successful fireproof spoolboxes ; and (B) incorporating normal spoolboxes. The projector mechanism is the same in both, and embodies the reflector cooling system. Despite the increase in arc-lantern efficiencies with consequent increase of heat in the beam, developments have proved it possible to make the picture gate even cooler. They also include a special built-in changeover device fitted at the back of the equipment—an ideal position. As the device is sufficiently robust to withstand the heat of the arc lamps indefinitely, and thus forms an additional safety feature, the success of the B.T.H. 50-ampere and the low-intensity arc lamps have necessitated little change in design.

The recently introduced type "F" equipment, which utilises automatic feed with copper-coated high-intensity carbons, is designed for currents between 40 and 50 amperes and for use in smaller theatres requiring high-intensity results.

Other forms of the B.T.H. kinema equipment include rectifiers, stage amphitheatre equipment, auditorium and architectural lighting and Mazda fluorescent lamps.

J. Frank Brockliss, Ltd.—Owing to the war it naturally follows that Brockliss as with other companies cannot introduce to the Trade any new models in projection equipment, but, although engaged on work of National importance, they have been able to maintain their usual service to their many customers, and are doing everything possible to maintain the efficiency of the "Simplex" projectors and the arc lamps which they have marketed in the past. They are in the position of being able to supply, at any rate, sufficient spare parts to make good projectors which are in need of essential replacements.

The distinctive features of the recently introduced S.I. projector, simplicity, ease of operation and an excellent screen picture has been acknowledged in all the medium-sized theatres in which it has been installed. A unique point about this projector are the front and rear synchronised shutters. The double-shutter attachment of the Simplex E7 can be fitted to any Simplex, and, apart from other advantages, it is claimed passes more light than any other shutter. The mechanism, while ridding the projectionist of many small detail duties, also gives a steadier image, a cleaner picture, one that is more brilliantly lighted, far greater period of peak performance, improved operating characteristics, greater operating convenience, and indirect but important benefits to sound and light.

Like other equipment firms, Messrs. Brockliss, Ltd., can only look forward to the time when peace arrives in order that once again they may market the well known models they now handle plus the extensive developments in both "Simplex" projectors and especially in the sphere of arc lamps.

G.-B. Equipment, Ltd.—The Magnus projector is entirely British made at the firm's Shepherd's Bush works, and consequently the supply of spares and replacements is not likely to be seriously affected. A massive box type stand and platform combines excellent rigidity with improved appearance and houses all ancillary equipment, including arc lamp controls, meters, exciter lamp supply, meter and starting controls. The famous Brenkert arc lamps still continue to hold their eminent position as one of the most efficient lamps on the market. The range comprises the Enarc H.I. Suprex, fully automatic type with 13½-in. mirror and the "E" type L.I. automatic with 10-in. mirror. The A.C. high intensity field is covered by the Econarc, a fully automatic lamp with 12-in. mirror, having a proven light output equal to any other A.C. lamp on the market. To owners of large kinemas and particularly the showman exhibitor, the Brenograph Effects machine is available as a necessary adjunct in putting over elaborate scenic effects for stage shows and organ interludes.

Kalee, Ltd.—The vast increase in Service establishments and in the number of mobile touring vans has led to a considerable demand for Kalee equipment, particularly the "Twelve" and "Dragon" mechanisms. The most modern features, including drum type shutter, are, of course, incorporated in the "Dragon," but it is slightly lighter in construction as compared with the Kalee "Twelve," and has group system lubrication. It is, however, a fine piece of precision mechanism and carries with it the Kalee hallmark of quality. It is suitable for use with all the principal sound systems.

Kalee arc lamps, of the Regal and Vulcan types, designed for use with 14-in. and 10-in. mirrors respectively, with automatic feed, continue to be in wide use. They combine the maximum illumination for all purposes with economical current consumption.

Kamm & Co., Ltd.—Government claims upon their facilities have caused this firm temporarily to forsake the kinema business. At the same time there are a number of their well-known equipments available from Vitavox, Ltd., who are also continuing the servicing of Kamm equipment.

Pathe Equipment, Ltd.—Although mainly engaged upon national work, the company are supplying the famous Ross mechanism both for trade and official purposes. Features of the G.C. projector are its universal adaptability to all sound systems. The gearing is totally enclosed, bearings are bushed with "Oilite" self-lubricating bronze bushes, which require oiling only once a month. The racking embodies the rotating cross-box system and is effected from a conveniently placed knob underneath the lens mount, and permits latitude for a full-frame adjustment. Both Maltese cross and intermittent sprocket are hardened and ground, the latter by Ross's unique system. The cross is of the well-chosen intermediate size. The sprocket is reversible. A rear shutter is, of course, used, and the tunnel to the gate effectually shields the eyes of the projectionist. The gate itself is of the parallel sliding type and is mounted so that mis-alignment through wear is exceedingly improbable. The spool-boxes are 18 in. in diameter, providing ample space for the fingers around a 15-in. spool holding the maximum length of film allowable. The upper arm is adjustable for angle, so that on a steep projection rake the box does not overhang, and increase the effective length of the machine. Bottom arms incorporate silent chain-drive take-up with sensitive self-adjusting clutch movement. The pedestal stand is a very rigid job, well balanced with convenient adjustment.

A Ross speciality which has been in good demand is the Type D arc lamp, which embraces the general characteristics of the popular type "C," but is naturally of greater light efficiency as a result of the incorporation of its larger mirror, which brings its performance into line with that of other high intensity lamps. The new design permits the use of "Suprex" type carbons, thus ensuring a standard of high intensity screen illuminosity now demanded by the modern picture patron. The average load of these lamps varies from 40 to 65 amperes, which renders them suited to all halls of standard capacities. It is claimed that by its use one gets high-intensity projection at low-intensity cost.

The Ross "Sceneograph" effects machine is a simple combination of appliances that affords a high degree of efficiency in the production of theatrical effects from the operating box. The appliance consists of a double optical lantern comprising two Ross vertical arc lamps, with very many refinements directed towards a threefold instead of a single purpose. Its triple functions are those of spot and flood lighting with dynamic and combined colours, scenic effect projector and lantern slide projector. The lamps are mounted above each other, each with its own controls.

Jack Roe.—As the result of the untimely death of the founder, this firm is now controlled by E. J. Roe and R. C. Roe, who are continuing the service associated with the company's reputation, which is still based upon the construction of Ashcraft arcs and Century projectors and, of course, the Century "Sure-fit" spares. These are supplied sealed and can be fitted without any tools other than a screwdriver, an immense advantage in these days of technical staff shortage. There has been a continued demand for the Ashcraft "Suprex" projection arcs, the standard illuminant for the Century projector.

The Century Model C is adaptable to all existing types of sound-heads. Ball bearings and "oil-less" bearings are employed throughout to provide quiet operation and long life. Ball-races are hermetically sealed in high temperature lubricating grease, consequently they never need oiling and are permanently protected against dirt. Low-speed shafts rotate in oil-less bearings of porous composition, each equipped with an oil reservoir. Lubricating oil reaches the shaft through the pores of the bearing material, which serves as a filter, preventing the entry of dirt. The projector main frame is a one-piece casting providing rigid support to the operating parts. The interior of the mechanism housing is enamelled in white for maximum visibility and to encourage cleanliness.

The main drive shaft, vertical shaft and shutter shaft are removable as integral units. The intermittent movement is of direct drive design and readily removable. The intermittent is oiled, and removed when necessary, from the operating side of the projector. The film gate is readily removable for inspection and cleaning; film trap shoes are interchangeable and reversible. A guide provides automatic indication of correct loop length. A framing lamp is provided, and there is a spot sight aperture in the shutter guard. A 90 deg. single-shutter is supplied as standard equipment, a double shutter attachment being available at slight additional cost.

Walturdaw Cinema Supply Co., Ltd., have long been recognised as specialists in all matters affecting projection and screen illumination, and although the war has stopped one source of supply a considerable volume of business has been carried on during the year by the provision of rebuilt and reconditioned mechanisms. Fortunately the firm has held large stocks of spares, so that there will be no difficulty in meeting customers' requirements, while the country-wide efficient service of the company is being well maintained both at 46, Gerrard Street, W.1, and at their provincial branches.

PROJECTION LENSES.

ONE of the newer types of plastic materials—the methacrylate class—has found three applications to photography. Isobutyl methacrylate has proved of considerable interest for cementing both lenses and light filters and has proved an excellent substitute for Canada balsam. When applied to film base before coating it with emulsion, it keeps it sufficiently watertight to maintain accurate spacing of the sprocket holes. These methacrylates are very resilient as dry films, but they can be rendered more pliable by the use of the well-known plasticisers, such as dibutyl, phthalate. In America the Du Pont organisation has used this application in the production of lenses. It is revolved into a glass-clear material from which mass-produced cheap lenses can be moulded with a high degree of precision and at trifling cost.

Taylor, Taylor & Hobson, Ltd.—Taylor-Hobson's activities have been fully absorbed by the provision of equipment to meet the greatly increased production demands in a number of branches of the national effort, particularly in the fields of scientific instruments, precision gauging apparatus, machine tools and photographic lenses of all types. A number of optical and precision-mechanical devices perfected by this firm, mainly for Government purposes, were demonstrated to the B.K.S. in May. Two of the most interesting features afforded a great contrast—one was an enormous lens made for the purpose of television projection upon a large screen, it was of 12 in. focus and worked at $f/1.5$ and weighed about 70 lb.; the other was a tiny lens especially made for B.T.H., of $12\frac{1}{2}$ -mm. focus, $f/2.5$, the glasses about $\frac{1}{8}$ in. in diameter.

Taylor-Hobson projection lenses are still being installed by the Government departments, presumably for use with projection equipment for entertainment and educational purposes. It may be fully expected that on a return to peace time trading, when the highly specialised development and technical resources of this company can be concerned with normal needs, new developments and results of research will follow to enhance the already high reputation of Taylor-Hobson in the industry.

The Hummel Optical Co., Ltd.—The Aldis-Hummel projection lens has now fully established itself on the market and is finding increasing favour, both at home and abroad, owing to its special features, such as absence of balsam in the compound lens, thus doing away with all danger of deterioration, and absence of stops in the barrel, ensuring maximum passage of light. This lens is short and easily handled and posted, and its price is extremely reasonable.

Walturdaw Cinema Supply Co., Ltd.—Every possible lens need of a kinema can be met from Walturdaw stocks which include the Zeiss lenses which vary in foci from 40 m.m. to 200 m.m. at f/1.9 aperture. Of special interest is the Kipronar series of from 120 to 200 m.m. focus which have a constant aperture of f/1.9 and vary in diameter between 80 to 100 m.m., and the Alinar series of short focus length lenses.

THE PROJECTION SCREEN.

NO new advances in screen construction have been incorporated in recent installations, although research by our recognised projection screen specialists has been proceeding alongside record activity in connection with service requirements. The progress of events on the Malay Peninsula at one time gave rise to a fear that the manufacture of the rubber projection screen would be prejudiced, but as this description appears to be little more than a Trade name, because the material employed is neither rubber nor a rubber derivative, there is little excuse for anxiety in this respect. Generally speaking, the metal type of screen continues in demand, and it is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in continuing supplies—a satisfactory outlook, having regard to the good wearing qualities of this type of screen.

Although there may have been few difficulties in screen replacement, the situation is not likely to improve as time goes on. The better-grade materials share in the general shortness and in many kinemas economy and prudence may dictate the longer use of a screen than would normally be the case. The cleaning and doping at specified intervals must not be neglected, and meanwhile care should be taken to prevent dirt from settling on it. The use of a vacuum plant for this purpose is suggested. There is evidence that the level of screen illumination has deteriorated, particularly in some of the smaller halls. Inadequate arc current may be the reason for this result, but while checking up this possibility, there is no reason to ignore the possible alternative of a dirty screen.

Andrew Smith, Harkness, Ltd.—This firm is still able to supply its metal screen, which is seamless, the base being wire gauze. A good deal of this firm's product is now earmarked for the Services, principally of the roll-up pattern, supplied in glass beaded or opaque. The glass screen continues to be one of the lines most in demand, and from this and other specialities of this Company there has been a satisfactory export business built up in the Colonies and Dominions. The glass substitute material recently introduced as the result of the firm's experience in the manufacture of rear-projection screens has a wide application in the repair of windows of blasted premises. This weatherproof and transparent article consists of wire gauze treated with a transparent rubber solution.

Stableford All-Metal Screens, Ltd.—Since last year, the activities of this firm in respect to its well-known metal screens began to be severely restricted. Fortunately, however, as they were already developing the manufacture of rubber screens, they were able not only to meet all exhibitor requirements, but also to increase the scope of their work. Stableford's also make rear projection screens and all types of portable models, the latter of which they have supplied a great many, amounting to hundreds, to the various Services. They also handle an extensive amount of screen re-surfacing work for, among others, some of the large circuits.

Bulman Jupiter Screen Co. (1936), Ltd.—In spite of the war, this old-established firm is able to supply screens on hire maintenance and numerous exhibitors have availed themselves of the benefit of a contract on this basis. Specialities of this Company include White Perforated screens, opaque, metal, and rear-projection screens. A considerable turnover is reported in the amateur department, while the works are busy keeping pace with the requirements of the Services. Among the great number of popular models supplied are the Hollywood Model H and the Hollywood de luxe models.

VALVE SHORTAGE.

EXHIBITOR concern at the situation arising from the shortage of thermionic valves which threatened to close a number of theatres has been reflected by the attention given the subject by the C.E.A. technical department, which has been in touch with the Government departments, the Kinematograph Manufacturers' Association, and various manufacturers in an attempt to solve the problem. One point which emerged was that the principal suppliers of sound-reproducing apparatus could meet normal requirements for a period of from 18 months to two years. Difficulties, however, were anticipated as regards valves of the lesser-known varieties of equipment; and in December the general position seemed to be that the situation in regard to amplifying valves is less serious, since there are numerous types which are more or less interchangeable. In the case of some types it might be necessary to replace the existing valve-holders by other type holders to suit the valves available, but this is not a difficult job.

It is in regard to the replacement of rectifier and charging valves that the main concern is felt. Approaches to the Government led to the official issue of a questionnaire on the use of valves, which showed that kinemas employ 397 types of valves and that the anticipated requirements for replacements during 12 months total 35,826. This was a step in the right direction, but as it turned out proved of no assistance in meeting the Trade requirements for oxide cathode rectifiers, which normally employ Philips' valves, the source of supply of which ceased when the Germans invaded Holland. Hopes were held out by Philips' Industrial, Ltd., and subsequently by Edison-Swan, Ltd., of supplies being available towards the end of the year, but Government priority prevented their realisation, and at the time of writing there is no likelihood that rectifying valves will be on the market this year.

Even under normal conditions the life of the valves for oxide cathode rectifiers need replacement about every two years, so that it is evident that some exhibitors must now be functioning without spares—a situation which has caused them to consider their substitution by an entirely different type of apparatus. In the early stages of the war many far-sighted managements, realising that the inductor and the A.C. arc provided one way out of their difficulties, made arrangements to instal such apparatus, at least as a reserve.

Among the alternatives open to exhibitors faced with a possible failure of oxide cathode rectifiers are the following: (a) An all-metal copper oxide rectifier of the Westinghouse type; (b) a mercury pool rectifier, such as that manufactured by Hewittic; (c) A.C. arcs; (d) a reactive transformer, such as the Strong inductor which combines the functions of transformer and choke, reducing the mains voltage to a voltage suitable for the arc.

The use of these suggested valve substitutes is, of course, dependent upon the necessary apparatus being available, which is problematical, as the demand upon manufacturers has been heavy, and many of them are in such short supply that delays in delivery are certain to occur. The cost of the installation of these alternatives has been estimated by the C.E.A. to be in the case of the all-metal and the mercury pool rectifiers between £200 and £300 per theatre. As regards A.C. arcs, new lamps will be required, which, as motors are unobtainable, will necessarily be hand-fed, and the whole cost of the conversion (if the necessary permission is forthcoming) would be in the neighbourhood of £130. A Strong inductor costs in the region of £55 without arc.

Another suggestion made in the IDEAL KINEMA was for the exhibitor to make what is the equivalent of his own A.C. arc, using horizontally-opposed carbons. The system, however, is very wasteful of current and involves the rewinding of a transformer by a competent electrician.

In any case, exhibitors are advised to make a periodic examination of projectors, amplifiers and rectifiers so that the slightest sign of deterioration may be noticed and an early demand for replacement made.

Aldrich Inductor.—The circumstances of the past year, particularly the threatened shortage of rectifying valves, have won many new friends for this equipment which is now installed either for immediate use or as stand-by in over 300 kinemas at a cost of about £25 each. They operate satisfactorily on all types of arc lamps, but it is a recognised fact that the coaxial type of arc lamp offers the best screen illumination. The angular type of arc, if the angle is not too acute, will also give quite good, evenly distributed light. As there are no valves or other breakable parts in the Aldrich Inductor very many years of good reliable service are obtainable from the equipment.

The simplicity of the equipment is apparent. Whilst its function is amongst the most important of kinema requirements, the installation calls for no high degree of engineering skill. It should be noted that an Aldrich Inductor is required for each projection arc lamp. This is so that each inductor may have a period of rest, whilst its opposite equipment is in action. In the most unlikely event of one of the inductors breaking down, the remaining unit will operate both projectors for an indefinite period. In most situations, Inductors can be located under the projector bases, this being the most convenient position for effective operation. The next best position is at the point where the original motor generator or rectifier was situated. The latter position calls for a little heavier wiring than in the former position.

The general efficiency of the Aldrich Inductor is in the neighbourhood of 93 per cent, and the consequent power factor is also high. The maximum demand charge called for will therefore be correspondingly low. In many kinemas the maximum demand has remained at under 2 kilowatts for long periods, only increasing when both arcs have been left in operation at once for a sufficient length of time to register the increase. This can easily be avoided and is, in fact, due entirely to careless operation.

The light from an A.C. arc at 80 amperes is comparable with that provided by the modern H.I. arc lamp operating at 45 amperes D.C., but the high efficiency of the A.C. equipment provides this illumination at a cost of less than a third of that of the D.C. equipment.

B.T.H. Rectifiers.—B.T.H. kinema rectifiers for A.C. to D.C. conversion are being widely used for the operation of the arc lamps necessary to obtain the desired high standard of illumination.

The B.T.H. hot-cathode type utilises three mercury vapour valves (two valves are used for single-phase supplies), and can be supplied for continuous ratings up to 120 amp. suitable for 75-amp. arcs. In the case of three-phase equipments, two valves will carry the load for a short period, should one valve fail, warning of which is indicated by a special device. The B.T.H. glass-bulb rectifier can be supplied for any rating required in kinemas. Generally a single-bulb equipment is used, but for increased safety-factor a twin-bulb equipment can be supplied, having two bulbs operating in parallel or with the second bulb as stand by. The B.T.H. "Thyrect" equipment for emergency lighting in kinemas automatically maintains the battery and safety lights under all conditions. The equipment has unique advantages, one of the most important being that it gives "trickle" charge at constant rate irrespective of variation in lamp load, supply voltage, or condition of the battery. Also, it eliminates contactors between the battery and lights, and increases the life of the battery indefinitely.

Crypton Equipment, Ltd.—War conditions have naturally affected the activities of all manufacturers, but this is particularly so with the Crypton Equipment, Ltd., who, apart from problems of war production, have unfortunately suffered from enemy action during the past year to an extent which has necessitated the establishment and equipment of a completely new factory at Bridgwater, Somerset. Many problems had to be faced in the re-establishment of production, but these were all quickly overcome, production was resumed within three months, and plans are in hand which will ensure the firm having a very attractive range of modern equipment available for the trade immediately peace trading conditions return.

Hewittic Electric Co., Ltd.—This well-known firm, specialising in rectifiers for kinema projection and emergency light systems, reports that cessation of new building has naturally modified the demand for kinema rectifiers, and there has been a corresponding development in the demand for other types of rectifiers arising from war-time industrial requirements. Yet quite a number of Hewittic kinema rectifiers are being installed during the war, and analysis shows that these have in many cases taken the place of motor generator sets or of types of rectifier for which it has become difficult or impossible to obtain spare equipment, due to the foreign origin of the rectifier or of some of its parts. Also Hewittic "Econotrol" rectifiers have been installed in various kinemas where, in these days of enforced economy, the notable saving in power costs arising from the use of this modern equipment can be fully appreciated. The matter of spare parts is one which is nowadays becoming acute where a motor generator is used (with its brush and sometimes bearing replacements), or a rectifier requiring periodic replacement of the rectifier bulb, a condition which does not apply to the Hewittic rectifier; while, should a spare Hewittic part be required, incidentally a rare occurrence, the user has the comforting assurance that the whole of the equipment, including bulbs, is made in England and that parts and service are readily available. The features of the Hewittic kinema rectifier—its simple unattended operation, the variable control it affords over arc current and the outstanding economy of the "Econotrol" rectifier—are well known, and it may be said that current developments are such that the end of the war will find Hewittic well able to hold their established position in the field of kinema rectifiers.

Westinghouse Brake & Signal Co., Ltd.—During the early part of the last year the supply of Westinghouse kinema arc rectifiers had been going on at an accelerating pace, an average of about two kinemas per week being supplied during that period. However, owing to large demands for other types of Westinghouse rectifiers, the manufacture of the kinema arc equipment had to be discontinued and, when the existing stocks were exhausted, further demands could not be met.

During this period, however, Westinghouse research engineers perfected the new "Westalite" rectifier. This does not, in general, supersede the copper-oxide type, but is better suited to the larger power applications, the D.C. supply to the kinema arc being a notable instance in which it can be used effectively. At a demonstration to the B.K.S. it was explained that the new rectifier made use of the properties of selenium; but while other experimenters had used pure selenium, Westinghouse employed certain alloys. One failing of the copper-oxide rectifier is its limited working temperature, for it must not be worked at over 55 deg. C. total temperature. In contrast, the Westalite element can be worked satisfactorily up to a temperature limit of 85 deg. C. The efficiency is at least as high as copper-oxide. One considerable feature emphasised was the reduction in bulk of a rectifier made possible by this new development. Although the new equipment will not be on the market at present, as the full output of these rectifiers is absorbed in other directions, the new Westinghouse "Westalite" kinema arc rectifier, incorporating the well-known constant current feature, will be available when more stable conditions are secured.

SECONDARY LIGHTING EQUIPMENT.

THEATRE operation in war-time and especially under "blitz" conditions has proved a testing-time for the principle of secondary lighting, particularly when it is provided by the storage battery. Blast and bomb damage which have put electrical and gas mains out of action have not affected, in the majority of cases, the functioning of the battery installation which has demonstrated its reliability by immediately providing the necessary illumination to enable managements to deal with whatever circumstances may arise from enemy action. The advantages of the floating-battery system have been proved under war conditions, and the wisdom of relying upon battery supplied secondary lighting is fully justified by events of the past year. Exhibitors possessing this equipment are unlikely to be interested in the suggestion made by the Birkenhead fire brigade of the desirability of kinemas installing storm-lamps in various parts of the theatre so that, in case of damage through enemy action to electric cables and gas mains, another form of lighting may be quickly available. Although it is well to prepare for every contingency, it does not seem that the battery installation is any more vulnerable than storm-lamp lighting unless a direct hit occurs on the battery-room, in which event the proposed tertiary lighting system would also probably be extinguished.

British Thomson-Houston Co., Ltd.—The "Thyrect," a Thyatron-controlled system, which automatically maintains battery and safety lights under all conditions, has for its main features automatic regulation and the provision of the "trickle" charge at constant rate, irrespective of variation in lamp load, supply voltage or condition of battery. It also affords "lump" charge at a constant rate after heavy discharge; eliminates contactors between battery and lights and also increases indefinitely the life of the battery.

Chloride Electrical Storage Co. Ltd.—The extensive range of stationary batteries and rectifier equipments handled by this firm are the result of continuous research into the requirements of exhibitors as regards secondary lighting. The batteries are of the sealed-in type incorporating robust plates of Planté design, such as are used in power station installations. The batteries can be delivered direct to site filled and fully charged ready for immediate use, so that the work of installation is an easy matter.

The equipments provide an instant emergency lighting supply from the battery, and to maintain it in a fully charged condition so that it is ready for any demand. For this duty there are three types of equipments.

Of the first, the well-known "Keepalite" equipment (Patent No. 313248), the important feature is the trickle charging of the battery, which requires the minimum of maintenance and helps to prolong the life of the battery. Keopalite "B," the invention of Basil Davis (Patent No. 377671), employs the floating-battery system, and is available in a wide range of outputs and voltages, and eminently satisfies the requirements of many local authorities. The equipment employs a rectifier, in which choke control of a special nature ensures a constant floating condition of the battery despite wide changes in the lighting load, occasioned by the switching on of additional secondary lighting at dusk, as is the practice in many kinemas. With this equipment the only attention necessary is to switch on the rectifier and the secondary lights. As an alternative to Keopalite "B" there is the standard floating-battery system employing a rectifier generally similar to that used in the last system, but without the refinement of the automatic choke control.

D. P. Battery Co., Ltd.—The popular D. P. Katholite floating battery system of emergency lighting continues in demand, and the company is able to offer a wide range of automatic installations which meets the various regulations of local authorities.

1. All lighting circuits are supplied from private generating plant with a battery of ample capacity installed on the premises.

2. The main lighting circuits are taken from an outside supply, with the safety lighting taken from a battery, which must be fully charged every day by means of either a motor generator or independent plant. Its capacity must be equal to supplying the safety lighting load for the number of hours required by the regulations.

3. The main lighting circuits are supplied from outside, but the safety lighting is connected to a motor generator running off the mains with a battery "floating." Although this method is approved by authorities in the London area, some authorities require that in the event of a main supply failure the public shall be turned out of the building. 3A. Is similar in principle to scheme 3, but in this case the safety lights are fed by a rectifier instead of a motor generator.

4. This is a non-automatic method in which the safety lights are connected to an independent battery fitted with small pilot lamps connected up to the main lighting switch, which are always on when the main switch is closed, but are actually fed by the battery. The trickle charger is set, and to avoid any possibility of the "trickle charge" apparatus failing to function, and such a failure escaping notice, so as to allow the cells to run down, a battery voltage indicator is provided.

Research is continually taking place, but in view of the satisfactory service already obtained from Kathode sound batteries in use throughout the country, there appears little prospect at present of any radical change being made in their construction.

Nife Batteries, Ltd., have always contended that all the essential emergency lights should be controlled by one master switch in order to conform to the requirements of the Home Office. Under war-time conditions, however, the position is somewhat different, owing to the fact that certain parts of the kinema may not now be in use. Consequently, it is now an advantage to install a floating battery system, whereby the emergency lighting load is automatically balanced by the rectifier without manual adjustment. Special attention has been given to the design of equipment which will meet the new conditions, and automatic sets are now available in a wide range of outputs and voltages. Complete control of the equipment is still effected by one master control switch (British Patent No. 492908), having three positions as follows:—

(i) Equipment out of action; (ii) Float; (iii) Quick charge.

In Scotland, however, an automatic switch is still permitted, and since the Nife battery has no open circuit losses, it is not necessary to trickle charge the battery to maintain it in a healthy condition. In view of the fact that adequate D.C. supply is available in the kinema for the kine. arcs this supply is used for charging purposes. By this means the cost of the equipment is kept down to a minimum. One knob control is again used here, having four positions, as follows:—

- (i) Equipment out of action ;
- (ii) Ready for emergency ;
- (iii) Charge and emergency ;
- (iv) Charge only.

THE INDEPENDENT PLANT.

THE reserve of service available to the possessor of an independent plant has proved of undoubted value to the exhibitor under war conditions because, while not ignoring the urgent demand for the most stringent economy in the use of fuel, he is secure in the knowledge of independence of the effects arising from a sudden failure in the mains supply which, not only may conceivably cause a loss of valuable revenue over a period, but may also interfere with the provision of entertainment in circumstances where it is most desirable. Many instances have occurred where a considerable period has elapsed following air raids before the electricity service has been restored.

A further inducement for the installation of independent plant is the undoubted economies which can be effected at a time when the cost of current from supply undertakings is following the general upward curve in commodity prices. True, in some cases the basis of the advanced charges has been adjusted in view of war conditions, but, generally speaking, little consideration has been given to the fact that only a very small proportion of lights are allowed as compared with that time when existing standing electricity charges were originally fixed.

When it is appreciated that current can be generated by a diesel engine at a cost varying from 20 per cent. to 50 per cent. lower than the mains supply charges, the advantages of an independent plant are apparent, although it is doubtful whether manufacturers are now in a position to cope with orders except for forward delivery. The subject, however, is one which should figure in any arrangements being contemplated in an exhibitor's post-war plans. The reliability of these power units is testified to by the large numbers which, in normal circumstances would have been scrapped, are being continued in service, and this knowledge may suggest the obtaining of a second-hand plant. If so, a once-over by, preferably the maker's engineer, should be insisted upon and an assurance as to the availability of supplies is an essential precaution.

The question of fuel supplies and storage facilities has also to be considered. The price of the former has, of course, advanced, but it still compares favourably with the mains charges, and although the question of the amount and continuity of supplies is obviously of immense importance in current circumstances, at the time of writing there appears little reason to imagine insuperable difficulties in this direction, although anxiety is understandable. In this connection, the possibilities of a gas-operated plant should be examined, although during war-time damage to the gas mains may precipitate those consequences which the installation was intended to avoid. On the other hand, an advantage is that the fuel is indigenous, and for the moment, uncontrolled, and in addition is one for which the majority of gas undertakings are prepared to quote low rates for power purposes.

The full benefits of an independent prime mover are derived under normal conditions which enable the exhibitor vastly to improve the margin between his own costs and the mains supply charges for not only need he discount the possibility of a supply breakdown, but, at very little appreciable increase in costs, he is able to supply current for the most ambitious decorative and publicity schemes as well as his utility and exterior illumination. The outlay is confined to his first charges, of purchase and installation, and where necessary, the engine-room ; beyond these, the outlay is inconsiderable, for little maintenance is involved, and the attention demanded amounts to little more than occasional efficient supervision.

The following paragraphs give particulars of standard plants in general use among kinemas. Operation costs, where given, must be regarded as merely relative owing to the war's effect upon prices of materials and fuel.

National Gas and Oil Engine Co., Ltd.—Particulars have been published of the new type of gas engine in which the compression ratio is raised from 6 : 1 to 15 : 1 and the B.M.E.P. is increased from 66 to 110 lb. per sq. inch. The advantages over previous designs for an engine of the same physical dimensions are, firstly, an increase in power of 50 per cent., and secondly, a reduction in fuel consumption (per b.h.p. hour) of 35 per cent. where power rates for gas operate.

A 3-cylinder engine having an output of 27.30 b.h.p. at 1,000 r.p.m., and suitable for a 15-kw. plant, will run at three-quarter load on a consumption of 8,720 B.Th.U. gross per b.h.p. hour. Assuming gas is obtainable at 4d. per therm, the fuel cost is 7d. per hour, which is comparable with the diesel engine. After making due allowance for other charges, such as lubricating oil, stores, interest and depreciation, the running cost would be considerably lower than the cost of mains electricity in most districts and the owner would have a reliable independent lighting set.

An example of the economies to be effected by the employment of a National Diesel engine comes from the King's, Waterfoot, where its installation reduced electricity costs to £39 a year. The engine drives a 12-kw. dynamo, the normal load being 8 kw.

THE PROJECTIONIST IN 1941.

ON looking back over the past year it seems that the fears expressed by exhibitors concerning the loss to the industry of the greater proportion of its projection and other technical staff have not been realised, although, notwithstanding the "blanket" protection which operated, the consistent drain on man-power to the Forces and the workshops has presented many problems to kinema management. The general position will deteriorate as the operation of the National Service Act becomes effective in the early months of the current year, although there is every evidence that the provisions of the Act will be sympathetically administered, having regard to the acknowledged importance of the kinema as a means of sustaining morale and for the dissemination of propaganda. So much was inferred at the various meetings which took place between the Ministry of Labour and the C.E.A., and the opinion was expressed that the nucleus personnel permitted under the Act would allow the industry to function at least tolerably if the present situation as regards substitute labour and trainees continues. As things stand, first projectionists formerly "blanketed" from the age of 25 are now de-reserved, but come within the block deferment scheme until March 1, when block deferment ends. Thereafter, appeals for individual deferment submitted on N.S. 300 will be administered by one of the 44 local allocation committees. Second projectionists hitherto reserved at the registered age of 35 become de-reserved on a year per month basis, starting January 1, 1942. Women trainees, as on October 1, 1941, will be reserved provided they qualify as second projectionists by April 1. Future women trainees of 31 and upwards who qualify as first or seconds will also be reserved. Women from 20 to 25 are almost certain to be called up, although probably deferment will be granted to permit of an agreeable spread-over. From 25 to 30, the situation may be a little easier. In order to obtain uniformity and to facilitate exhibitor action in connection with the call-up, Advisory Committees were appointed by C.E.A. branches to collaborate with the Ministry of Labour's Committee.

These arrangements would appear to safeguard the uninterrupted continuance of kinema operation, but there still exists the possible drift of trained operators into better-paid industries or their voluntary recruitment in the kinema branches of the Services, either of which is difficult to arrest. Much of these troubles would have been minimised had the C.E.A. seen fit in the early months of the war to institute proper training classes. Suggestions to this effect were made, but nothing came of them, and G.B. and other circuits started their own courses of training. Facilities were offered for the co-operation by independents in the former's scheme, but the response was generally disappointing. A similar negative attitude was adopted by the General Council of the C.E.A. in respect of the establishment of a training course proposed by the Guild of Projectionists. Nor has the N.A.T.K.E. assumed any responsibility for the education of men and women projectionists. Consequently, there exists no uniformity of training except in one or two provincial centres where the local technical institute has catered for specialised instruction of this nature, and even in these instances the interest and co-operation of the C.E.A. members has not, with a few exceptions, approached full collaboration. It is one of the reflections on the Trade's war policy that it has not endeavoured to meet the situation by holding proper training courses, and this lack of interest contrasts sharply with the admirable work being undertaken in two London Polytechnics in the training of men and women projectionists for the Service film units. It has been found that an average of a six weeks' intensive course will produce an operator fully competent to run a projector under supervision. The absence of an official C.E.A. school has been deplored by far-sighted exhibitors who believe a scheme similar in principle to that operated by Paul Kimberley in the last war will be found the only means of satisfactorily dealing with this aspect of our man-power problem.

At one time it appeared as though an attempt would be made to recruit from kinemas the projectionists and technicians wanted in the Service, and as a matter of fact, tentative moves were made in this direction, much to the dismay of exhibitors, but the schemes of the various authorities assumed such proportions that it was necessary to establish the training schools already referred to. At the Regent Street Polytechnic the classes are instructed by R. Howard Cricks, F.R.P.S., the eminent technical contributor to the KINE. Assisting the instructors are N.C.O.s who were formerly chiefs, sound engineers with studio projectionists. The male trainees are mainly engaged upon 35 mm. projection, both static and mobile. Women students are handling the 16 mm.

N.A.T.K.E.—A strenuous year's work is again recorded by Tom O'Brien and the Executive of the N.A.T.K.E., which has successfully watched the interests of its members in Service and in employment and has effected a satisfactory solution of the dilution problem. Although taking a strongly individualistic line wherever the occasion warranted it, the Union has lent its powerful support where the good of the Industry or the welfare of the employees is concerned to the many representations made to the Government by the C.E.A., the A.C.T., and other organisations whenever they have had to contact the appropriate Ministries. One notable success of the N.A.T.K.E. was the conclusion of an agreement for the doubling of the war bonus from the original figure of 7½ per cent. This action was precipitated by an agreement on similar terms with Odeon Theatres. This raised a storm of protest among the C.E.A. branches, although the outcome justified the attitude of the Union Executive, who succeeded in their rigorous demand for the treatment of the whole question of wages and conditions of kinema employees upon a national basis instead of having to deal with each branch in turn. At the end of the year the N.A.T.K.E. gave notice to cancel existing national war bonus agreement, and applied for an increased bonus, which it is believed is intended to secure advances which range from 20 per cent. in respect of wages of £3 and upwards and 25 per cent. below that figure. There is evidence of some opposition to the proposal from exhibitors, but it is anticipated that the proposals will be agreed to by the C.E.A.

SOUND REPRODUCER SYSTEMS.

British Thomson-Houston Co., Ltd.—Three models of B.T.-H. sound reproducers are available; the first, having an undisturbed output of 70 watts, is suitable for theatres seating over 2,500, the second is for theatres with a capacity between 1,100 and 2,500, and the third and smallest is for theatres up to 1,100. Each model utilises the new B.T.-H. rotary magnetic soundhead and dual output arrangements on the amplifier feeding high and low frequency speakers.

The two larger equipments also incorporate the exclusive "Volume Expansion" feature, and are the only ones which will reproduce faithfully the original volume range of sound in spite of the necessary compression of this range recorded on the film itself.

Special projector stands are provided on which are mounted all the necessary controls for arcs and soundheads, including arc ammeter and voltmeter, main contactor switch and pilot light. All controls are thus convenient to the operator.

Conversion plant has been eliminated for 50-cycle A.C. supply, and the static conversion units, together with the whole of the amplifier and all fuses for the sound equipment, are mounted on the amplifier rack. This arrangement results in an extremely neat operating box with centralised control.

G.-B. Equipments, Ltd.—Despite the fact that the Works of British Acoustic Films, Ltd., is almost wholly engaged upon Government work, there is, owing to the forward policy pursued by the designs department, a complete new series of equipments to announce.

This T. series is offered with three different types of soundheads, the well-known G.2 and P.T.1, and the P.T.2, which was introduced last year. "Duosonic" speakers, in three sizes, all with Lansing Shearer dynamic units, complete the different T. series equipments, of which there are seven versions for theatres from 800 to 1,800 seats. The amplifying chain in all the T. series equipments is the completely new S.20 type, which in conception and design is a radical departure.

The place of the plurality of units which previously linked the photo-cells in the soundheads to the speakers is taken, in the S.20 design, by two units only. The first, of small overall dimensions for accommodation on the operating box wall between the projectors, comprises in extremely accessible form and as one electrical unit, two head amplifiers, main fader, changeover switch, and pre-stage amplifier. The second, of rack construction occupying the minimum floor space, comprises power amplifier, switch control panel and exciter lamp current supply units. The rack is designed to give absolute and immediate accessibility from the front of every component mounted on it. The push-pull, negative feed back output stage of the power amplifier gives 16 speech watts with no measurable second harmonic distortion and not more than two per cent. of third or higher harmonic content. Every valve in the two units is metered, and a separate output valve provides 5 speech watts for the monitor speaker. Due to the use of cathode coupled cells and the elimination of iron-cored chokes and transformers from all but the power output stage, hum level and liability to outside electrical interference is nil.

The overall response of the amplifying chain, interpreted by a Duosonic Speaker is, in the opinion of its sponsors and of exhibitors who have installed T. series equipment, the highest level yet reached in the reproduction of sound films.

Vitavox, Ltd.—Although this firm is now entirely engaged on work of national importance, it is felt, however, that their clients and potential new customers would like to learn something of the past and future activities of Vitavox, Ltd.

During pre-war days they manufactured loudspeakers and associated equipment for kinema sound reproduction, public address and sound reinforcement for theatre work, and, in addition, high-grade moving-coil microphones, together with an extensive range of stands for use with same, such as adjustable pedestal, banquet and footlight microphone mountings. These stands and mountings were fitted with their special resilient shock absorbers which gave every satisfaction under the most exacting conditions. Mr. E. A. Blunden, formerly Chief Engineer of Kamm & Co., of Powell Street, E.C.1, has joined Vitavox, and accordingly they are able to deal with any enquiries which relate to the servicing of Kamm cinema reproducing systems.

A number of new developments in the design of speakers and sound-reproducing equipment is contemplated, which Vitavox hope to place on the market as soon as times again become normal.

Western Electric Co., Ltd.—Much of the energy and specialized technical resources of Western Electric are at present given over to the war effort. For the time being, new sound film equipment is therefore unavailable. Efficient service and maintenance, always necessities if equipment is to do a first-class job, are factors of truly vital account in these times. Notwithstanding present difficulties, Western Electric continues its mission of servicing and maintaining over 2,000 systems with unremitting devotion. For the future, research goes on, and with the unparalleled experience of Bell Telephone Laboratories behind it, one of the greatest centres of specialised research in the world ensure the embodiment of improvements in sound reproduction as they become of practical value to the exhibitor.

The steady progress made by Mirrophonic since the introduction of this system in 1937 is clear evidence of the public's appreciation of high quality sound. Yet the readiness with which exhibitors have renewed their leases on old systems, knowing that whenever they desire to do so they can modernise them to Mirrophonic, illustrates how real are the inherent characteristics of all Western Electric systems: quality of reproduction, reliability, and enduring fitness for purpose.

R.C.A. Photophone, Ltd.—During the past year R.C.A. Photophone, Ltd., have continued to supply and instal R.C.A. High Fidelity sound reproducing equipments, stocks of which they had the foresight to lay in shortly after the outbreak of hostilities. All such equipments, as heretofore, comprised the well-known rotary stabiliser soundheads and two-way loudspeaker systems. In addition to installing such equipments in replacement of some of the earliest models of sound equipment, RCA have also been very active in the fitting up of kinemas in R.A.F. and Naval camps, and in special Government preview kinemas.

Despite the calling up of a number of engineers, RCA Photophone, Ltd., is still maintaining its service organisation for the benefit of exhibitors, and continues to render efficient scheduled service calls and prompt emergency attention. The maintenance service available on High Fidelity equipments includes the supply of valves, exciter lamps, photo-electric cells, etc., and other parts which may be required through fair wear and tear, and for which the company has likewise foreseen future requirements by having laid in a substantial stock of such parts.

RCA factories in the United States and Canada working day and night are occupied in meeting the demands of the armed forces of the Democracies, and both prior to and since the passing of the Lease and Lend Act, millions of dollars worth of equipment has been supplied to Britain and her Allies.

Meanwhile the development of "Fantasound," RCA's method of stereophonic reproduction has been going forward. It was first introduced to the American public at the première of Disney's "Fantasia" at the Broadway Theatre, New York City, but owing to equipment and technical difficulties any wide application of the principle is not likely in the immediate future. A simplification of the process, however, has been introduced in the RCA Panoramic Sound System which is applicable to "existing equipment with but little modification," and moreover, requires only a single film.

Walturdaw Cinema Supply Co., Ltd.—Walturdaw's are maintaining their sound department primarily to take care of existing installations. While their sound-head was originally designed to work in conjunction with Zeiss Ikon projectors, it is, of course, available and suitable for any type of reproducer other than those marketed by Western Electric, RCA, G.-B., etc.

TECHNICAL ASSOCIATIONS.

British Film Institute.—The activities of the British Film Institute have been more or less restricted, although considerable work has been done in encouraging producers, even in war time, to ensure a continuity of educational films. Meanwhile plans are being prepared for a great extension of this phase of its work to meet post-war needs. Arrangement and supply of films to units of the Forces, prisons, A.R.P. shelters, Borstal establishments and many educational institutions are among the many phases of work in which the Institute has engaged during the year. The coverage of their wide activities is the more noteworthy inasmuch as enemy action obliged the Institute to vacate temporarily its offices last winter. Notwithstanding the war the work of the travelling organiser has resulted in a small but steady increase in the use of films in schools. Over 2,750 film programmes were arranged and the establishment of regional film libraries has proceeded. The normal objectives of the Institute: (1) the collection of information, (2) its distribution, and (3) its interpretation, have been carried on. The periodicals, "Sight and Sound" and the "Monthly Film Bulletin" have continued to function with success and utility.

British Standards Institution.—Owing to the expansion of its activities arising from the war, the British Standards Institution has been able to proceed with the preparation of few of the proposed specifications intended to apply to Trade apparatus and practice. A proportion of the work of the Institution carried out in connection with Government Departments possesses, however, a rather more than general application to the immediate requirements of the kinema.

A recent specification (No. 943) gives details of the procedure for obtaining a speed number for photographic emulsions.

Guild of British Projectionists.—As other organisations, the Guild has felt the full impact of war conditions, but the executive have carried on in the face of their difficulties, and have maintained, as far as possible, the important educational facilities associated with the organisation, notwithstanding an inevitable drop in membership. At the annual meeting it was reported that the senior and junior membership had fallen to 120 and 20 respectively. Consideration has been given to the subject of technical meetings specially directed to Army projectionists. Proposals have been submitted to the C.E.A. for the training of projectionists to replace those who have been called up, but it was alleged that the Exhibitors' Association appeared uninterested in the technical betterment of the industry and, in consequence of rebuffs received by the Guild, it was not proposed to go on any further with the matter. There are signs of renewed interest among members in the suggestion that the Guild should assume Trade Union status. It is understood that this swing away from the previous isolation policy of the Guild will be accelerated once a decision is arrived at as to which of the Unions shall represent the projectionist. In this connection, provided a formula can be arrived at without sacrifice of the aims and principles of the Guild, the claim of the N.A.T.K.E., which has already fully considered the question, appear to be unchallengeable.

Kinematograph Manufacturers' Association.—In view of the many problems raised by emergency regulations and restrictions, the war has revived the activities of the Kinematograph Manufacturers' Association, the oldest trade organisation, whose Equipment Section are now holding regular meetings. War time problems call for an increasing measure of co-operation between all sections of the industry and the flow of new regulations has on several occasions emphasised the necessity of collective approach to the Government Departments concerned. An instance of the value to the industry of the Association's activities has been exemplified by the considerable work put in in connection with the supply of valves. Membership now includes most of the leading manufacturers and suppliers of kinema equipment.

The Workers' Film Association have shown increased activity during the year. In conjunction with the A.C.T., the Association held a very successful summer school, designed to organise technical assistance to those responsible for film exhibition and, secondly, to assist those interested in the production of 16 mm. films for exhibition to working-class audiences. The whole kinema field was adequately surveyed by a number of competent speakers. Secretary of the Association is Ald. J. Reeves, who was formerly in the Films Division of the Ministry of Information.

STEREOSCOPY.

IN the earliest days of colour the argument was advanced that this medium lends itself more readily than monochrome to the stereoscopic effect. The presentation last year of the Technicolor film "Moon Over Miami" corroborated that view, for one or two studio-shot sequences were the nearest approach to three-dimensional effect yet seen. Although no technical details were available, it was obvious that a new type of camera was employed or, alternatively, a new lighting technique was responsible for the striking result achieved. The use of colour in a motion picture affords a much wider gradation of light and shade, which contributes a degree of perspective, and, to a certain extent, a pseudo-stereoscopic effect. It will be appreciated that when a high degree of plane separation is possible as the result of greater depth of focus, the stereoscopic effect will be correspondingly enhanced. Until recently the drawback to most colour systems has been their comparatively shallow depth of focus.

Speaking to the Association of Engineers in Burma, L. H. Huitt, B.Sc., of London, revealed details of a novel principle—"foveal circle seaming."

This principle has the virtue of being essentially a kinematographic process, says R. D. H. Cricks in the KINEMA, and definitely rejects the method of binocular vision. The fovea is the centre of the retina, and the part of the image which falls upon it, is viewed sharply and clearly, and the rest of the image is less clearly defined. This central point of fixation is continually moving as the eye scans the object. The method involves the exposure of a single film through twin optical systems, producing a double image except in the "foveal" area—the centre of interest in the picture. Furthermore, this central area is slightly brighter than the rest of the picture, and continually moves over the picture, in imitation of the natural manner of scanning a scene with the eye. It is claimed that this method imitated the change of focus which occurred when the eyes shifted from a near object to something farther off. Normal film was used in the process and no alteration in projection was necessary. The only special equipment required was the camera.

Details have appeared of research by Russian scientists into three-dimensional principles. One of the most advanced systems employs two mirrors placed in front of the objective lens of the camera, which divide the image into two, these being recorded side by side on the film. A similar mirror is at the aperture of the projector and the reflection of the double image is projected on to a grid of radiating wires erected in front of the screen proper. Part of the light rays from each image are arrested by the grid, the remainder passing through to the white screen, the difference being that the rays arrested from one image are those passed through from the other image. When the images reach the screen the resulting picture is in fan formation, each spoke of which is an element meant for viewing by the left or right eye. Obvious defects are the weight of the grid and the necessity on the part of the spectator, if he moves, to readjust his vision to a new viewpoint.

TELEVISION AND THE KINEMA.

THE demonstration during the year of a new system of stereoscopic television by the inventor, John L. Baird, is a timely reminder that, although little enough has been heard of television since reasons of strategy demanded the cessation of all transmissions, research work of a highly important nature is still proceeding, and that once the war is over exhibitors will again be called upon seriously to consider the competition presented by television as a home entertainment. It is fairly certain that much of the research work now long carried on in furtherance of the National effort will be found to possess a more or less direct bearing upon many of the problems inherent in the commercial application of television.

The only fresh television development recorded in this country during the year was this Baird demonstration, which, although on an experimental basis involving a home equipment and land-line transmission, did convey in a restricted degree the illusion of a three-dimensional picture in colour. The new method is understood to employ the "gratings" system: alternate vertical lines of the picture represent the images for the right and left eyes, and in front of the screen is a grating so computed that each eye only sees those lines comprising the right- and left-hand pictures respectively. A revolving disc, with blue, red, and green filters is employed as the colour medium. In its present stage of development it is possible only for one viewer at a time to see the screened image, and he must remain stationary in one position at a fixed distance from the screen. The picture is not visible from an angle.

In America, television, which looked like entering a year of great development, is bound to be affected in some degree by the U.S. participation in the war, although it has been announced that there is no immediate intention of cutting out transmissions. It is, however, not yet known whether this applies to stations already operating or merely to new stations which hitherto had been put on the air experimentally. In any case, there remains the public attitude to be considered. A survey made in October came to the conclusion that, despite the fact that television had passed its third month of active commercial operation, there was a marked decline in public-listening interest.

Research and experiment in television processes have been intensively carried out in America, and it appeared before the U.S. entry into the war that there would be little difficulty in making up the leeway from which they suffered. RCA effected transmission from New York to a relay station 51 miles distant, from which it was relayed over intermediate distances of 17, 23 and 28 miles back to New York. Here, after its journey of 102 miles, it was picked up on a receiver fitted with a magnifying device and projected upon a screen 15 ft. by 10 ft. over a throw of 60 ft., which was reported as remarkably clear in definition and free from unsteadiness. The Columbia Broadcasting System put over a national colour demonstration to a 1 sq. ft. picture over a wire transmitter. The use of co-axial cables in various experiments has proved the practicability of a relay system ensuring chain transmission on a nation-wide scale.

The RCA theatre set-up referred to was a steel projector placed over the edge of the balcony with a control desk beside it. The power supply was a high-voltage rectifier rated at 70,000 volts and normally employing 60,000 volts. The diameter of the projection tube is 7 in., and its length 14 in. The face of the tube is pointed away from the screen in a steel cylinder 3 ft. long and 34 in. in diameter. A concave reflecting mirror with a 30-in. diameter is mounted a few inches away and thus picks up the image and passes it through a lens system to the screen with a magnification of 45 times. The optical system has a speed rating of 0/7, which is claimed to produce a high standard of screen illumination. Speakers on the Tantasound System, personally operated, were installed in the auditorium.

THE COST OF ELECTRICITY.

An electrical unit is equal to 1 kilowatt-hour, or 1,000 watts for one hour. To ascertain the consumption in hours per unit of any piece of D.C. apparatus rated in watts, divide the rating into 1,000: e.g., a 60-watt lamp will run for $1,000 \div 60 = 16\frac{2}{3}$ hours for one unit.

The theoretical electrical horse-power is equal to 746 watts. For electric motors, a useful approximation is to reckon one unit per hour per rated horse-power.

In the case of A.C. supplies, maximum-demand charges are generally based, not upon the kilowatt, but upon the kilo-volt-ampère; the relation between the two terms is known as power factor. Thus at a power factor of 0.8, a supply of 1 k.v.a. is equal in power output to only 800 watts. The loading of cables must also be based upon the k.v.a., and not the k.w. consumption.

Lighting and heating circuits (other than neons and other discharge lamps) have a power factor of unity; the power factor of motors, arc rectifiers, etc., may vary from 0.6 to 0.9. It is advantageous to keep the power factor of such apparatus as high as possible.

CALCULATING ARC RESISTANCES.

The value of a resistance R to pass a given current C at voltage V is expressed, according to Ohm's law, by the formula—

$$R = \frac{V}{C}$$

In calculating arc resistances, however, the value of the back voltage A of the arc must be considered. This may be reckoned as 45 volts for low-intensity arcs, and for high-intensity from 25 volts for a horizontal-negative mirror arc or 40 for an inclined-negative mirror arc, up to 65 or 70 volts for rotating-positive arc. The formula then becomes—

$$R = \frac{V-A}{C}$$

The earlier studs of a resistance should be so computed as to allow the arc to be struck on not more than one-third of its full current.

ORDINARY FILM CEMENT.

Amyl Acetate 4 oz., Acetone 6 oz.

This may either be used as it is, in which case the cement will be a thin fluid with not much more body in it than water, or it may be thickened to any desired extent by dissolving it in celluloid chips. Celluloid film base from which the gelatine coating has been cleaned off will serve.

For non-flam. film glacial acetic acid may be added; it is, however, preferable to use the cement recommended by the makers of the stock—e.g., for Dufaycolor use Ilford cement.

MEASUREMENT OF SCREEN BRIGHTNESS

Mount photometer one-third the height of screen, and take readings at each end, in the centre, and intermediately (five in all). Average of readings gives light intensity in foot-candles; a recommended figure is from 7 to 10 foot-candles.

MISCELLANEOUS FIGURES

Standard Electricity Supply (from Grid) : 230v. single-phase or 400v. three-phase, 50 cycles per second.

Accumulators : Lead-acid type, 2.6 volts per cell fully charged, specific gravity of electrolyte 1.280; fully discharged 1.8 volts per cell, specific gravity of electrolyte 1.150.

Alkaline type : 1.2 to 1.1 volts per cell.

Gas Supply : Meter reading (cubic feet) \times declared value in B.T.U.s \div 100,000 = therms.

Recommended Temperature of Auditorium : Winter 55° to 65° F. Summer 10° below outside temperature.

Sizes of Posters : Double-crown : 30 in. by 20 in.

Quad-crown : 40 in. by 30 in.

• Four-sheet : 60 in. by 40 in., larger sizes proportionately.

RUNNING TIME OF FILM

Standard speed of 35-mm. sound film = 24 frames per second = 90 ft. per minute = approximately 11 minutes per 1,000 ft.

The current ratings given above refer to the normal maximum current of the circuit, and do not refer to the overload at which the cut-out will operate. The full normal load on a fuse should be two-thirds of its fusing load. For arcs, use copper fuses rated at double normal current to allow for striking. On motor circuits the allowance will depend upon the starting current. Allow 50 to 100 per cent. for D.C. motors or A.C. repulsion-induction motors, four times for wound induction motors, six to eight times for squirrel-cage. On 3-phase motor circuits always fuse heavily.

EXCITER LAMPS

The uniformity of construction which characterises Osram Exciter Lamps eliminates any troubles in refocussing which occurs when replacing lamps.

Due to their robust construction, they can always be relied upon to provide the maximum light output during the life of the lamp under arduous conditions. Suitable types are available for most standard sound equipment.

POINTS IN FAVOUR

As the most efficient and economical cinema rectifier, by independent test.

No deterioration in efficiency. As economical in 10 years as when installed.

Entirely made in England.

Service or spares readily available if required.

Absolutely reliable—no maintenance, runs unattended.

Simple to instal and operate.

Can be fitted with one hand arc-current control to suit variations in film density or the atmosphere of the auditorium.

Electrically and mechanically robust; proved highly resistant to bomb blast and shock.

Modern as the minute yet backed by 30 years' experience.

per annum in running costs over the previously installed converting plant. Similar savings are being effected by HEWITTIC "Econotzol" equipments in many other cinemas.

Retention of old plant is not economy when such savings can be effected by installing the most modern and efficient equipment—and that means HEWITTIC.

For operating projector arcs and emergency lighting systems.

Typical single phase HEWITTIC battery charger for emergency lighting system.

BRITISH PRODUCTION

Studio Work in 1941

BY A. L. CARTER.

THE difficulties experienced by British producers during their first year of war-time operation were intensified during 1941. In the early months of the year the studios had to contend with enemy activity which caused destruction at two studios and constantly sent technical units and artistes to cover while the blitz roared overhead. These factors became a commonplace of production in those days, and yet production not only carried on with the minimum of interruption, but actually resulted in an output which was generally of considerably higher quality than ever before, and in a series of technical advances which have won for our studio workers the tribute of expert recognition. Both American and Canadian sources have praised the efforts of our studios not merely in maintaining production, but in achieving so great an improvement in its technical attributes. Looking back over the past months, the wonder grows that they were able to do so in spite of the call up of technicians and artistes, the shortage of studio space and the restriction on materials which necessitated the observance of the strictest economies.

Official figures for the registration of British films during the current period, but it is estimated that in the 12 months ended December 31 there were 56 features produced as compared with 55 during 1940. The Board of Trade returns made up at the end of April gave the following details of registration :—

			* Foreign Long.	British Long.	Foreign Short.	British Short.
1939/40	379	108	508	207
1938/39	535	103	776	275

The average number of British pictures shown during the year ended September 30, 1940, represented a quarter of exhibitors' programmes, a fact which is significant of the change of attitude among our exhibitors to home-made pictures. It shows that the steady improvement in quality of British films has converted not only the Trade but also the public from their former prejudice and that now our films form an integral part of the life of the nation. To-day the British studio is a fair reflection of the nation, and no greater testimony to the confidence in our future can be forthcoming than the plans now in hand for the production of new subjects which will never again sacrifice quality to quantity. The manner in which studio executives have turned the existing situation to their advantage merits the warmest praise for their energy, foresight, and, above all, courage. It has needed all these qualities to combat the restrictive repercussions of the national war effort, the most serious being the withdrawal of labour, which caused a drop in the number of persons employed in the studios and the laboratories from 3,500 to 4,000 to 1,500. It was the fear that the Government demands would yet further reduce this personnel that precipitated a series of some of the strongest protests ever addressed to the Government by an Industry. It was pointed out that any further diminution would prevent British producers from carrying on with either their normal commercial product or the preparation of training and propaganda films and consequently would neutralise the Government's avowed intention to maintain a healthy, though necessarily restricted, Industry. Happily these anticipations were not justified. The Government agreed to a "token" withdrawal of labour, and the year 1942 opens with the producers in the satisfactory position of knowing that, for the time being at least, the labour position has been stabilised. At the same time, the Government has afforded recognition of the difficulties of the Industry and their inability to meet the quota requirements by the expedient of stabilising the obligations of both renters and exhibitors at 20 and 15 per cent. respectively for the next three years. And in this connection it is significant, as indicating the producers' appreciation of their own and the national position, that the reduction in the quota was effected without protest from any of the parties concerned. Probably the work of the producers would have been rendered still easier had practical consideration been given to the scheme of co-operation covering studios, staff and personnel. Anxiety is also being expressed by the constantly rising charges for studio rentals.

Films Council's Recommendation.—The situation was very adequately summed up in the report of the Films Council—the Advisory Committee set up by the Films Act of 1937—the most important conclusion arrived at being the need for a planned scheme of production. Among the recommendations made to the President of the Board of Trade was a demand that plans should be made at once to provide a nucleus of the Industry with a war status which can adequately protect to a certain agreed level the maintenance of man-power, studio space and supplies. The diversion of the Industry's man-power to other war work was fully discussed in the report, which also referred at length to the difficulty of fulfilling the quota requirements of the Act. Allusion was made to the failure of the Council's previous suggestion that the situation might be eased by the modification of some trade practices, and recommended that a decision as regards quota should be withheld until the end of the quota year, when it would be better known what films were available. Attention was also called to the lack of organised co-operation between the various Government departments concerned in film production. The view was expressed that with careful planning, studio space at present available should be sufficient for all production in the present emergency conditions.

The advice tendered that constructive plans should be prepared to meet possible future requirements was not ignored by authority, for in their approaches to the Government the British Film Producers' Association had the powerful assistance of Brendan Bracken, Minister of Information, who in October suggested that producers should formulate their production schedules as early as possible. This information, he suggested, should be embodied in a return covering the next 12 months, and should include details of personnel, artistes and studio space and particulars of any particular production snags experienced, especially in respect of key personnel.

Productions in 1942.—As the direct result of this invitation, a schedule was prepared showing 76 subjects planned to be made during the first nine months of the current year. The making of this number of films, it was pointed out, depends upon two factors: (a) The temporary release from the Forces of directors and actors who have been selected to direct or interpret various roles; and (b) the studio space being available.

This last matter has proved another headache for producers who have consistently made representations to the Government for the release of space in officially occupied studios—"highly-organised establishments were taken over at the shortest of notice and turned into provision dumps." The reopening during the year of the G.-B.-Gainsborough plant, at Islington, and of the Riverside studios, at Hammersmith, by Jack Buchanan, was a small alleviation of the position, but it became evident that if the entertainment picture was not to be sacrificed to the Government-sponsored film additional facilities were absolutely essential. In the latter part of the period a partial easement was forthcoming in the formation of a scheme, for the co-ordination of Government film production including both propaganda and training films. This has resulted in the reopening of one stage of the Pinewood studios and the use of the Wembley plant, which, however, had also been used by Ealing, and others, during the year. Service film units, including the R.A.F., the Army, and M. of I., and eventually the Royal Navy, are concerned in the scheme which also comprises the Crown Film Unit. Feature-length films for the various Services in which only Service men will take part, are planned. At Wembley, which has been housing the Soviet War News, the Army Film Unit are concentrating on training films, and at Pinewood the Crown Film Unit, hitherto at Denham, will continue its specialised productions. The R.A.F., and ultimately the Navy Film Units, will also function here. Although the M. of I. is associated with the scheme there is intended to be no interference with regard to the independent production of their 5-minute short films.

The establishment of these Service Units was not enthusiastically received in all quarters. It was pointed out by Michael Balcon that a result the producers had to face was a series of official encroachments and the absorption of studio personnel into the Crown Film Unit and other Service units, for which there was no guarantee that the output would be limited to shorts. Indeed, the success of two features, "Target for To-night" and "Men of the Lightships" might very likely inspire the making of more films of this stamp. Another point made was that these units have as their chief executives men who were not producing big features before the war, and there was not an unnatural feeling that the general standard of British production may suffer from the lack of high-grade leaders if these specialised units develop into the producers of long films.

The Quota Reduction.—The figures of proposed production submitted by the Producers' Association must be regarded as a maximum, because it is impossible that the Government, even with the best intentions, can restore to the studios facilities which will enable 76 entertainment films to be produced during the current year. If this were possible of fulfilment, there would be little need for anxiety as regards the satisfaction of the quota provisions; consequently the modification of the latter infers that the realists among official circles themselves are not too sanguine of the maintenance of entertainment production even at its present level. It may be that while no further diminution in personnel is intended, more of it may be diverted to the making of training and other Service films and propaganda subjects, the production of which has risen to amazing heights, the average estimated footage exceeding 1,000,000 a week. The scope of these activities entail a severe demand on floor space and in man-power, already restricted to the unexpandible minimum.

These figured among the deciding factors (supplemented by the inability of the exhibitors to meet the full requirements of the Act) which impelled the Government to modify the Quota figures. The case for the amendment was succinctly placed before the House of Commons by Capt. Waterhouse, Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade. He pointed out that a good many studios had been taken over, a certain amount of labour had been drafted away, and last, but not least, the Government were making considerable demands on the kinema industry for the production of technical and instructional films which did not affect the quota at all, the last thing the Board of Trade wished.

Production Insurance.—One measure of Government assistance—the insurance of a film in production—was one of the greatest contributory factors to the continuance of the industry since it safeguarded the financial interest in the negative. Since the start of the war the question of insurance of a partly completed film had been a matter of very serious concern to British producers, but it was not until September that an arrangement was reached with the Government which dispelled the considerable uncertainty which existed.

Quality Pictures.—A survey of this year's product indicates that in operation the Films Act continues to justify the declared anticipation of its sponsors that "it provides a flow of pictures and to do so was to curtail the Trade in any way." It must be admitted that authority has endeavoured to implement the assurance. The Services during the past year have been more than helpful in granting temporary release for men, affording facilities for filming, and generally, according to the industry, at least a token measure of aid which nevertheless has proved extremely valuable. Superior quality, even though the ultimate quantity might be reduced, has been generally the goal of our producers, and the improvement applies not, as in the past, to one or two outstanding and extravagantly budgeted films, but to a far wider circle of productions. Whether a similar result would have been achieved without the spur applied by war-time exigencies is difficult to say. It must be pointed out, however, that this desirable position of war-time production has been reached only by jettisoning the old peace-time mentality which either associated production with prodigality or economy with quickies. A mean between these two extremes has been successfully established. The problem of the feature production has been solved, not by skimping production, but rather by intelligent and accurate budgeting. This policy has been reflected not only in the splendid quality of war-time production but also in the fact that soundly-conceived schedules have found little difficulty in attracting the necessary finance, a rehabilitation of the financial prestige of British producers which enables the prospect of a healthy post-war industry to be regarded with certainty.

An example of the beneficial effect of this stabilisation of the economic structure has been the rapid progress of British National Pictures, who have been responsible for a larger measure of consistent production than any other single company, a record which has been achieved by George Parish without any sacrifice of quality; indeed, the distribution arrangements in the U.S. and Canada have proved highly satisfactory. Even more significant is the widening influence of J. A. Rank and C. M. Woolf, whose previous association with production has been of incalculable benefit to the industry. Their control of vast circuit distribution facilities in addition to studio and production interests may very well lead to a revolution in the scope and application of British production. Already they are gathering around them the cream of the independents such as Paul Soskin and Leslie Howard, both of whom are responsible for major productions of the year. These are complementary to the activities of the G.-B.-Gainsborough plants at Shepherd's Bush and Islington, the latter of which, reopened in 1941, after having been closed for two years, provided some easement of the scarcity of studio space; the latter even more than man-power shortage will limit the possible production plans of the Rank-Woolf organisation, because a certain amount of letting and the Twentieth-Century—Gainsborough contract still further reduces the studio facilities available. A similar situation occurs at Denham, where it is necessary to make reservation of floors some months ahead.

At one time, before the entry of America into the war, there seemed a distinct probability of a considerable extension of direct production by U.S. companies who would finance their programmes of high-grade pictures with the use of the frozen credits of American renting concerns held over here. It was authoritatively stated that consideration had been given to the diversion of a proportion of this very considerable sum (the amount of £1,000,000 was mentioned). The view was expressed that this step would prove of benefit both nationally and economically; moreover, it would enable America to avail themselves of the lower production costs in this country, even in war time. Pictures costing between £100,000 and £200,000 were encouraged by E. T. Carr, of United Artists, and there was evidence that M-G-M would resume direct production. It is, however, likely that these spectacular proposals will be held, for the moment, at least in abeyance. Meanwhile, RKO-Radio has proceeded uninterruptedly with their programme of British films, and Twentieth-Century had sponsored "The Young Mr. Pitt," one of the most ambitious subjects ever to be made here. The big picture policy under direct control has also been adopted by Warner Bros. at Teddington with eminently satisfactory results. The resumption by Two Cities Films of production synchronised with an important tie up with Columbia, whose expansion of British production activities warranted the return of Joseph Friedman, the managing director, to take personal control. Another Grade A feature handled by this firm was an important George Formby film. A notable range of pictures of exceptional quality and mostly of topical interest have been made at Ealing under that organisation's releasing contract with United Artists. Josef Somlo, who has done much good work, is allied with British Lion, and mention must also be made of the highly-praised production by I. Goldsmith of "The Stars Look Down," the technical merits of which were universally admitted. Pascal, whose "Major Barbara" was one of the hits last year, is in America and speaks of an affiliation with United Artists for his subsequent pictures, some of which possibly will be made in U.S. A suggestion that he might use a Canadian plant does not appear to have progressed. As M-G-M-British is unlikely to function for some while, meanwhile independent producers are looking after the company's British requirements; in this connection a particularly interesting subject will be "Thunder Rock," to be made on a top-budget by John and Roy Boulting. George King and John Stafford, who originated the production of the "First of the Few," have scheduled three important productions, each dealing with a war theme. In addition to these programmes, production will be maintained by other well-established companies. Welwyn studios have been in continuous use, and anticipate no "let up." Butcher's, who have satisfactorily solved the problem caused by the requisitioning of Walton Studios by operating at Burgh Island, Devon, where a small, though efficient, studio has been established by A. Nettlefold and by leasing other studio space. The Riverside plant at Hammersmith has been acquired by Jack Buchanan—a welcome addition to metropolitan facilities and A.B.F.D. and Signet Films have entered into a contract for production.

THE SHORT FILM.

Elsewhere in this work there is an appreciation of the work of the documentary film units, the operation of which has been the most distinctive and heartening development of post-war production. At one period no fewer than 14 studios were engaged on the production of M. of I. shorts alone. The work of these talented specialists, carried out on severely restricted budgets, and with fewer facilities probably than the feature producers, has had considerable influence upon all phases of war production, and will obviously influence to a yet greater extent our post-war film activities. As P. L. Mannoek, film critic of the Daily Herald, points out, the documentary director possesses a clearer idea of a normal British citizen than his opposite number on the feature side, and it is noteworthy that many professional actors who appear in documentary subjects seem to be more natural in these factual roles than they have ever been. Conversely, the performance of the ordinary man doing his job, whether in the Services, or elsewhere, is, generally speaking, fully comparable with the best work of the professional. Those who have seen those two outstanding documentary features, "Target for To-night" and "Men of the Lighthouse," will appreciate the excellence of the characterisation contributed by amateurs.

The preponderance of the documentary propaganda subjects and the M. of I. specialised shorts has rather overshadowed the good work done by the maker of the theatrical short, but the advances witnessed in the professed propaganda article are observable in the other, with the result that the reputation of the British short has been increased to such an extent that in certain directions they invite favourable comparison with the American product. Although any subject which necessitates an extraordinary budget such as musicals, is obviously beyond the scope of our producers. Although much of the remarkable increase in shorts is the result of war demands, credit is also due to the enterprise of the producers in not being content simply to avail themselves of the benefit of the Quota, but have stepped up production and, with it, quality to a record degree.

Clothes Rationing.—Fears that the Clothes Rationing Order would adversely affect the quality of dressing in British productions were not substantiated for the Board of Trade made such essential modifications in the Order that, beyond ensuring that there is no unnecessary extravagance, little hardship is inflicted. The necessary coupons are issued subject to the certificate of the British Film Producers' Association, and arrangements are made for the hire and renovation of clothing by a Costumiers' Sub-Committee. Where artistes' own clothing is destroyed during work, coupons for replacement will be issued on the certificate of the Association.

British Film Producers' Association.—The many problems associated with production under war conditions has provided an anxious and busy year for this society, the successor of the former British Film Production Association, which was wound up in 1940. In consequence it was found necessary to make the organisation more fully representative of producing interests. A new constitution embodying the scope of the Association and its aims were drafted. C. M. Woolf is the first president of the reconstructed organisation.

A.C.T.—A vigorous forward policy has been pursued by the Association of Cine-Technicians. Many agreements in respect of wages and conditions have been successfully effected, and the cost of living bonus has been applied, after arbitration, to the laboratories. While it is reported that individual* in the main observe A.C.T. rates and general working conditions, it has not been possible to sign a collective agreement with the British Film Producers' Association. The A.C.T. joined in the representations made by the joint Trade panel on the man-power question and has been consulted frequently by the Services in their requirements for technicians. The present membership is 1,563 (382 serving), the largest in the Union's history. A war emergency membership class has been instituted, and the A.C.T. promises to endeavour to absorb all technicians in the post-war Industry.

A resolution was passed at the Annual Meeting of the A.C.T. advocating the complete nationalisation of the Industry. Chief points in the report were: (1) A State production enterprise; (2) a State distribution organisation; (3) State studios and laboratories; (4) a film credit organisation. These, it was urged, should be accompanied by labour representation on the controlling committees, democratic organisation of the views of the public, and minimum standard conditions.

A lengthy memorandum dealing with the problems of the Industry and indicating how best, in the view of the A.C.T., they should be met was submitted by the Union to the British Film Producers' Association and producing companies. The setting up of joint committees to ensure full co-operation on questions of man-power and efficiency, suggestions concerning work in the studios, criticism of Board of Trade schedules, were among matters contained in the report.

The "closed shop principle" was voted for by a meeting of British Film Artists at which an attack was made on the employment of foreign artists. Demands for 100 per cent. Trade Unionism throughout the Industry were made.

FILM STOCK.

THE entry of Japan into the war has caused some concern because of the possible effect upon the celluloid base situation. The American demand for raw stock is likely to reach enormous proportions. Raw stock position in this country is by no means satisfactory as a result of the need to conserve imports as complicated by the increasing use of the film in the propaganda and training field. It is feared, consequently, that a drastic

ILFORD CINE SERVICE

National House, Wardour Street,
LONDON, W.1. Telephone: Gerrard 2763

readjustment of the situation may be necessary to meet the new situation. Even before the Japan coup the Government was seeking means to economise in the use of film stock, and it is highly probable that an early opportunity will be taken to review the position arising from existing circumstances. It is authoritatively stated that the film stock problem is likely to become the biggest one of the war for the trade. Consequently it has been found necessary by Kodak to keep a record of the use to which all stock supplied is put.

No new type of film stocks has been introduced to this country during the year, although in America researches continue as regards the perfection of extremely fast emulsions. Cameramen, however, have availed themselves to the full of the Super Kodak XX, introduced last year. Results have proved eminently satisfactory, and there appears to have been little trouble in respect to the adaptation of studio illumination rendered necessary by the high speed of the film. The continued demand for the Ilford product continues to be noticeable, the advantages of the Panchromatic Stock Series II commending it to many cameramen.

Even more serious is the situation in respect to supplies of sub-standard stock. There is a world shortage of acetate base. Owing to the phenomenal increase in sub-standard work, the British technician has intensified his interest in the emulsion requirements of the sub-standard film, which demand the use of a fine grain in order to permit of much clearer recording in the higher frequencies. In America, progress in this direction has been recorded by Kodak and Dupont, and over here Ilford have introduced a fine-grain recording emulsion which has proved successful.

Ilford Ltd.—The sensitivity characteristic of the Ilford Panchromatic Stock Series II, combined with its greater latitude, extreme fineness of grain and non-halation base, contribute to a very versatile negative, the advantages of which are fully appreciated. Increased use has been made during the year of the Ilford infra-red stock, well known for its qualities of haze penetration, and which, with the aid of the special infra-red filter, is used for obtaining night effects by daylight. The positive is either acetate or nitrate, the latter possessing several good characteristics. It is obtainable in 14 tints, and the clear sound track, a special feature of this tinted stock, ensures lack of complications in sound reproduction. The new Ilford H.R., or "High Resolution" emulsion are being coated in 16-mm. films which will conveniently afford a very considerable improvement both in reduced ground noise and in improved definition of the higher sound frequencies.

Kodak, Ltd.—War conditions have prevented the introduction to this country by Kodak of new film types, and obviously it is unlikely that any great change in the company's products will take place under the prevailing circumstances. A survey of the year's productions at home and abroad indicate that during the past year the majority of productions in England and the U.S.A. were made on Kodak Plus X motion picture negative material, although a number of pictures were made using Super XX as the camera negative.

In the U.S.A. a fine grain release positive, code number 1302, is now being used in considerable quantities, and a fine grain sound recording film is also among new developments. However, the use of these fine grain materials will require extensive changes to laboratory equipment and, as previously stated, these new products will not in consequence be manufactured in this country until after the war. Despite the trying conditions, the Kodak motion picture film products maintained their world-wide reputation for uniformity and dependability.

Importance of Film-stock Salvage.—The recovery of the waste materials of the Kinematograph and photographic industries is of extreme importance at the present time. This work does not receive the publicity of such nationwide schemes as, for example, the paper salvage campaign, for the simple reason that, owing to the efforts of such firms as H. A. Gregory & Co., Ltd., the collection and treatment of waste film, etc., are already highly efficiently organised and consequently little publicity is needed. The fact remains, however, that this is salvage work of the first order.

H. A. Gregory & Co., Ltd., are specialists in this recovery, and it is of particular interest to note that the basic materials resultant from their processing of film waste are utilised in many ways directly concerned with the war. The actual film base, after treatment, is passed to firms engaged on direct Government orders, and who use the material in their work in execution of Admiralty, War Office, and Air Ministry contracts. The silver recovery also plays its part, and practically all of the metal so recovered is used for work in connection with the Admiralty.

The Trade generally knows that the removal of waste film is a real and valuable service; and it is satisfactory to learn that Gregory's are continuing this service, despite present day difficulties, and, at the same time, the war effort is being materially assisted.

Another firm which possesses every facility for the treatment of junk film and salvage is R. Arton's, Ltd., who have long been specialists in this department.

A Technical Achievement.—It was generally conceded by British production experts and critics that "Citizen Kane," the creation of Orson Welles, was a subject of major distinction, and represents the greatest advances in the technique of black-and-white production yet recorded. The film was hailed as intelligent in every phase of its production—its photography, sound, story, conception and action. Photography displays disregard for accepted practice, relying upon "stopping down" with the fullest use of super-speed emulsions. Dramatic and pictorial appeal rested upon the adoption of this "all-in focus" technique based applicably upon natural effects in place of the super illumination employed in most modern films. Indeed, in the majority of sets no overhead lighting was used—everything was lit from the floor. Deep sets with low ceilings called for lighting units with greater penetrating power than usually employed, including the new twin-arc broadside for use on Technicolor, 150-amp. arc spots and a few juniors and seniors. Lens speed was increased between half a stop and a stop, by adopting the coated lens system, which, by eliminating flare and internal reflection, resulted in marked increase in definition. On the sound side, equal thought was given to attaining distance or "directional" sound. Though experimental in most of its aspects, "Citizen Kane" provided the production industry on both sides of the Atlantic with a revolutionary new stimulus, the lessons of which it is obvious will not be ignored.

The lesson provided by the Orson Welles' film will not be ignored by British technicians. Indeed, the first experiment employing "stopping down" to $f/4.5$ was made at Denham a month or so after its presentation by cameraman Mutz Greenbaum and director Herbert Willcox in the Amy Johnson film, "They Fly Alone."

The essence of the new technique is contained in the use of the coated lens, which is regarded as an outstanding contribution to the work of the cameraman. In "Citizen Kane," the RCA "Magicote" lens was employed, the process involving the application of a thin, durable, transparent film to glass to air surfaces of anastigmatic lenses, cutting down light reflections which normally reduce lens speed. A similar process had been used in photographing "Gone with the Wind," and also by Paramount.

Bell and Howell.—There has been no essential difference in the fundamental design of the standard Bell and Howard studio camera, which is now fitted with the latest developments, the new focussing method, and the sliding device which provides a modern quick-action shift from visual focussing. The particular principles of the camera make it of great utility for background work in optical projection. The accuracy of registration provided by the camera and its durability enable it to hold its reputation as one of the most successful machines ever designed.

James A. Sinclair & Co., Ltd.—The demand for the "N.S." Auto Kine. cameras has vastly exceeded the works' output in the current year, for it has now been abundantly realised that this range of cameras is particularly suitable and useful for topical, news-reel, documentary and like work. The Model E is the latest development, and allows the fitting of lenses of focal length from 1 in. upwards, automatic lock of the film at the conclusion of a shot, and an improved releasing device for the mechanism. Each lens on the Model E is mounted on a separate panel, easily and expeditiously removable; whilst the focussing sight, which shows the full frame the right way up and the right way round, is now built in with the eye-piece brought up to a convenient point on the camera side.

It is anticipated that the Model E and the Model D will be the staple output. The latter is the Turret type, carrying four lenses, and with the unusual feature that the turret can be rotated without removing the 1 in. lens. At the moment, only priority orders can be accepted and even then delay in delivery is inevitable.

W. Vinten, Ltd.—Notwithstanding that the main resources of the company are concentrated upon the war effort, they still do not neglect the requirements of both studio and laboratory departments of the Industry. Many cameras and instruments, both special prototypes and standard, are being produced in the Vinten workshops, but their further development obviously cannot be proceeded with at the present moment. This applies, of course, to the new studio camera upon which W. Vinten have been working, which cannot yet be put into production. Considerable interest, however, is being evinced in the design, which incorporates several entirely new features, including reflex shutter. The year has shown no decrease in the popularity of their well-tried Model "H" camera, which particularly is in demand by the Services and in the Indian market. The requirements of war research have naturally also witnessed an increased demand for the firm's high-speed cameras—the 3,000 p.p.s. and 300 p.p.s.—both of which have been considerably improved. The former, which runs 400 ft. of films at full speed, has been employed for the solution of many interesting problems involving high-speed machinery. A feature of the latter camera, of course, is the comparatively lengthy shots available at high speeds—i.e., 10 seconds at 275 p.p.m. Meanwhile, Vinten's friends in the trade are assured that their service is as efficient and, as far as possible, as expedient as at any time in the past.

STUDIO ILLUMINATION.

LIGHT technique has a tendency to run in cycles, following closely, as would be expected, changes and improvements in negative stock. Previous cycles include the introduction of large-wattage bulbs to meet the needs of the early panchromatic stock and the improved and silent arcs which followed the new three-colour Technicolor. As sensitivity of emulsions made great strides, the size of the lighting unit proportionally decreased until the revolutionary 150-watt Frensel lens unit made its appearance. This first found use in Hollywood for studio portraits at the Warner plant. Coated lenses with their increased depth of focus again changed lighting technique, due entirely to the impossibility of using diffusing media on the camera—as its use reverted the lens to its f. stop prior to the application of the Fluoride coating—and new lighting methods had to be evolved. This unexpected snag was overcome either by increasing the amount of diffusion of the lighting units or using smaller units controlled by small resistances, a method now in general use both here and in Hollywood.

Fluorescent lamps have also undergone development, and many of the newer forms have found increasing use in the production field, chiefly in the make-up and art departments. Several, however, are of beneficial use in Technicolor production and have been used both for close-up work, due to the greatly diffused nature of the light emitted by these lamps, and for colour effects in musical films. Unfortunately, owing to war-time restrictions, it has been found impossible to obtain sufficient quantities for any serious application in our own studios.

The chief problem of illumination in the British studios during the past year has been the ever present one of conserving the large-wattage bulbs. Many studios have removed the small mirrors from their units, as this lengthens the life of the lamp by preventing the distortion of the bulb, the common cause of breakages. Considering the difficulties under which our technicians are now working, it says something for their ingenuity that we have been able to equal any new lighting methods introduced by Hollywood. No doubt the present year will slow down lighting advances, as Hollywood is now concerned with similar war-time restrictions to our own.

With the current decrease in general illumination and, in particular, in key lighting, many American studios appear to favour the use of many small light sources from 150 watts upwards instead of the great flood of light previously employed. Improved lighting units, faster lenses, and the faster emulsions already referred to make this trend practical. New low wattage lighting units were devised for these requirements, but the problem of balancing front lights remained. This was partly overcome by the use of small plate-type dimmers by means of which the lamps would be given a range of lighting control that eliminated the use of diffusing media. Recently, Warner Bros., Hollywood Studios, perfected a lighting intensity control board for use with small wattage lamps. It consists of a console containing a bank of dummies having built-in ballast, which meets all requirements. A detailed description of this lighting intensity control appeared in KINE. on October 2.

R. R. Beard, Ltd.—In the past two or three years this firm, one of the oldest in the business, has made many innovations both in arc and "inkie" equipment. Anticipating the trend of emulsion manufacture towards higher speed stocks, their new range of lighting units were designed to meet those needs with great success. This anticipation has been amply rewarded, and the small and baby type units are in great demand. The 500-watt baby spot, the "match-box" unit in sizes to accommodate lamps from 100-250 watts fills a real need in modern studio technique together with the special collapsible stand designed for speedy movement.

On the arc equipment further minor modifications have been made, and the crater-volt stabiliser has made the range the best in the world. The arc mechanism is completely mounted on a special end plate and held in position in the lamp-house by four master bolts provided with winged nuts. The mechanical drive for rotating the carbons is mounted at the rear of the housing on the master plate, and, being totally enclosed, ensures silence, an important point in recording. Provision is made for rotating a 16-mm. positive and 11-mm. negative copper-coated negative at 14 r.p.m. for the production of a symmetrical crater. To overcome voltage fluctuation difficulties, particularly in arc operation, an effective piece of apparatus, known as the crater-volt stabiliser, can be brought into action by external plug connection on the end control plate. A noiseless knife-action switch ensures complete silence of light changes during quiet passages of dialogue.

The range of "inkie" equipment includes a 1,000-watt spot fitted with a prismatic lens. A special fitment enables the unit to be used as low as 6 in. from the floor level for low-angle lighting. A combined lantern and spotlight provided with a heavily built arc of 80-amp. capacity and an "iris" diaphragm is another recent development.

General Electric Co., Ltd.—The range of equipment which was developed by the company after extensive research for studio work is, in spite of the many recent changes in technique, well within the requirements of modern cinematography. Stopping down on normal production has created a demand for small lighting units, and the G.E.C. range includes a 500-watt spot with a prismatic lens and a pre-set mirror setting and burning an Osram bipost lamp which is ideal for close-up and general work.

Single and twin light 750-watts, broad using heavy diffusion, can be utilised for wider field illumination with the faster stocks, and mingle well with the light from "baby" spots. Lighting units for overhead spot rails consist of the heavy-duty cast aluminium unit fitted with a 10-in. "leak-light" proof prismatic lens, using a spheroidal backing mirror in a pre-set lamp base. Two alternative mirrors are obtainable—the glass type, having a specially heavy silvering, or the metallic type, using the drawn copper heavy-gauge rhodiun-plated mirror. The latter is the one most generally used, and stands up indefinitely to rough studio treatment. Construction of the 5-kw. type is unusual, but has proved valuable in confined space; it is a square unit fitted with a 16-in. square prismatic lens, giving a 13-ft. spread at only 10 ft. When working with super-speed emulsions both this and the 2-kw. unit can be fitted with smaller wattage lamps having the same optical centres—i.e., the 2-kw. can be used with a 1-kw. bipost lamp having the same filament height from the lamp base to the centre of the mirror, as the more usual 2-kw. bipost lamp. A 2-kw. unit, now known familiarly as the "pudding basin," incorporating a special spill light device in the form of cone louvres fitted between the lamp and the special diffused front glass, was originally an experimental device designed to produce light of very high intensity over a comparatively large area from a long throw. It has, however, proved highly successful for general set lighting in normal production, particularly in small studios.

Overhead bank lighting is still a major requirement in studio practice, and the G.E.C. angle type, using 12 1,000 or 1,500 watt lamps is ideal.

Mole-Richardson (England), Ltd.—The activities of this well-known firm of studio lighting specialists have been curtailed owing to the war. No new equipment is being manufactured until after the end of hostilities, although research work has not been neglected. Meanwhile, the line department continues to function to meet the demand for those existing types of equipment which have proved so efficient, both in this country and in America. This equipment includes the "Du-Arc" (Type 40), an improved twin-arc broad-side lamp, which has been extensively used at Denham. This lamp gives a perfectly flickerless light of high intensity and contributes to the production efficiency by burning continuously for long periods without need to adjust or replace the carbons. The lamp can be burned in any position and is silent in operation. For floor work, a pedestal has been evolved, which has a range of height adjustment from a minimum of 4 ft. 6 in. from the floor to a maximum of 8 ft. The well-known M.-R. "H.I. Arcs" and "Solarspots" are other interesting units.

SPECIAL EFFECTS WORK.

THE advances in the technical departments of British studios have been the most remarkable feature of the year's operations, particularly when it is remembered the circumstances under which our technicians labour in the present emergency. These developments have received the highest meed of praise from American and Canadian production experts. An instance of this was forthcoming when the Goldsmith production of "The Stars Look Down" was shown. Lighting by Mutz Greenbaum, camerawork by Henry Harris, and art direction by James Carter were all highly praised, with the agreeable inference that technically the production is on a par with the best Hollywood product.

The war time restrictions have also afforded opportunities to the special effects workers of which they have fully availed themselves. They have shown what they can do in the way of supplying backgrounds and an authentic atmosphere in circumstances which restrict exterior work and the curtailment of those production facilities which normally would be essential. Since the war these deficiencies have been largely made good by the process technicians, who have also been called upon to deal with a wide variety of film themes ranging from the amazing trickwork of the Technicolor production "The Thief of Bagdad" to every type of war activity, of which the bombing scenes in "Ships with Wings" occur as outstanding. These results show that technically our studios can turn out first class trick work; often poor equipment has proved no bar to exceptional photographic work. Yet the need for development is obvious, particularly in back projection, which is an essential, particularly during the war. Twin and triple B.P. projectors enabling the use of double-size screens would prove an invaluable investment. Excellent as some recent results have proved, further experimental work should be undertaken in regard to miniature projection, etc., worked out with the optical printer. It would be helpful if the Producers Association were to sponsor a system whereby special apparatus for trick effects might be built at one of the large plants and operated as a general service installation.

The demand for better and bigger sets, coupled with the great dearth of materials, has given a headache to many art directors, who have consequently been driven to many surprising departures from accepted practice. When Paul Sherriff and Carmen were working on "Freedom Radio" in the early war-days they successfully experimented with painted perspective settings adapted to modern lighting and camera conditions. By a skilful combination of perspective plaster-work and painted set pieces many extraordinarily good large-scale settings resulted, the economic advantages of which were not lost on other art directors similarly placed, who have since successfully adopted the Sherriff-Carmen technique. Notwithstanding, there is still too great detail involved into sets which is never photographed and which could be dispensed with by closer collaboration between cameraman and art director.

And in this connection another development which frees the technician from the vagaries of the elements encountered in exteriors is the cloud-photography apparatus perfected by 20th Century-Fox, which enables cloud effects to be obtained as and when they are required by means of a panoramic attachment. This may be employed either outdoors or in the studio in association with a sky-backing cloth. Another interesting effects equipment is the "ripple" machine, which won an Academy award for Warners, and provides an illusion of sparkling water. Both these methods of introducing cloud and water effects to interior shots were described in the KINE, of November 27.

Details have been published of recent B.P. experiments, and in particular those of a system for which a high degree of reliability is claimed. This automatically phases the shutters of camera and projector and eliminates delays in lining-up and resetting of the equipment. The wastage due to false takes is limited and ensures other factors which are essential for economic working and fast and reliable operation.

One of the most valuable mechanical aids to trick-work evolved in British studios is the universal camera mount invented by Sydney Howell, head of the Ealing camera department. It provides a means of "panning" with combined foreground miniature and line action, and can also be employed in normal floor practice where shots hitherto involving three-dimensional movement of the camera are required.

LABORATORY WORK.

AN essential factor in the great improvement already remarked in British film quality has been contributed by the process worker to whose credit is due some of the many highly important technical advances which have been developed in our laboratories under conditions which surely must be the reverse of helpful in research and experimental work. Mention of one example of laboratory advance was made last year; since then there has been a wider adoption of the Olympic "fogging" process now known as "Otensification," which has opened many possibilities of filming without the use of high-power lighting units. In one or two pictures of the year the system has been employed for shortening "black-out" sequences in circumstances where, under normal exterior conditions, it would be impossible to shoot. Studio tests proved that light from an ordinary 3½-volt torch could be photographed. The new process was applied by Bernard Knowles, cameraman of "Unpublished Story," which also needed "black-out" sequences. The shots were subjected to three stages of processing. The results in the first and second stages, a gradual improvement in the definition, but in the final stage, cars were seen quite clearly and faces of many passers-by were even visible in some detail. Normal Kodak Super Double X was employed in this and other extremely successful experiments, which have opened up a tremendous field for photographing pictures under adverse lighting conditions.

The solution of many of the problems in screen definition and sound reproduction lies in the use of fine-grain emulsion, but the difficulties of printing and developing and processing presented considerable snags. Research has been conducted into this subject by Paramount technicians. It was demonstrated that regardless of the inherently high resolving power of standard emulsions, a loss occurs when a negative with one granular structure is printed in contact with a positive emulsion of similar grain structure. It was also recognised that in projection the finer grain materials gave sharper definition with a decrease in graininess. Experiments produced early in 1939 an emulsion which permitted the commercial use of fine grain for composite release printing with the consequent benefits of improvement in the image definition, a great smoothness of quality along with a sound record having a greatly increased signal-to-noise ratio. In adapting the fine-grain material for printing composite release prints, the two essential requirements were, first, a printing equipment which had sufficient light intensity to permit printing the slower type stock and, secondly, the development of this stock in normal positive solution used for processing standard positive emulsions. Both these requirements were met by Paramount who completely readjusted their laboratory equipment and now use fine grain for all American release prints. This means that every print is in fact a master positive of such a quality that it can be used for obtaining a lavender negative. Generally, the improvements make for brighter screen and better photographic quality although [there still exists a slight colouration. On the laboratory side, the changes to standard equipment include the use of new fine-grain developers, new formulas and the adaptation of the Bell & Howell printers to the new light system which, as the stock is slower, demands four times the usual intensity, and involves the use of mercury vapour lamps.

A reciprocal agreement was concluded between Olympic and Kay Laboratories for mutual aid in the event of one or the other plants being put out of operation by enemy action. The total weekly amount of film handled by both plants is in the neighbourhood of 3,200,000 ft. It will be remembered that a similar arrangement was agreed to last year when Denham and G. Humphries, Ltd., became associated.

A new treatment of prints was introduced this year by Olympic Laboratories under the title of Olympax, which comprises a system of chemically seasoning the gelatine, which becomes impervious to scratches, and prevents shrinking or swelling when in contact with the heat of the projection lamp. Not only does the process, it is claimed, militate against subsequent damage, but it will ensure a longer life to the print and save time which might be lost in replacing faulty prints. Moreover, there will be no need for any waxing or other treatment of the film by the projectionist.

COLOUR.

SO far as the British Industry is concerned, Technicolor is the only colour process to be considered, for its other competitors in the commercial theatre have not been visible these two years. The reason for the disappearance of Dufaycolor, the British process, is understandable, although regrettable, because the introduction just before the war of the new base, which has been yet further improved, gave promise of a most successful application to the requirements of the producer. We must be content with the assurance that while the unrivalled manufacturing facilities of Dufay-Chromex are being employed in the service of the nation, the continuance of research along possible lines of development will result in the successful resumption of operations in the post-war period. But the same excuse cannot hold good for those many other colour systems originating from the States, a few of which found their way to our screens generally to the unfavourable comment from even uncritical audiences. The reason must be assumed in the vast development made in the Technicolor process which apparently has been adopted practically as standard by every major American production firm. Last year no fewer than 19 subjects were presented in the new Technicolor process, the public reaction to which has definitely established colour as an integral attraction and, what is more, a substantial box-office asset. This is proved by the fact of a tentative schedule of 15 pictures set for production in this medium, one firm, Paramount, proposes to make six. Whether the American entry to the war will affect this figure is at present impossible to determine.

British producers cannot be said to have followed American practice in this respect, doubtless because of the need for economy and also because of obvious restrictive circumstances. It has, however, been successfully employed in the production of many short subjects, including, for the first time it is thought, an advertising film. These have indicated the progress made with the system in this country. Feature production in colour seemed postponed for the duration, although several pictures have been produced the theme and character of which appeared essentially suitable for the purpose. At one time the making of a colour film of an actual R.A.F. operational flight was considered, but nothing came of it. At the end of the year, however, the announcement was made of the proposal to produce a film of "Handel" in Technicolor, an enterprise which it is hoped will reap the success it deserves.

An important development in the Technicolor process has been generally adopted by Hollywood. It involves the preliminary shooting in 16-mm. Kodachrome and enlarging to 35 mm. Most tests of colour films are done this way—i.e., shooting combined sound and colour. Its use is claimed to avoid the huge demand upon film stocks of the relatively high lighting costs which the triple film camera requires in the studio. The method adopted is to "blue up" the Kodachrome negative (which is of the integral layer type) into three selectively filtered colour separation negatives from which the Technicolor matrices are made in the usual way for the printing of the three-colour positive. The resultant 35-mm. picture is stated to be of good tonal range as the result of control in the laboratory, blacks and whites being uncommonly good with a worthwhile range of colour, although it is not claimed that it is equal to the best 35-mm. Technicolor prints. At the moment the use of the process has been confined to short subjects, but its extension to feature films will undoubtedly be effected after further research.

Dufay-Chromex, Ltd.—Although little has been heard in normal trade circles of Dufaycolor, research and development with consequent improvements have proceeded at a very much higher rate than perhaps would have been the case during a comparable period of peacetime. The fact is that, after the conclusion of this war, the 35 mm. Dufaycolor process will reappear more mature, considerably altered in appearance and very much the better.

It can, therefore, be stated unequivocally that Dufaycolor has not stood still, but, on the contrary, has used a period of abnormal growth to round off roughnesses, eliminate admitted faults, and to make marked progress towards the achievement which those who always believed in it knew would finally emerge. Unfortunately, the state of affairs is such that it cannot be divulged in any detail either what Dufay-Chromex have been up to, nor in what respect the product has been altered, because the plain fact is that the Government is at present the sole customer, and that is that!

Before the war we all know that the process and certain outstanding merits and equally outstanding faults—a state of affairs applicable to any process of colour photography—the most serious defect was traceable to the employment of cellulose acetate base. This is no longer essential, and it can be announced that after the war all Dufaycolor 35 mm. film will be manufactured on normal nitrate base. This change will at one stroke eliminate the principal criticisms which have been in the past levelled at the process. Furthermore, a finer screen, higher speed and a colour rendering beyond reproach is promised.

SOUND RECORDING AND EQUIPMENT.

IT is a notable feature of British technical achievement during the war that the quality of recording has not only been preserved but actually improved, notwithstanding the considerable difficulties under which technicians and studio staff have had to work. The three main recording specialists, British Acoustic, RCA and Western Electric, have performed prodigies in keeping up the high level of recording, and their efforts have received full collaboration of the laboratory people. The workmanship put into the equipment has successfully withstood the effects of blast from many near hits, and in spite of these and other war-time circumstances which have thrown increased responsibilities on staff and installations there have occurred practically no instances of production hold-up due to sound failure. Credit is largely due in this respect to the continued maintenance of efficient service arrangements by the various systems concerned. No basic changes in the principles of the equipment are recorded, although several developments have been introduced to meet the requirements of service sound recording units. RCA reports the equipment of the Riverside Studios at Hammersmith with one of their latest installations, and this concern has also introduced a new type of microphone.

Considerable improvements have taken place in the design of Osram Exciter and Recording Lamps. Their uniformity of performance has been advanced, and smaller tolerances are now standardised in respect to filament position and filament dimensions. RCA Photophone, Ltd., extensively use Osram lamps in their numerous sound-reproducing equipments.

A new pick-up, developed by P. G. A. Voight, was demonstrated in May. The design embodies a reduction of mass so that the inertia is less and the reduction also of stiffness so that the point will more easily follow the record groove. The pick-up is of the moving-coil type and proved to have an excellent frequency response.

There has been some trouble encountered in obtaining revision of the following published details of the sound recorder equipment in general use, and in some instances it has been necessary to repeat the description used previously.

G. B. Equipments, Ltd.—A complete range of British Acoustic Recording Equipments, suitable for studio, location and newsreel requirements is available. These are of 100 per cent. British origin, and the supply of spare and replacement parts is unlikely to be affected by war conditions. No new types of equipment have been introduced during the past year, although development has proceeded continuously in order to further improve the already high standards of performance. For studio work two types of equipment are offered :

- Type FRM2S, a "de luxe" equipment for A.C. mains ;
- Type FRMIS, the standard equipment for A.C. mains.

All three are characterised by "Full Range" frequency response, "noiseless" recording and the B.A. patented "multi-track" variable area sound track.

In the design of the type FRM2S equipment no effort has been spared to produce results of the finest quality and to facilitate operation. The rack mounting system is employed, and salient features are: Negligible distortion factor throughout; signal integrating circuit controlling the "noiseless" bias, giving nearly perfect background suppression; dual power and peak level volume indicators, to give a precise indication of modulation level during recording; and effective automatic stabilisation to provide freedom from the effects of wide variations in mains supply voltage. Microphones of the small-button condenser and ribbon types are provided, together with a microphone mixing unit of ultra-modern design. Sound monitoring provision consists of moving-coil headphones (in the studio) and a small "Duosonic" speaker system (in the Recording room). The monitor input may be operated from a photo-cell pick-up in the recording light beam (as a check on recorder performance) or direct from the main amplifier. The type FRMIS equipment is less elaborate, but is built on similar lines to the above.

For newsreel and similar work the type ND portable equipment is available; recording sound and picture on the same negative. This outfit is designed for compactness and portability, but nevertheless, embodies such useful features as "noiseless" recording, two microphone inputs and inter-communication telephones.

The advantages of the automatic volume compressor unit, which has been available for some time and which enables any one of a pre-determined range of compression characteristics to be applied when the occasion demands, does not appear to have been fully realised by all producers. When recording conversation between several persons, for example, the contrast between the speaking levels of the artists may be too great for maximum intelligibility, and the compressor is then brought in to reduce this contrast. Although the intelligibility is improved, dramatic emphasis is not noticeably affected, and at no time is one conscious of the presence of compression. The unit may also be operated as a peak limiter, in order to reduce the possibility of over-modulation on loud transients.

Recent improvements have also been made in the British Acoustic range of re-recording and dubbing apparatus, which includes sound and picture projectors with one or more interlocked soundheads, separate dubbing heads, pre-amplifiers, multi-channel mixers, filters, and equalisers, etc.

Leavers-Rich & Co., Ltd.—War-time equipment has been directed primarily towards the prompt fulfilment of Government requirements, and the design of sound-recording equipment has only been modified in minor details. The standard sound-on-film equipment produces the "double-width push-pull" type of variable area track, and its extreme latitude in processing has proved of great value in the difficult conditions under which most film laboratories are at present operating. The unit-built amplifier equipment makes the system equally suitable for studio or location use. A completely equipped mobile unit installed in a special van is available for hire, a useful feature being the ease with which the equipment, complete with power supply, may be unloaded for use in special locations, such as on board ship. The increasing use of sound-on-disc recording equipment under war-time conditions has led to a number of improvements making for ease of operation, and reliability under difficult working conditions. Recent installations include those for ordnance factories and a mobile recording unit for E.N.S.A., which includes two recording machines and its own power supply. The latter equipment is now playing an important part in National Service entertainment for the Forces overseas.

Among the notable contributions in 1941 by R.C.A. to the technique of sound recording has been the introduction of "Electronic" mixing, which has already proved a noteworthy addition to High Fidelity sound, equally, but not more important, than the changeover from white light to "ultra-violet" light recording.

Experience has shown that there are certain kinds of original material that have to be recorded, which contain a volume range unsuitable for release in the theatres. When a faithful recording of this type of material is played in the average theatre the loud level passages are either too loud or the low level passages too low. If the gain of the reproducing system is set for the low level sounds, the high level ones seem to be exaggerated in loudness, giving a false "blattness" or "bouncy" quality, while, if the gain is set for the loud passages, the low levels drop below the point of intelligibility. Not only can the intelligibility of the wide volume range material be increased due to the smoothing out action of compression, as shown above, but the average level of the reproduced sound will be raised closer to the peak level, and higher, above film and reproducing system noises. Finally, the overall effect of "compression" (varionic mixing), properly used, is to increase the "smoothness" of recorded dialogue.

A new long-shot microphone designed in RCA laboratories is 10 ft. long, and is termed "sound-perspective." It is remarkably sensitive and directional, and is claimed as producing effects as they would be heard by an audience. It is being field-tested on Hollywood lots.

RCA Photophone, Ltd.—While "panoramic" sound—owing to prevailing conditions—cannot yet be made available either to British recorder licensees or theatres equipped by RCA Photophone, Ltd. (first utilised by Walt Disney in "Fantasia"), RCA Recorder licensees have not been backward in taking advantage of advances brought about by the RCA Manufacturing Co. Inc., in America, notably, the new RCA Uni-Directional microphone and the introduction of electronic mixing in recording and re-recording. As to the new RCA Uni-Directional microphone—a welcome addition to existing RCA sound pick-up unit range—both in America and this country, it is recognised as standard. It may be operated at a distance from its amplifier and is arranged for line impedances of 50 ohms and 250 ohms. The even frequency response characteristic gives an added smoothness to dialogue recording, whilst its directive qualities allow greater freedom of movement on "sets," and also a reduction of reverberation when compared with any other conventional microphone. "Electronic mixing" has proved a valuable addition to all equipments now in operation, namely, recorder and re-recorder channels of Warner Bros. Teddington Studios; H.M. Minister of Information, Crown-Film Unit, Denham; Sound City Studios, Shepperton-on-Thames; Ealing Studios, W.5; N.B.H., Ltd., Rock Studios, Boreham Wood, Elstree; and Associated British Picture Corporation, Ltd., Studios, Welwyn Garden City, Herts. During the past year, A.B.P.C., Ltd., Welwyn Studios, have installed the latest type RCA theatre reproducer and review equipment, including two super "Simplex" rear shutter projectors, two "Strong" arc lamps, synchronous projector driving motors and pre-view attachments with upper film magazines. "March of Time," as also Spectator Short Films, Ltd., both operate RCA light portable recorders.

The newest Recorder licensee of RCA is Jack Buchanan, at Riverside Studios, Hammersmith, W.6, where the new RCA installation provides highly efficient facilities for recording, re-recording, scoring and review by most modern RCA ultra-violet recorders, incorporating electronic mixing. Two RCA recorder channels are available with considerable flexibility, inasmuch as either may be switched at a moment's notice to either of the two sound stages, to the recording theatre equipment or for special scoring, the installation having been carried out in such a manner that RCA mobile units may be used without any inconvenience.

Western Electric Co., Ltd.—The Western Electric condenser microphone has proved a valuable addition to recorder equipment. Although of small dimensions, it is more robust than previous transmitters of the condenser type, and has a very even frequency characteristic. The microphone fits directly on to its associated amplifier, and the complete assembly can be accommodated in the usual microphone boom mounting, as it is both small in size, and light in weight. Western Electric recording equipment is installed in the following, British studios: British Movietone News, London; British Paramount News North Acton; D. & P. Studios, Ltd., Denham and Pinewood; Merton Park Studios, Merton Park, Wimbledon.

The Western Electric 16-mm. recorder has been designed to meet the demand for a machine that would enable sound technicians to record 16-mm. negatives with the same facility and quality as with 35-mm. stock. Direct recordings may be made independently, and by electrically interlocking the machine with a 35-mm. recorder both sizes of negative may be made simultaneously. It can also be used to re-record from existing 35-mm. product, thus permitting the introduction of such changes in frequency characteristics as experience has shown to be desirable for reproduction on current 16-mm. projector mechanisms. The re-recording can be made directly from a positive print or from a negative by use of the recently developed negative playback. This latter apparatus permits the immediate reproduction of negative variable density sound tracks and offers all of the oral advantages that would be given by a device capable of permitting one to view a photographic negative as a finished positive print if such a device were available. Direct headset or loudspeaker monitoring is accomplished by means of a photocell monitoring amplifier contained in a compartment directly back of the modulator. Numerous original sound films and recordings recently produced on the new recorder prove that 16-mm. is now an entirely practical medium for non-theatrical subjects. The recorded quality approaches that of commercial 35-mm. film closely.

STEREOPHONY AND MULTIPLE REPRODUCING SYSTEMS.

THE potentialities of "stereophony," the sound recording and reproducing process which, by means of multiple-speaker systems, simulates bi-aural reception, is receiving much attention in the United States. The essential differences between the reproduction requirements of dialogue and music, choruses, etc., are pointed out in a recent B.K.S. abstract. Speech is produced by approximately a point source while the latter is one of large area. The technique for dialogue scenes is to play almost all the action in medium or close shots, and in order to improve both illusion and intelligibility it is desirable that the sound should appear to come just in front of the screen. Music and sound effects present an entirely different problem, the auditor is interested more in a spatial effect than in localising the source of sound. Since it appears that those sequences that may require increased reproducer volume are also benefited by acoustic spread, Vitasound devised a system by which as the control tone was increased it would first provide acoustic spread by fading in supplementary side speakers and then control the volume of the entire system. Thus, in the case of dialogue the central speaker operates at normal level with the side speakers off and for music, control signal amplitude, turning on the side speakers increases the volume of all the speakers. which is actually recorded in the perforation margin of the film. Such a track can be recorded and printed very easily and can be reproduced by a very simple and inexpensive attachment to the sound-head. By requiring only that all prints not recorded for control track reproduction have a clear sprocket-hole area, complete interchangeability of prints is obtainable. It is pointed out that any modern reproducer system can be modified to provide multiple-speaker reproduction, and the improvement obtained is a real one.

Western Electric.—A detailed description of the system of stereophonic recording and reproduction developed by the Bell laboratories and Western Electric, appeared in the October issue of the S.M.P.E. Journal. The general requirements are first discussed for the ideal recording-reproducing system, as determined by the characteristics of hearing of a typical group of auditors in a theatre. Quantitative values are set down as ideal objectives. Although the components of the transmission assembly—loud speakers, amplifiers, etc., were available to meet the requirements, no recording medium was known which would record the wide dynamic range of intensity levels, which the objectives indicated as being necessary. The system was briefly described in a recent B.K.S. Bulletin, which explained that the wide-intensity range was met by using a "compandor" (compressor-expander) in the electrical system. Reasons were given for the selection of the particular "compandor" used, for the employment of variable area rather than variable density, and for using three instead of a greater or lesser number of channels. A description is also given of the "enhancement" feature which makes it possible to re-record for the original recording, at the same time realising any desirable changes in the dynamic range or frequency response in each of the three channels. The electrical system is described, including methods of noise reduction, maximum suppression of noise and freedom from distortion, volume control in relation to pre-recording and reproduction; film propelling mechanism (the machines are designed to handle film in 2,000-ft. lengths), the light valve; equalisation of resonance-region response. The mechanical design with several interesting features, among which are mechanical robustness, protection against dirt and moisture, built-in ribbon and optical adjustments, and an optical system integral with the valve structure.

RCA.—Meanwhile RCA have adapted the lessons learned in the design of "Fantasound" to the perfection of a simpler reproducing system, which, while possessing the improved sound characteristics of the original, will be within the reach of all. This is considered to have been achieved by the RCA Panoramic Sound System, for which only a single film will be required and entails very little adaption of the existing reproducing system, the main difference being the recording track. Extra sound recording and printing costs will be negligible. Some months ago an RCA Panoramic Sound System was made available to Hollywood film producers, and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, so that they might study it with the view of arriving at uniform film standards for all productions. Since the characteristics of the reproducer system must dovetail with these recording standards, no general sale of RCA Panoramic Sound Systems will be made until such standards are set. In the meantime, a limited number of experimental installations, under way or contemplated, in key Hollywood and New York theatres, will provide further valuable data.

Vitasound.—Details of the Warner process "Vitasound" indicate a similarity to the simpler form of the RCA system. This also requires but a single picture-and-sound film, and the less involved mechanism needed provides a practical alternative to the more elaborate equipment which, although less perfect theoretically, is capable of superficially similar illusions. Three sets of speakers are needed, but they are fed through two amplifier channels and no auditorium speakers are used. Existing sound-heads and the amplifier channels need modification, the latter for variable-area operation; a control panel for handling the variable-gain control currents would have to be installed. Volume expansion is secured by means of a control track, which is actually recorded in the perforation margin of the film.

RELIABILITY EFFICIENCY INTEGRITY

Extract from the Kinematograph Year Book, 1941.

"J. Rowland Sales has built up a large business in estate transfers which, in respect to the Kinema alone, has represented a turnover exceeding £4,000,000 during recent years."

OFFICES: FARADAY HOUSE,

LONDON, W.C.2.

Phone No.: TEMple Bar 2893.

An important client's tribute:—

"By the confidence which he has inspired in his clients and by the moderation of his charges, punctuality in discharging his negotiations, simplicity and clearness of his dealings and the intelligent way he carries them out, the success he has attained was through the happy application of the best principles of commercial strategy not audacity, but by prudence and perseverance."

Taking a back seat

The Cinemas which had the foresight to specify Harrison Cinema Seating are fortunate, because such installations, with their reliable springing and trustworthy workmanship, will be welcoming patrons for many years to come. Now, alas! we are compelled to make our own particular product take a back seat, for there is a more profound job of work on hand and we are doing our best to get it finished quickly. We still promise to give your inquiries our keenest attention, but ask you to excuse us from guaranteeing quick delivery.

kinema technician

THE IDEAL KINEMA

the technical section of which is under the direction of R. H. CRICKS, F.R.P.S.

Covers the whole field of the projectionist's work and gives all the information a technician needs.

Read the following extracts from a recent unsolicited testimonial:—

"The I.K. is ideal."

"The articles . . . were much appreciated by my juniors."

"It is strange how black-and-white is more convincing than lectures."

"The I.K. is the paper for the 'Projectionist.'"

"I find it most convenient for one's pocket."

"Please send me . . . copies until further notice."
